Blue Knights Lose Championship To Perquimans High

The Southern Pines Blue Knights lost to Perquimans High of Hertford here last Friday, in the deciding game of the Eastern Class A high school championship series.

Perquimans was slated to meet Mt. Holly, of Gaston county, in the state championship game on their home field some time this week.

Last week's game concluded a highly successful season for the Blue Knights, in which they mounted to the Eastern Class A finals through one championship after another—Moore county, area, group, district and regional.

"It's been a great team, and has brought honor to the school," said their coach and principal Irie Leonard. "They have played well, fought hard and won fairly." He named David Page and Tommy Ruggles as the team's outstanding players, in last Friday's game and also during the season. Also very highly rated were Donald Van Benschoten and Jimmy Barber.

For these, as for two other team members, Joe Marley and Harold McNeill, the game with Perquimans was their last in high school. All six graduated Tuesday night.

Among the members of the graduating seniors was Miss Mary Ruth Clark, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Clark of Vass.

Mrs. J. H. Andrews Dies At Her Home; Burial In Ohio

Mrs. James H. Andrews died at her home in Weymouth Heights at five-thirty Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Andrews suffered a cerebral hemorrhage a week previously, lapsing into unconsciousness from which she did not recover. She would have been 89 on June 7th.

With her at the time of her death were her two daughters, Marion, Mrs. Coburn Musser of New York, and Helen, Mrs. Carl A. Lohmann of New Haven, and Mr. Musser. Also Miss Mary Finlayson, her companion for several years.

A simple funeral service was held at the home Monday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. Charles V. Covell, rector of Emmanuel Church, of which Mrs. Andrews had been a member. Interment was in the family plot in Akron, Ohio.

Surviving, besides her two daughters, are her son, Edward Day Andrews, of Akron, seven grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Andrews was born Laura Lyman Day, in Kent, Ohio, in 1865. She and her husband James Hanson Andrews, were married December 3, 1887. Mr. Andrews was superintendent of the Quaker Oats Company, of Akron, where the couple settled in 1891.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews came to Pinehurst in 1915 and built "Little House," now the home of James Tufts, where they lived until Mr. Andrews' death. In 1931 Mrs. Andrews moved to Southern Pines. The big white-painted brick house on the crest of the hill, with its view toward the East, designed for her, with gardens laid out according to her wishes, became her home until her death, with the exception of a few summers at Cape Cod.

Public-spirited and with never-failing generosity in her support of progressive community service, Mrs. Andrews had been, in Akron, a founder of the Mary Day Nursery and Children's Hospital. On coming to North Carolina, she carried on this interest in work for the Moore County Hospital. She and Mr. Andrews made substantial contributions to the original building fund and, in 1937, she became one of the first women elected to membership on the board of directors. She served as vice-president from 1937 through 1945, putting her exceptional administrative ability to work for the welfare of the institution and, in particular, the reorganization of its housekeeping services. Her devoted efforts were largely responsible for the strides made in this phase of the hospital's operation during her years on the board; at the same time, she continued the financial support which she and her husband had always maintained.

She was a regular and generous supporter of the Pinehurst Forum, the Sandhills Music Association, of the Moore County Maternal Welfare Committee and many other community services.

"A Lady of Quality"

Laura Day Andrews lived a life, in this community, in the old tradition of gracious womanhood. One thinks of that phrase, "A Lady of Quality." She had great charm, wit and humor; she was a keen judge of human nature, but her judgments, based on strict standards as they were, still were tempered by kindness. Her strong character and vivid personality made her influence deeply felt.

Her interests were many: she was a zealous reader, keeping up with the newest publications, even during the last years of her life, when, with failing eyesight, she turned to the "talking books" for her reading. She loved flowers and her garden was one of the prettiest hereabouts. One of her loveliest attributes was her talent for needlework. She had the feeling for her work, and the skill of the creative artist and the finished products were of rare beauty. But it was in her quiet generosity that the inner light of her presence shone most brightly. She was always ready to hear, always ready to help. Her generosity to those in need, never known except to the recipients, was beyond estimation.

The ordered dignity of her life, the warm friendliness of her presence, made her home a place of lovely hospitality. To the last she kept it full of family and of friends, surrounded by her devoted household; a place to go for comfort, and spiritual sustenance, for lively interest, for fun. She knew, and her long, full life exemplified, the true joy of living.

city of North Carolina, where he graduated with a B. A. degree in 1947. Mr. Cunningham almost completed requirements for his masters. However, after a post-graduate year at the School of Public Administration at Syracuse, he decided to secure his M. A. there.

After studying at Syracuse he spent a year in the New York State administrative department at Albany, on a fellowship awarded by the Maxwell Graduate School of Citizenship and Public Affairs. He entered actively on his career as assistant city manager at Martinsville, Va., going then to Richmond, and coming to Southern Pines August 1, 1953.

Agricultural scientists estimate that North Carolina cropland needs about 4,000,000 tons of lime for top production.

My Expression of Appreciation to the Voters of MOORE COUNTY

On last Saturday you gave me a majority vote for the United States Congress that makes me feel not only very humble but challenges me to an even greater dedication to the urgent tasks that face us at home, in Washington and the World.

Never before as a Nation do we face more serious problems. I covet your prayers to the end that friction and bitterness within our country may be supplanted with the spirit of seeking answers to these many problems on the basis of what is right.

I am most grateful for your confidence.
