

THEATRES
Carolina

In "The Flame and the Arrow," starring Burt Lancaster and Virginia Mayo, and produced in gorgeous Technicolor, Warner Brothers have come up with an adventure story of such boldness, courage and dashing derring-do that audiences will have trouble keeping their blood pressure at the norm, when it comes to the Carolina theatre, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 8 and 9, with a Saturday matinee.

"The Flame and the Arrow" is packed with excitement, suspense, color, intrigue and of course, romance. And nearly all of it is peppered with a sly comedy which leaves the impression that the cast had as much fun as the audiences will. Burt Lancaster's years of experience as a circus acrobat have stood him in good stead in this production, as he duplicates nearly every breath-taking feat which made the late Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., yesterday's hero.

A musical with Betty Grable and Dan Dailey is usually a treat and "My Blue Heaven" in Technicolor, coming to the Carolina theatre, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 10, 11, 12 at 8:15 p. m., with a matinee Tuesday, is no exception. This team seems to be even better than any of their previous offerings. Betty is still lovely and curvaceous and talented in song and dance, while Dailey is a teammate not only with his own singing and dancing skill but also for his comic and dramatic abilities and his winning personality. They are ably acted by David Wayne whose wit and charm make him more appealing with each succeeding picture, and then there are Mitzie Gaynor, Jane Wyatt, Una Merkel (it's good to see her back) and Louise Beavers.

If you've been looking for something unusual in the way of screen entertainment, "Eye Witness," starring Robert Montgomery and Patricia Wayne, coming to the Carolina theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 13-14, will neatly fill the bill, for it is one of those rare pictures which takes a serious subject and successfully gives it the tongue-in-cheek treatment. It is Robert Montgomery who not only carries the acting load of the picture as the American befuddled by British accents and legal procedure, but as the director, extracts the utmost for each of the supporting players. Also he has deftly turned some of the routine police and court room scenes into excellent satire. In support are Leslie Banks, the colonel involved in the case; Patricia Wayne, a new actress around whom the romance centers, and Felix Aylmer, the austere British judge confused by American colloquialisms.

Sunrise

Presenting the life story of Marilyn Miller, one of the most sparkling personalities to grace the Broadway stage, Warner Bros. will bring "Look For The Silver Lining," a lavish production in Technicolor, to the Sunrise theatre Tuesday, September 12.

Starring June Haver as the twinkle-toed singing and dancing star of brilliant musical comedies during the gay twenties, the film will also have Ray Bolger, current Broadway dance star, in the role of Jack Donohue, Marilyn's dancing partner in "Sunny," and Gordon McRae, popular screen and radio singer, as Frank Carter, Marilyn Miller's first husband.

Warner Bros. went to great lengths in this ambitious production to re-create the atmosphere, the songs and dances of an era of Broadway shows that many believe has yet to be matched. The darling of New York, the star of shows like "Sally," "Sunny" and "As Thousands Cheer," Marilyn Miller became almost a legend as she held court in a swank apartment in a Fifth Avenue hotel with chauffeurs, maids and admirers catering to her every whim.

Much of the gay show life with its attendant thrills and heartaches, from the time she joined her trouping parents in their act, "The Columbians," until her untimely retirement a dozen or so years afterward, is shown in "Look For The Silver Lining," one of the widely-heralded entertainments of the year.

Three From Sandhills Attend Aquatic School

Miss Peggy Phillips and Herbert Cutter of Southern Pines and William Moses of Aberdeen attended the August session of the American Red Cross National Aquatic school, held at Camp Carolina, Brevard. Their attendance at the 10-day course was sponsored by the Moore County Red Cross chapter.

Miss Phillips is a certified Red Cross water safety instructor. Mr. Cutter a certified first aid instructor and Mr. Moses a senior lifesaver.

CARTHAGE NEWS.

Baptist Association
The regular monthly meeting of the pastors of the South Sandy Creek Association met Tuesday at 10:30 in the Baptist church of Carthage. The Rev. L. M. Dixon of Cameron, president of the group, presided.

Rotary Club
The program at last week's Rotary meeting, which was held at McDonald's cafe, was arranged by Atwood Whitman and proved a "lot of fun," say those present. Mr. Whitman had a recording machine and each member of the club made a talk which was recorded. Then the records were played and every member had an opportunity to hear how he sounded.

School Opens
The Carthage school opened Wednesday, September 6, with a large number of visitors present for assembly. H. V. Chappell heads the elementary and high school again this year, with James Langston as building principal of the elementary school.

Mrs. Tilley has been moved up to high school, and Miss Janie McLeod will teach the first grade again this year, as the expectation is that there will be around 100 pupils to enter school for the first time this fall.

As the farmers are busy in tobacco, it is expected that it will be two or three days before all the farm children are enrolled. Mrs. R. G. Frye will substitute for Mrs. Barbour until she can return.

County Council Elects Officers, Plans Program

Election of two officers and the planning of a program for the coming year, based on suggestions submitted by the various clubs, formed the business of the county council of home demonstration clubs, meeting at the HD kitchen at Carthage last Thursday. Miss Flora McDonald, home agent, assisted with the planning.

Mrs. Sam Hartsell, West End, Rt. 1, was elected president, and Mrs. J. H. Terrell, Cameron RFD, vice president. The secretary, Mrs. J. D. Palmer of Vass, and treasurer, Mrs. H. A. Monroe of Lakeview, will remain in office until next fall, according to a two-year rotation system.

The program, covering present problems and long-range needs as the center of the clubwomen's activities, will be submitted for approval of the state home demonstration office before its presentation at the annual meeting in December.

To meet the growing interest in health and community problems, council members had previously visited county health and welfare departments and the education office, to find out their needs which may be met by community action.

The meeting closed with a "pot-luck dinner" for which each member had brought a contribution from her own kitchen.
