LICENSED DRIVERS

Licensed Tar Heel drivers were involved in most of the state's fatal auto wrecks last year says the Motor Vehicles Department. There were 871 North Carolinians involved in fatal accidents, 42 were state residents but had no license, 115 were licensed out-of-staters, and 10 were unlicensed out-of-staters. And most of the fatal accident car drivers resided in rural areas. Also most of the accidents occurred within 25 miles of the driver's home.
