

TOP FISHING SPOT

Cape Hatteras, survivor of countless storms and famous among mariners and fishermen has come through Hurricane Hazel without damage and added another "first" to its long list of laurels in the sports fishing world. The recent hurricane improved the autumn surf fishing season on Hatteras by churning the too-clear waters along the beach north and south of Hatteras Lighthouse, and the Fisherman Magazine announces that Hatteras has received a top rating in a recent survey of the Outdoor Writers Association of America.

Honey production in North Carolina amounted to 3.8 million pounds last year, 28 per cent below the previous year.

Supervisors In State's Schools To Gather Here

School supervisors and directors of instruction who are members of the North Carolina Education Association will hold their annual three-day conference at Southern Pines November 14-16, according to Emily Butler, of Lumberton, State president of the department of supervisors of the NCEA.

The theme of the meeting, with headquarters at the Hollywood Hotel, is to be "Strengthening Relationships in Supervision." The chief speaker is Dr. Jane Franseith, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington, D. C. Dr. Franseith will speak at the first general session Sunday evening, November 14, and will give an evaluation of the conference at the final session Tuesday morning. She will be available for conferences and consultations throughout the convention.

Others who will appear on the program are Dr. Charles F. Carroll, State superintendent of public instruction; Dr. Arnold Perry, dean of the school of education, University of North Carolina; Dr. Franklin McNutt, dean of graduate school, Woman's College, Greensboro; James Manning, superintendent of Martin County schools, Williamston; Mrs. Carrie Abbott, supervisor, Swain County; Miss Madeline Tripp, associate, Department of Public Instruction.

Tickets are available for the banquet, to be held at the Hollywood Hotel Monday, November 15, at 6:30 p.m. These tickets will be on sale at registration Sunday afternoon at the hotel, Mrs. Butler said.

The meeting is for supervisors, but Mrs. Butler has extended a special invitation to superintendents to come to the conference.
