Basketball Event To Get Underway Tuesday Next Week

The North Carolina State High School Athletic Association secbasketball tournamentwhich will boost some Moore County boys' team one step up the ladder that leads to the State Class A championship—will be played at the Southern Pines school gymnasium March 2, 3, 5 and 6, Tuesday, Wednesday, Fri-day and Saturday of next week.

Two games will be played each night, at 7:30 and 8:30, except for the finals Saturday night.

All boys' teams in the county are expected to take part, with the winner of this week's Moore County Tournament at Carthage getting the top seeded position. Because of its numerous teams, Moore County is rated a section in itself in planning the official Class A tournament schedule, therefore causing a repetition of play among the same teams that are taking part in the county tourney this week. Winner of the Sectional event will advance to play in the District tournament at Red Springs the following week. The district winner will take part in the State Class A finals which had been previously scheduled for the Aberdeen gym March 18, 19 and Sites for the Sectional and District tourneys were set Saturday in a meeting of representatives of schools from throughout the District at Pinehurst Saturday. L. J. (Hap) Perry of Chapel Hill, executive secretary of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association, attended the meeting.

Ernest M. Aiken Takes Own Life At Oxford Farm

Former Resident Of Sandhills Found Shot In Car Wednesday

Ernest M. Aiken, former resident of this section and owner of onsiderable property hereabouts, was found dead late Wednesday afternoon in his car, parked in the yard of his old home near Oxford. Death was the result of a self-inflicted found from a .38 calibre revolver found beside him, according to the verdict of Coroner Grover Saunders, of Granville

In the pocket of the deceased's coat were found two notes, whose contents have been withheld. Saunders stated that no inquest would be held.

Mr. Aiken, who had been through here two weeks ago, had planned, at that time, to go to W. T. Huntley, Florida for a rest. Those who saw him at that time stated that he was in poor health and deeply depressed. Instead of going south, however, he returned to the house where he was born. It was said that he had some idea of converting this into a home for orphaned children in line with previous plans expressed by him at other

He walked back to his car, got in and shut the door. Mr. Blue noticed him sitting in the car and around 5:30, walked over to ask him a question and discovered that Mr. Aiken was dead. The noise of the machinery apparently muffled sound of the shot and the body had not moved from an upright position, indicating, it is thought, that death must have been instantaneous.

of Pinehurst is chairman of the Kiwanis committee in charge. O. D. Griffin, field representative of the Highway Safety Division, State Department of Motor Vehi-cles, will be at most schools to give a safety talk after the showing of the films.

Scholarship Plan

More interest on the part of high school girls and less interest on the part of the people of Moore county were reported this week by Watson Scott, chairman of the eighth annual nurse scholarship campaign of the Sandhills Veterans Association.

While contributions to the scholarship fund are coming in more slowly than in former years, prospects are that 15 or more seniors in Moore County high schools will apply for a scholar-ship, Soctt said. The campaign opened three weeks ago.

District chairmen in the unique SVA organization of about two dozen World War 2 veterans have visited all schools of the county and have reported much interest in the scholarships among high school seniors.

"In view of this interest," Scott said, "we are urging that all those to whom appeal letters were sent and who have not yet replied send in their contributions at once. With as many as 15 girls seeking a scholarship, it is hoped that the SVA can give more than one scholarship this year, as we did in 1950. But this will depend entirely on the response we get from the persons to whom we have sent

Beginning in 1947, the SVA has awarded one scholarship for nurse's training each year to a Moore County high school senior, with the exception of 1950 when two scholarships were given. Girls applying must be 18 by September of this year and must have satisfactory grades in high school on nursing school entrance subjects. They must be seniors in a high school in this county, be single and, if awarded a scholarship, must return to Moore County to (Continued to Page 8)
