

"T-Night," April 11, Census Will Be Taken of Guests In All Nation's Hotels

In football, it's the "T-formation," but in Census parlance it is "T-night." Tuesday night, April 11, has been so designated by the United States Bureau of the Census. On that evening, special efforts to enumerate all transients will be made as a feature of the 17th Decennial census of the nation. In cooperation with hotel managements, a special individual questionnaire will be distributed to all guests to use in reporting facts about themselves for the record of the 1950 census, according to W. Lamont Brown, of Southern Pines, Eighth district census supervisor.

Officials of the Census Bureau and the American Hotel association have had conferences to further plans for a successful "T-night" operation. Hotel association leaders have passed the word along to member hotels explaining procedures and urging their cooperation.

home and abroad," asserts Mr. night" enumeration provides that representatives of the Census Bureau will be stationed at desks in the hotel lobby and other suitable locations where hotel guests can call to obtain assistance in filling out their census forms if they require help. Meanwhile, copies of the reporting form, known as the Individual Census Report, will have been distributed to the hotel guests, either to their rooms or in their key boxes at the hotel clerk's desk. The guests will be requested to fill them out immediately and return them that evening to the Census desk in the lobby.

In instances where the described arrangement cannot be used, the Census Bureau will send a crew of enumerators into the hotel on the evening of "T-night" for a room-by-room canvass. In such event, the enumeration will be made in the same manner as in the house-to-house visitations for enumerating the non-transient population.

Deane Expresses Satisfaction In District Reports

Will Stick On Job During Heavy Legislative Schedule

Representative C. B. Deane of the Eighth district on Saturday in his office in Washington expressed his sincere personal appreciation for the excellent reports that he has received from throughout the district since he made his announcement as a candidate for election in the Democratic primary of May 27.

Mr. Deane said that within the past two weeks he has been in contact with each of the 12 counties of the district and is exceedingly pleased with the responses that have come to him.

The Congressman pointed out that during the past several weeks the Congress has been faced with its heaviest legislative schedule of the year which included cotton acreage allotments, the Marshall plan, and the several important hearings on the Omnibus Appropriations bill which comes before the house this week. Mr. Deane said that he feels the people back home want first of all to know that he is paying close attention to the legislative duties in Congress to which they have elected him.

"These are critical days both at the general plan for the "T-Deane, "and I am determined to discharge faithfully and conscientiously the responsibilities that now face me as a member of the Congress."

Mr. Deane went on to report that he expects to wage an active campaign in every section of the district, as his legislative schedule will permit.
