25 Men Called For Induction, 56 For Examination

First Moore Draftees Enter Army October 20

Twenty-five of the 36 Moore County young men who passed their draft physical examination September 12 will be inducted into the army, at Fayetteville October 20, it was announced this week by the Moore County Selective Service board.

Mrs. Harry Davis, clerk to the board, sent out notices to the 25 men this week notifying them to appear October 20. The men range in age from 25 to 22. The two 22-year-olds in the group were born January 2 and January 9, 1928, meaning that this age group was barely tapped by the first induction call the Moore County board has received since the sepp-ed-up draft program began.

Mrs. Davis said that the board has not been informed to what army post the inductees will be sent after they are sworn in. The clerk added that she has no way of knowing about further induction calls.

Duke Ensemble Will Open Concert Series Nov. 10

A concert by the Duke University ensemble, to be presented Friday, November 10, at the school auditorium will lead off the array of five concerts to be sponsored by the Sandhills Music association this year.

Dates for three of these were announced this week by Voit Gilmore, president, following a planning meeting held at the library. Besides the November concert, the Robert Shaw Choral will appear March 10 and the N. C. Symphony orchestra will pay a return engagement April 10.

The two other concerts are to be announced later, and season tickets will soon be available for the series of five.

Contrary to usual custom, and because of the large number of seasonal visitors here, single-concert tickets will be sold throughout the series. However, the season tickets will be offered at a considerable saving, with the expectation that music lovers who will be here from fall through spring will buy them early. This will give the Association a reserve fund, and help greatly in completion of plans for the series, Mr. Gilmore said.

W. E. Cox, Jr., has been appointed publicity director, Mrs. J. W. Causey is secretary, W. F. Henderson treasurer and Dr. W. F. Hollister membership chairman.

Blue & White Downs Carthage 20-12 In Exciting Game On Memorial Field

A fired-up, underdog Carthage High team almost scaled the dizzy heights of an upset that would have shocked state six-man football circles before succumbing to Southern Pines 20 to 12 Wednesday afternoon at Memorial field.

The game was played under a sizzling sun that took a lot out of both teams, and the heat may have been responsible for a plethora of fumbles by both.

Southern Pines scored midway of the first quarter following an exchange of fumbles, by covering a free ball on their 38. Richard Newton, back to pass, couldn't find a receiver and picking his way down the sidelines, he got to the Carthage 20 before being knocked out of bounds. Palmer threw a pass to Worsham who lateraled to Newtie, and Newtie made it a first down on the 5. After being held for no gain at center, Newtie slashed around left end for the touchdown and then converted to make the score 8-0. Just before the period ended,

APPEAL

Present prospects are that the State Supreme court will not hear the appeal on the Moore beer-wine election until some time in November, it was learned this week from one of the attorneys involved.

He said the court has recessed for a couple of weeks and it will not be known just when the appeal can be heard until it reconvenes. However, there has been no indication the case will be heard early.

Beer and wine outlets in the county are due to close October 26, as the result of the victory of the dry forces in the August 26 vote.

Officers Destroy Large Distillery Near Carthage

Law enforcement officers raided and destroyed one of the biggest distilleries set-ups they have ever found in Moore county Sunday afternoon, about two miles from Carthage on the George Maness place near Hillcrest.

No one was home when the raid was made. Maness came to Carthage early Monday and voluntarily gave himself up, posting $750 bond as set by U. S. Commissioner J. A. Lang. He will be tried at the March term of federal court.

Three stills, two of them in good working order, and more than 200 gallons of mash, with equipment to accommodate plenty more, were found in an enclosure walled in on its sides by roofing of various sorts, adjoining a dog lot on the Maness farm. The officers broke up the equipment Sunday, then dynamited it Monday morning as the best way of disposing of the mess. Besides being one of the biggest, it was "the filthiest I have ever seen," commented County ABC Officer McCallum. "If some folks could see what we saw, they would never drink moonshine again. The place was a sinkhole of mud, filth and maggots."

Assisting McCallum in the raid were Deputy Sheriff A. W. Lambert and Carthage Chief Bernice Cameron.

The law had had its eye on Maness for about two years, McCallum said, suspecting him of selling liquor in and around Carthage, especially in the Negro section. They had been out to his place looking for a still time and again, but had passed up the dog lot, which contains 50 or 60 hunting dogs, as an unlikely place for hiding the apparatus. The walled enclosure appeared to be only a windbreak for the dogs. On their visit Sunday, though, their noses served as guides, drawing them along a well-beaten path straight to the dog lot.

Early that morning, McCallum and Chief Cameron had observed Maness through some woods as he neared the Negro section of Carthage. Maness apparently spied the m too, for he threw away a half-gallon jar of liquor and ran, later throwing aside a sack containing six more half-gallon jars. (Continued on Page 5)

McDonald for Carthage fumbled and Worsham recovered on the Carthage 11.

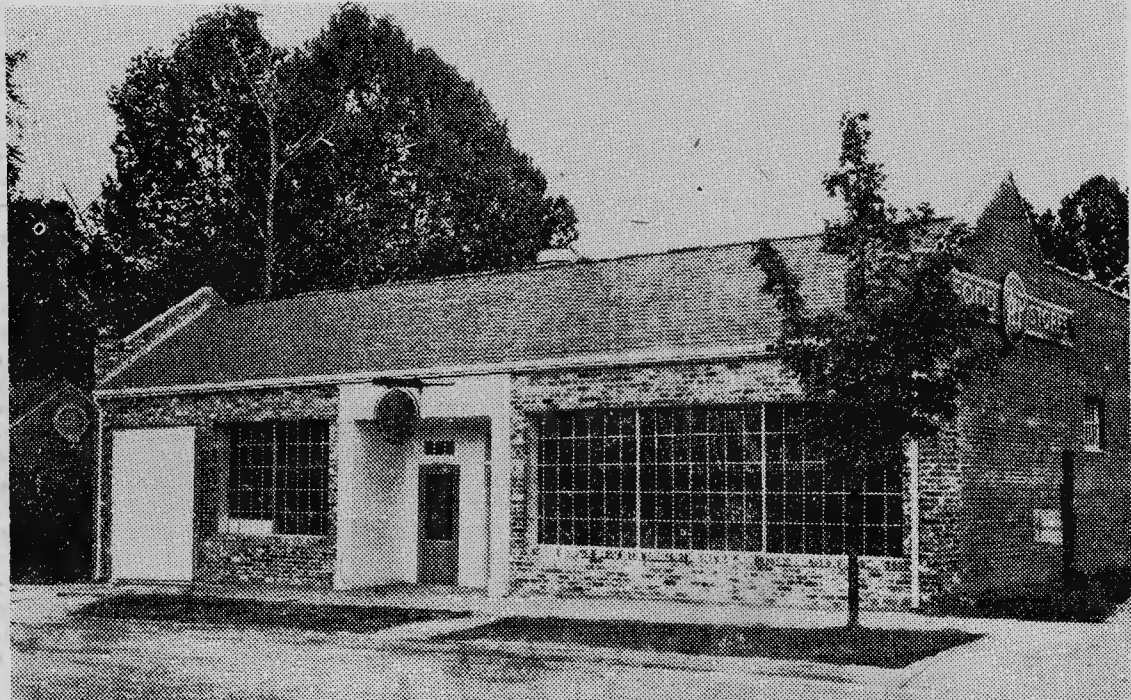

On the first play of the second period Newtie went over, but his conversion try was blocked and the score was 14-0.

Carthage Scores
Carthage scored their first touchdown after a punt exchange and recovery of a Southern Pines free ball on the locals' 24. Baker passed to McDonald for 2 and added 8 more on a reverse. Baker's pass to Maness was broken up by Roy Newton but Southern Pines was detected in the act of sinning and drew a 5-yard defensive holding penalty.

Baker lost 2 yards as he was hit by Worsham and Stuart, but next tossed to Maness for 13 yards down on the Blue and White 1.

McDonald lost 2 and Baker, on a jump pass over the center of the line, threw to Maness in the end zone for the score. Baker's dropkick conversion was blocked and the score was 14 to 6 at the half. (Continued on page 8)

Opening Held For $100,000 A & P Supermarket

The new A & P supermarket on West Pennsylvania avenue has a slightly colonial look on the front, with its Williamsburg-style old brick and many-paned windows. Inside, though, everything is strictly modern. Company officials call it the "Store of Tomorrow." (Photo by Emerson Humphrey)

Chamber Elects New Directors, Hears Colclough

New Chamber of Commerce directors elected Tuesday night at the annual membership meeting held at the Southern Pines Country club were Mrs. Mary Baxter, Arch Coleman, Mrs. Bernice Harrington, Harold McAllister, Garland Pierce, John Von Schlegell and N. L. Hodgkins, Jr.

Elected to serve two-year terms, they will join eight hold-over members on the 1950-51 board, which will hold its first meeting at the Chamber of Commerce office at 8 p. m. Tuesday. At this time a president will be elected.

A determined effort on the part of several members to induce Harry Fullenwider, retiring president, to become a candidate again met with Mr. Fullenwider's appreciative but firm refusal. The organization's constitution does not permit a board member to succeed himself, once his two-year term is completed. Proponents for his reelection had a good talking point, in that Mr. Fullenwider was appointed to fill out an unexpired term and did not serve quite two full years. However, he said, "the constitutional amendment." (Continued on Page 8)

Miss Patch Hurt As Car Overturns On Ft. Bragg Road

Hazel ("Sissy") Patch, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Patch, was seriously hurt when the car she was driving struck sand and went out of control on a Fort Bragg road Wednesday afternoon, and turned over two or three times, pinning her beneath.

Joanne Harris, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Harris, who was in the car, was slightly hurt. The wreck was discovered by MPs on the post, who lifted the car from Sissy's body and took both girls to the Fort Bragg Station hospital.

As a military hospital it could not admit them, though emergency treatment was administered. Joanne was sent home and the MPs carried Sissy to Highsmith hospital at Fayetteville, where her parents found her on receiving word of the wreck.

They had her brought by ambulance later to Moore County hospital, where X-rays revealed that she had sustained severe body injuries, including a broken pelvis and hip, broken right leg and fractures of the shoulder blades. She was considerably bruised but there were no injuries reported to her face and head.

Both girls are third year students at Notre Dame academy. The accident occurred about 5:30 p. m. about three miles east of Pope field as the girls were returning home after a trip to the airfield. The car, a 1950 Oldsmobile, was considerably damaged.

National Guard Battery May Get Building Soon

Col. John W. Foreman of the N. C. National Guard inspected and approved a site for a motor garage for the Moore County battery, while on a visit here this week.

The site is on town-owned land on the Old Southern Pines-Pinehurst road, between the High School Memorial field and the town horse show grounds. The colonel was accompanied on his inspection tour by Mayor C. N. Page, who said he would present the matter of a transfer before the town board at its next meeting.

The colonel expressed the opinion that construction could begin at once, if the transfer is approved.

The town board has in the past discussed with favor the donation of land for the building of a home for the National Guard battery, and it is not anticipated that there will be any hitch unless some other use for this particular site is foreseen.

The land would become a site not only for the garage, which would serve also as a temporary drill hall and administration building, but for the Armory which it is anticipated may be built within the next year or two. This will give the battery a home equal to any in the state, also a (Continued on Page 5)

Golf Champs On Mid Pines Staff; Boros Is Pro

The Mid Pines staff this season includes its usual array of golf champions, two who were here last year and one new one, it was learned from Mrs. Frank Cosgrove.

Returning are Mae Murray, Vermont state champion, who was finalist in the National Amateur at Atlanta this summer, and Pat O'Sullivan, Connecticut state champion. The addition is Mary Agnes Wall, state champion of Michigan, replacing Ruth Woodward on the hotel staff.

All the girls have added many new laurels to old ones during the past few months. They are amateurs and are employed by the hotel in a non-golfing capacity.

Julius Boros will be the Mid Pines pro this year.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Cosgrove, the staff includes their three daughters, Mrs. Julius Boros, Mrs. Wilford Weldon and Miss Jean Cosgrove; also a new chef and kitchen crew brought here in its entirety from the Oyster Harbors club at Osterville, Mass.

Beauty, Convenience, Variety of Foods Win Admiration

Hundreds of persons from Southern Pines and surrounding towns attended the "open house" held Wednesday evening at the new A & P supermarket on West Pennsylvania avenue, marking the opening of one of the most beautiful, modern and completely stocked stores in the state.

They were served coffee and a variety of cakes, of well-known A & P brands. They wandered at will about the capacious air-conditioned store, admiring the seemingly endless counters piled high with foods; the refrigerated sections for produce, frozen foods, meats, seafood and dairy products; the self-service features; the brilliant "streamlined" fluorescent lighting which made the interior of the store like day; and the inviting color scheme of pastel green and white with touches of black, scarlet and stainless steel.

They took "shopping buggies" from the serried ranks at the front of the store and laid in large supplies of groceries as they enjoyed the party.

Visiting Officials
They received greetings from a number of A & P officials on hand for the opening, who broke their receiving line early to mingle informally with the crowds and show them about. These included R. C. Hughes, of Raleigh, eastern North Carolina superintendent; J. L. Creed, Fayetteville, assistant (Continued on Page 8)

Two Stores Will Make Debut In New Locations

This is the debut season in Southern Pines, with the new A & P store making its debut on West Pennsylvania Wednesday night and two Broad street business establishments preparing to open in new locations and entirely new dress, after weeks of preparation.

These are Mrs. Hayes' shop, which has moved into the back part of Tots Toggery, and the Sandhill Drug store, which is moving two doors up to the old Mrs. Hayes Shop location.

Both were open "after a fashion" this week. That is, if customers were determined to buy they were accommodated, but work was going on all around and the proprietors were saying, "Come by and see it when it's finished."

Mrs. Hayes' Shop
A large space has been opened in the Tots Toggery building and E. J. Austin, contractor-designer, has remodeled it into a smart small shop for fine feminine apparel, worthy of Fifth or Madison avenue. All is in oval lines—curving dress compartments, ceiling fix- (Continued on Page 8)

Fall Season At Hand; Resort Inns Opening, Conventions Scheduled

All Hotels Will Be Open By October 17; N. C. Florists' Meet Will Bring 500 Guests

The fall season is right around the corner in Southern Pines, with one resort hotel already open, another opening next week and two the week after. As of October 17 all the hotels in town will be open, and arrivals will be coming in for the first large convention of the year, that of the N. C. Florists association which is expected to turn out 500 strong.

Freedom Crusade Opens This Week; Chairmen Listed

The Crusade for Freedom, nation-wide good-will gesture toward the peoples behind the Iron Curtain, will start in Moore county this week with the distribution of scrolls to the various county communities, for the collection of 1,250 friendship signatures of Moore County citizens.

Arch Coleman, of Southern Pines, county chairman for the Crusade, has selected his community chairmen as follows: Pinebluff, Miss Viola Wylie; Aberdeen, John G. Sloan; Pinehurst, James Hobbs; Carthage, Colin G. Spencer, Jr.; Cameron, Mrs. Clark Kelly; Robbins, Carl Scoggin; West End, John Von Canon; Vass, Mrs. F. X. Credle; Manly, L. F. Garvin; West Southern Pines, Floyd McDonald.

A chairman for Southern Pines is to be selected.

The chairmen will be asked to set up a table at some central spot such as the post office or a prominent local store, to secure the signatures on the scrolls. The places will be marked, as will numerous other spots throughout the county, by official proclamations stating the aims of the Crusade of Freedom. These have been signed by the mayors of several of the communities.

Freedom Shrine
The scrolls will be added to others being collected all over the nation during October, for permanent inclusion in a shrine to be built by the free nations of the world in Berlin. The shrine will center about a Freedom Bell, symbolic of the voice of freedom. The Freedom Bell, and bells in all the free countries, will be rung on October 28, to be celebrated everywhere as United Nations day, the date of the dedication of the shrine.

The Jefferson Inn opened Wednesday of last week, with Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Banigan of Rhode Island as the new managers. They are also acting in a supervisory capacity for the Southern Pines Country club, which is under the same ownership.

At Mid Pines
The Mid Pines club will open October 12. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cosgrove, managers for a number of years, are again on the job, ready to greet their first visitors, executives of the Libby-Owens Glass company on a golfing party. They will fill the club for the first two days, after which it will be open to welcome other guests.

On October 15-16 the N. C. Neurological society will be entertained at the Mid Pines, on October 19-20-21 the executives of the Burlington Mills holding their annual meeting and golf party, and on October 23-24 the N. C. Broadcasters' association.

More Meetings
The Hollywood hotel and Highland Pines Inn will open October 17, with the advent of the N. C. Florists, who will stay three days. The Hollywood will also receive the Region 5 convention of the American Association of Medical Social Workers October 21-22, and the mid-year Council of N. C. Business and Professional Women in November.

During the summer most of the local hotels, both the resort inns and those which stay open all year, have put on a thorough renovation program, painting, papering and bringing things generally up to date.

At the Southland, the lobby has been beautified with wallpaper of pastel green with silvery flowers, and easy chairs covered in pastel plastic make a colorful effect. Upstairs halls have also been papered and much painting has been done. At the Hollywood, the lobby and halls have been renovated and new kitchen equipment installed.

No information has been secured on plans for the Highland Pines Inn, as Charles Stitzer, proprietor, has not returned to town. He is expected to arrive Monday to prepare for the reopening of the hotel.

October Is Fire Prevention Month; Local Fire Fighters Plan Campaign

October is Fire Prevention month, and starting next week a safety campaign designed to reduce fire hazards of all types will be held here through cooperation of the Southern Pines Volunteer Fire department, the fire fighting crew of the N. C. Forest Service headed by County Warden E. W. Davis and the Southern Pines Safety Council.

It will be headed by a committee of which Harold B. Fowler, assistant local fire chief, is chairman. Other members, all belonging to the department, are Frank H. Kaylor, Richard Kaylor, E. W. Davis and John O'Callaghan.

Through posters and other reminders, to be planned at a meeting this week end, the populace will be reminded of the dangers and waste resulting from fire carelessness, and prevention measures possible to anyone.

Farms, homes and businesses all have their distinctive fire hazards, Chairman Fowler reminded this week. Alertness to the danger and the taking of all possible precautions is the duty of every citizen. During Fire Prevention month every citizen should check his property, both building and grounds, for possible fire hazards. If he is in doubt as to what constitutes a hazard, he should seek information from the fire department.

An open letter to the people from state and local leaders interested in fire prevention is the campaign's opening gun this week. Signed by Waldo C. Cheek, state commissioner of insurance; Sherwood Brockwell, state fire marshal; L. V. O'Callaghan, Southern Pines fire chief, and Frank H. Kaylor, resident fireman, the letter contains many helpful suggestions: To the People of North Carolina. Greetings:

A place to live is a fundamental requirement of an American family. Suppose your home were to catch on fire tonight (and thousands will throughout the United States) and suppose you are fortunate and all your loved ones escape without injury, your home, due to fire work by the fire department, is only partially destroyed and that covered by insurance.

You would, under these circumstances, indeed be fortunate, but where would you and your family live while repairs are being made? There are exceedingly few houses for sale or rent and apartments (Continued on Page 5)
