

Comedy Presented By Dramatics Club Is Highlight Of High School Finals

A highlight of the finals of the Southern Pines High School was the three-act comedy, "Two's A Crowd," given Monday night by the school's Dramatics Club.

A large audience at Weaver Auditorium gave ample evidence of their enjoyment of the play, and of the characterizations presented in high-comedy style by an excellently chosen cast.

The plot, concerning an incongruous collection of persons thrown together by a supposed measles quarantine, permitted the development of many ludicrous situations, of which the teen-age actors took full advantage.

The play was presented against a handsome background—the new stage scenery bought and given to the school by the Dramatics Club, from its dues and admission fees.

Mrs. Mary Ann Larkins, of the school faculty, directed the show with a light touch, humor and skill.

Performing before the footlights were Maxann Kerr, Dorothy Newton, Patsy DuPre, Charles Bowman, Geraldine Bethea, Barbara Pearce, Jimmy McDonald, Jimmy Barber, George Patterson, George Colton, Shirley Garner, Barbara Ann Hackney, Claude Reams, James Primm.

The behind-the-scenes contingent, so necessary to any play, was composed of Joan Howarth, as student assistant and prompter; Jean Haney, Lillian Clark, Jo

F. J. McMahon Succumbs After Long Illness

Court Approves $3,200 Settlement For Mrs. Hackney

Spence & Boyette Reach Agreement With Leroy Lee

Mrs. Georgia Hackney of Southern Pines received $3,200 for accident injuries, with the defendant, Bradford Ritter, paying costs, in a settlement of her damage suit approved at the civil term held at Carthage last week. Judge Frank M. Armstrong of Troy presided.

In another case arising from an accident, Ruth Oliver, suing through her next friend S. H. Oliver, settled for $500 from defendant John A. Matson and $1,500 from A. P. Flinchum, administrator of the deceased, Virginia E. Oliver. Miss Virginia Oliver lost her life in the accident in which her young sister Ruth was seriously injured, when the car she was driving was in collision with one driven by Matson.

The $5,000 suit of Spence and Boyette against Leroy Lee for payment alleged due to the legal firm, for services against the Town of Southern Pines, was reported settled, and retired from the docket.

A jury awarded Dr. J. S. Milliken of Southern Pines judgment of $196 against Virgil Johnston, formerly of Southern Pines, and his wife Elizabeth.

L. G. Myrick, a defendant party in an action instituted by Isaac Williamson six years ago, was "restrained and enjoined" from interfering with, molesting, threatening or doing anything to hinder W. M. McLaughlin, surveyor, in making a survey ordered by the court. McLaughlin is to complete the survey, make the plats and return them to the clerk's office in time to be ready for the September term.

Two reports already made by the referee, W. D. Sabiston, in the case, J. K. Mason, Jr., vs. L. H. Cherry, Jr., doing business as Cherry Motor Sales, were ordered vacated and the referee was directed to prepare a third report "only on evidence taken by him from the parties in his hearing, permitting no further evidence on the issues arising." The case concerns commissions allegedly earned by Mason during the period of his employment by Cherry, which he says were never paid. The referee is adjudicating differences between the parties concerning the original agreement, and is to present his report "on findings of fact and conclusions of law" at the August term.

Divorces were granted as follows: Juliet Vale McMullen vs. Ray V. McMullen; Stephen J. Sanders vs. Vestoria Sanders; Edwin C. Palmer vs. Joyce Wiseman Palmer; Sallie Odessa Green vs. Samuel Green. All were on two years' separation.

Bridges Speaks To Rotarians

Rotarians learned about the mysteries of the dye trade, this week.

Friday's luncheon meeting, held at the Country Club, heard Karl Bridges of Knollwood, describe the intricacies of this industry in an address called "unusually interesting," by many present.

Mr. Bridges, who travels for the industry as consultant on formulae, traced the development of dyeing from early times. He followed the growth of the industry in the United States since the German monopoly on dyes and dyeing was broken at the time of World War I. The speaker explained the different processes used for different materials and situations, and showed samples to illustrate his remarks.

Mr. and Mrs. Bridges are the owners of Carolina Orchids, Inc.

Friday's Rotary meeting was presided over by Rev. Charles V. Covell, president of the club.

Safety Stickers Adorn Highway Patrol Cars

Every highway patrol car in the state now bears a green safety sticker indicating a mechanical clean bill of health.

The 530-vehicle fleet was put in tip top shape by mechanics in patrol garages which have been authorized by the Carolina Safety League to conduct the inspections. More than 800 private garages throughout the state are authorized by the League to inspect vehicles. The plan is completely voluntary.

The green stickers, signed by Motor Vehicles Commissioner Edward Scheidt, are awarded owners whose cars pass the inspection.
