

Public Attention Called To Solicitation Law; Two Violations Noted In May

During the month of May licenses were granted by the State Board of Public Welfare to nine organizations to conduct fund-raising campaigns through public solicitation, according to information received from Dr. Ellen Winston, commissioner, by the Moore County welfare department this week.

Six of these organizations were re-licensed in accordance with provisions of the state solicitation law. These are the American Legion, Department of North Carolina, with headquarters in Raleigh; the Carolina Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists at Charlotte; the Disabled American Veterans, Department of North Carolina, with headquarters at Durham; the Lions club of Raleigh; the Morganton Girl Scout Council at Morganton; and the Thomas Wolfe Memorial association at Asheville.

Three organizations, namely the Lions club of Morehead City, the Seamen's Church Institute of New York and the United Cerebral Palsy association, also with headquarters in New York City, received their licenses to solicit funds for the first time.

The total amount which these nine organizations will seek from the public in North Carolina approximates $283,391.00.

It was also announced that during May, the business firm of Ripley's "Believe It or Not" Tours solicited funds for the national office of the Disabled American Veterans at Cincinnati, Ohio, through two trailer exhibits which visited the larger towns in the state. The donations and contributions sought through these exhibits were in violation of the state statute, as this exhibit had not been licensed in accordance with the requirements of the state solicitation law.

The Russian Bible society with headquarters in Washington, D. C., solicited citizens of this state by direct appeal of representatives. The State Board of Public Welfare is pointing out that solicitations of this organization also are in violation of the North Carolina solicitation law, since the organization has failed to meet the requirements for a license as specified in the state statute.

Baby Beeves Will Be Auctioned At Carthage Thursday

First Fat Stock Show and Sale For Moore County

By W. G. Caldwell
Asst. County Farm Agent

Moore county is to have its first Fat Stock show and sale Thursday at the Marion Livery stable in Carthage. The show will start at 10 a.m. and sale at 11 a.m. We will have 10 fat beef type steers sold at auction at this sale.

For several years, the agricultural workers in the county have promoted a livestock and pasture program. We have made good progress with the pastures and dairy cattle. We have hundreds of acres of improved pastures of ladino clover and orchard grass. We have eight new Grade A dairies with several more to be built soon; but we have made very little progress with our beef cattle. To help promote our beef cattle, the Carolina Bank is sponsoring a baby beef project with the 4-H clubs of this county.

I know many of you do not know what a baby beef is, so I am going to describe one of these calves. To begin with, we select a calf of pure beef type, such as Black Angus, White Face or Hereford, or Shorthorn. These calves are on milk until they are about five months old. They are then put on full feed of corn and hay, with enough protein supplement to make a balanced ration. They are given every bite of this feed that they will eat until they are 14 to 16 months old. A calf fed in this way will be what we call "finished out"—that is, it will have about all the fat it will take. All of the lean will have fine fat laced in it to make meat tender, juicy yet firm, and sweet flavored. Baby beef is recognized by all packing houses such as Swift, Armour, White, etc., as being the choicest of all beef.

In the past we have taken our baby beef calves to Greensboro to sell them, but have had so many requests to sell them locally, so the citizens of Moore county can get some of this beef, that we have decided to have a local show and sale.

We are placing 10 of these calves on sale at auction to the highest bidder. I have made arrangements with one of the local packing plants to dress the calf, chill it out, and cut it in any way you wish at a nominal charge—if you so desire.

This is your chance to get a choice beef to put in your home freezer or locker plant. In case you want only one-half of a calf, I can arrange it if you will contact me. For those who do not have freezer space, many of the local meat markets will have this beef for sale. Call up your meat market and engage a cut. You will find this to be the best beef you ever did eat. You will also be helping promote the beef industry of this county.

Course Improved At Mid Pines Club

Frank Cosgrove, aided by James Nichols (who is recovering from a cracked rib) has been making many improvements on The Mid Pines golf course. For the purpose a bulldozer which knocks down trees and moves dirt wholesale is being employed.

The tee at the first has been widened to 35 yards and lengthened. A new tee at the short second has added 20 yards to the hole.

At the third, a bunker 50 feet long has been placed at the extreme left of the fairway to stop balls from rolling into the woods. A new bunker has been built behind the fifth green. The eighth tee has been widened 20 yards.

At the short 11th, the tee has been made four times as large as the original and on the same level. At 13, the new tee is 30 yards back, making the hole 240 yards and a real testing tee shot for those wishing to get home. A new tee, 35 yards back has made the 14th, 360 yards and the long 15th, is now longer from the new tee, forty yards back of the previous one. The hole is 510 yards.

New sand, of a softer texture will fill the bunkers when play is resumed in October, with Jules Boros taking over as professional.

Mr. Cosgrove said he is pleased with the improvements on the course and thinks the new practice grounds, with three tees large enough to take care of 15 golfers, will be popular. The land has been cleared and a view of the lake adds to the natural beauty from the new tees.

The Liberty Bell, most revered of all our historical relics, is the official insignia of the U. S. Savings Bonds Independence drive—May 15 to July 4.
