Getting Ready For Visit of N. C. Symphony Orchestra

Children of a North Carolina school made the model orchestra shown above out of pipe-cleaners, as part of their preliminary studies of orchestra make-up and placement before a visit by the N. C. Symphony. The picture shows members of the orchestra inspecting the model.

School Children Study Musical Works In Preparation For Symphony Concert

All Schools Will Be Represented In May 3 Audience

Children representing all Moore County schools will be guests free of charge at the concert to be given Wednesday afternoon, May 3, at the Southern Pines school auditorium by the N. C. Symphony orchestra.

The concert will precede that to be held at night for the general public. The visit of the Symphony to Southern Pines will be made under auspices of the Sandhills Music association.

In preparation for the children's concert Mrs. R. L. Chandler, Jr., teacher of music in the Southern Pines elementary school, has delivered study material to H. L. Thomas, county superintendent, for distribution to all principals of elementary schools throughout the county.

Children in the fifth, sixth and seventh grades will be thoroughly briefed on selections to be played at the concert. Study of the instruments to be utilized, their placement, stories about the composers and music, also recordings will help familiarize the children with the selections which they will hear. In this manner the music they will hear will be given deeper significance for them, and lasting interest.

Actually seeing the music played, as well as hearing it, increases the educational value, according to educators, who say, "A child learns best through his eyes." This is one great reason for the importance of the N. C. Symphony in the cultural life of the state and especially of its young people.

What the N. C. Symphony has meant to the children of North Carolina was proved last season when 150,000 boys and girls in all parts of the state had the privilege of attending the concerts. Today Bach, Beethoven and Brahms are familiar names to these children, exerting a lasting influence on their cultural life.

Under study in Moore County schools, in preparation for the concert, are the Ballet Suite by Gluck and Mottel Don Juan ballet, Iphigenie en Aulide, Orfeo et Eurydice ballet, Iphigenie en Armeide ballet; Purcell's Trumpet Prelude; LeRoy Anderson's Sleigh Ride, Huckleberry Finn and Mardi Gras from the Mississippi Suite by Ferde Grofe; also two arrangements of Yankee Doodle, one by Chester William Billings, the other by Morton Gould. In addition Dr. Benjamin Swalin, conductor of the N. C. Symphony, has promised a surprise selection.

Radio Station WEEB will broadcast the afternoon concert. Since the auditorium holds only 720 and the county has thousands of schoolchildren, it is anticipated that many of them will be "listening in."

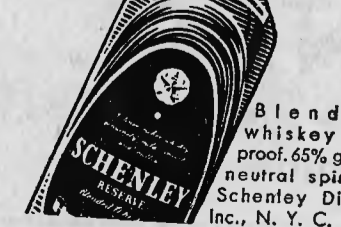

Tickets for the evening concert are on sale at the Barnum Realty company in Southern Pines.

Tennis Association Out For Members, Has Summer Plans

The imminent construction of two new tennis courts on the town park has given impetus to activities of the Sandhills Tennis association of Southern Pines, which has gone ahead with plans for the 1950 season, starting with a membership drive.

With big plans afoot for the 1950 season, the Sandhills Tennis association is pushing a membership drive, for additional members and funds to promote enjoyment of the game.

Both players and non-players are desired on the membership rolls, said Francis E. Stubbs, president.

Events are being planned for communitywide pleasure, definitely promotional in nature, and the support of the community is being asked. Contact may be made through President Stubbs or any of the other officers—Harry Lee Brown, Jr., vice president; Miss Betsy Barnum, secretary; Norris L. Hodgkins, Jr., treasurer; the Rev. C. V. Covell, Angelo Montasanti, Jr., H. L. Brown, Francis de Costa, Robert N. Page, 3rd, Edward King and C. N. Page, directors.

The association expects to enter a strong team in the Eastern Carolina Tennis association's City League, and plans on bringing the League title to the Sandhills.

Plans are also in the making for more play at home, including a second Moore County tournament and Sandhills Open, following the successful events held last summer. With four courts available, many more players can be expected to enter, the tennis leaders say.

Also, possession of four courts will mean that the local tournaments can be held on an official basis.

Pyramid play will go on throughout the season, and a handicap tournament is also planned.
