ATTEND FUNERAL

Relatives coming from a distance to attend the funeral of Arch McGill at Cypress Church Sunday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Johnson of Raleigh, the Rev. and Mrs. Zane Norton of Shelby, Mrs. J. M. Norton and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Norton of Raeford, Alton Thompson and the D. A. McGill family of Maxton.

present supervisory program started in North Carolina in 1949, she has been elementary school supervisor in the Moore County, Southern Pines and Pinehurst schools. She was teaching in her home town of Cameron when she accepted the work as supervisor, and prior to that had taught in the Henderson city schools.

She received her B. S. degree from George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville, Tenn., and this summer completed her work for the Master's Degree at the University of North Carolina.

Mrs. McPherson is looking forward with pleasure to the opportunity for travel which the new position will afford. Miss Chester is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. P. J. Chester of Southern Pines. She is a graduate of the local high school and received an A. B. degree in 1952 from Duke University where she majored in primary education, the field in which she expects to teach in Germany. She was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Following her graduation, she taught in Arlington, Va., for a year, did first grade work in the Vass-Lakeview School at Vass the following year, and last year was a member of her home town school faculty here.

Council Names New Planning Board, Okays Land Subdivision Regulation

Moving their August meeting up from the second Tuesday night of the month to the first Thursday—to fit in with vacation schedules—the town council adopted two well-discussed and potentially far-reaching ordinances last week: one creating a planning board for the town and another that requires council approval before any subdivision plat of land, in or within one mile of town, can be recorded at the office of the register of deeds in Carthage.

Full text of the planning board ordinance appears on page seven and of the subdivision law on page 11, in today's Pilot.

Five members were appointed by the council to the planning board which replaces the zoning board, as formerly organized here. Legally, a zoning board is set up to work out a zoning ordinance for a community and then is dissolved. The planning board, which has legal status in this state, replaces and extends the duties of a zoning board.

Donald Case, former chairman of the zoning board, was named to a five-year term on the planning; Mrs. Katherine N. McColl for four years; Maj. Gen. Julian F. Barnes of Knollwood for three years; R. L. Chandler, Jr., for two years; and Walter Gore of West Southern Pines for one year.

Mr. Case, Mrs. McColl and Mr. Chandler all served on the now dissolved zoning board. Under the planning board regulation, plats must be submitted to the board by land developers and the board will then make its recommendation to the council as to approval of each plat.

Two items on the docket that were deferred to the September meeting for action, after discussion, were:

1. A resolution regulating acceptance of new streets for maintenance by the town, under which the town would open 100 feet of street for each house to be served on it and which would require that all permanent improvements, such as curb and gutter, be made on the street before it is accepted by the town. Town Manager Tom E. Cunningham told the council that it is costing $30,000 annually to maintain 35 miles of streets here now and that, in his opinion, the town is accepting more streets than it can maintain under present regulations.

2. A resolution that would continue a fire hydrant charge on all privately owned water lines carrying city water outside the town limits, but would discontinue this charge on town-owned lines outside the limits. Councilman L. T. Clark moved to table the resolution until September, meanwhile sending a copy of the resolution to owners of all outside lines, with a letter explaining that the town is willing to work out an agreement with them and that they will be able to get their investment back if the lines are dedicated to the town. The council approved the suggestion.

Installation of curb and gutter on both sides of the 100 block of E. Rhode Island Ave. was authorized following receipt of a petition signed, according to law, by more than 51 per cent of the abutting property owners. The petition was signed by H. N. Cameron and Haynes Britt, two owners who own 700 of the 800 feet frontage on both sides of the block.

Possibility of a lease-purchase agreement to meet the town hall-jail-firestation building need was discussed by the council. The manager has written to several towns renting town hall buildings built by private interests, to get information on procedures and success of the plan.

Need for a tax map was again brought up by the manager. Such a map would list the owner of each piece of property in town. Mr. Cunningham said he had written for prices to firms of tax map consultants and had also begun discussion of the matter with the county, as county valuations are accepted for town property.

Mayor Voit Gilmore thanked Town Attorney W. Lamont Brown, chairman of a committee that worked with the Air-Ground School on housing and other mutual problems, and Councilman Clark, a member of the committee for the town.

The council asked Mr. Cunningham to call a joint meeting of the council and the Recreation Advisory Committee for 8 p.m., September 6, to consider the committee's recommendations on swimming pools and community centers in East and West Southern Pines. Several problems have arisen in regard to the statutory debt limit of the town, since the committee made its recommendations. The public is invited to this meeting to take part in a general discussion of the various needs which might be met by a town bond issue.

Lillian Bullock At Rocky Mount

Lillian Bullock, 16-year-old Moore County women's singles champion, is Southern Pines' only entry in the Eastern Carolina tennis championships, which started Wednesday at Rocky Mount. She is entered in three events, with no matches scheduled for her on the opening day.

In women's singles Lillian is slated to meet Emily Ryals of Rocky Mount in her opening match.

She is teamed with Mary Lou Jones, Sanford, in women's doubles and with John Allen Farfour, Goldsboro, in mixed doubles.
