Cosgroves Buying Mid Pines Club From Durham Firm

Will Continue To Operate 60-Room Resort Hotel Here

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cosgrove, who have managed the Mid Pines Club on Midland Road for the past 10 years, are buying the Club, golf course and adjacent property from the Homeland Investment Co. of Durham, they told The Pilot today.

"The transaction has been completed," Mr. Cosgrove said, "except for final surveys and signing the deed. We are buying the property outright and hope to keep it here under family ownership for the next century, as our children and grandchildren take over. Everything will go along the same as it always has."

Mr. Cosgrove said plans call for forming a corporation by mem-

County-Wide Meeting On Behalf Of College Project Slated Wednesday

Posted Map Shows Route of 15-501 Extension Link

The State Highway and Public Works Commission on Monday posted in the Moore County courthouse at Carthage a map showing the route of the new 15-501 by-pass extension which is to run from Midland Road, one half mile east of Pinehurst, to a point between Southern Pines and Aberdeen. It is an extension of the new road from near Pinehurst to near Carthage, by-passing both towns.

About four miles in length, the proposed highway has a 150-foot right of way. It will cross Morganton road (old road from Southern Pines to Pinehurst) at Pole Cat Run, near Watson's Lake, joining No. 1 highway opposite the Huntley building at the corner of the tract purchased last summer by the Easo Standard Oil Co. on the west side of the highway.

DR. HAROLD DUDLEY

Dr. Dudley To Speak: Queries To Be Answered

Moore County citizens will have opportunity to show their interest in the new consolidated Presbyterian college at a public meeting to be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Weaver Auditorium.

Guest and speaker for the occasion will be Dr. Harold Dudley of Raleigh, executive secretary of the North Carolina Synod.

Several local speakers will also be heard, and a question-and-answer period will be held during the program, said A. L. Burney of Southern Pines, chairman of the Moore County college committee. Mayor Voit Gilmore will be in charge of the program.

Dr. Dudley has visited several other communities that are bidding their invitation to bring all available information, and receiving demonstrations of local enthusiasm and good will toward the college.

Operating Fund Stands At $823

A brisk campaign to get operational funds for the effort to secure the Presbyterian college netted $823 within the past week—enough, said Chairman A. L. Burney, to assure the local committee of working funds so they could move along with their task.

Three Chamber of Commerce directors, canvassing the business district, turned in the results Wednesday as follows: Hoke Pollock, $248; G. H. Leonard, Jr., $200; J. T. Overton, $160.

Additional donations were: Sandhills Kiwanis Club, $100; Parent-Teacher association, $50; Southern Pines High School Student Council, $25; Hi-Y Club, $15.

The Chamber of Commerce had previously contributed $25 for stationery.

Collectors reported a uniform readiness to help, and will continue working until $1,000—more, if needed—has been raised. The money will be used for publication of a brochure for Synod-wide distribution; postage, paper, envelopes, pledge cards and other supplies.

Headquarters of the forthcoming pledge campaign, aiming toward a $200,000 goal, will be set up in a suite of offices in the Graves building, supplied by Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Graves, and committee meetings are now being held there.

The brochure is under preparation by a committee composed of Mrs. Valerie Nicholson, chairman; the Rev. Cheves Ligon, Harry K. Smyth and Mrs. James Boyd.

Urge Show Enthusiasm

Of the enthusiasm of all Moore communities toward location of the college at Southern Pines, Chairman Burney said he had "not the slightest doubt," but added, "It is necessary that we turn out in impressive numbers, and fill the auditorium Wednesday night, as positive indication of our desire to get the college here."

Plans for block-by-block canvassing, also a telephone "grapevine" signal by ladies of the community, to spread word of the event, were made at a meeting of the county committee held here Wednesday night. Alerting of other communities by distribution of handbills and other means was left to key members of the central committee representing towns all over the county. Ministers are being asked to make the announcement from their pulpits Sunday.

Fund Drive Starts

In the meantime, letters were to be mailed, starting today, by the recently formed endowment committee, headed by Dr. R. M. McMillan as chairman, to initiate a campaign aimed at securing $200,000 or more in pledges.

A number of large gifts from persons of unusual means are hoped for to get the campaign started. General canvassing of all businesses and individuals will follow. The pledges may be paid off over a three-year period.

To Prepare Brochure

Dr. McMillan today announced the appointment of Garland McPherson in charge of civic clubs, and Claude Reams of industries, both to make contacts looking toward sizeable pledges for the endowment fund.

Mrs. Audrey K. Kennedy is vice-chairman of the endowment committee, which has the task of getting up an amount (in pledges) attractive to the college, and promising to lighten appreciably its great financial load.

Entries Coming In Well For Unique 3-Course Carousel Golf Tournament

Local Event Will Start Next Thursday, To Run Four Days

Bright prospects for the second annual Southern Pines Golf Carousels are reported by Jack S. Youns, general chairman of the event which begins Thursday of next week, November 3.

Entries are running ahead of a comparable time last year, he said, and include partners from such widely distributed locations as Canada, Texas, Indiana and Pennsylvania, as well as other teams of two from communities in North Carolina and Moore County.

The unique four-ball tournament, which drew enthusiasm from last year's participants, will be played over all three Southern Pines courses—Southern Pines Country Club, Mid Pines and Pine Needles. All amateur golfers, male and female, are eligible to enter, without age restrictions. Last year's Carousels attracted a number of senior players, as well as father and son teams that included teen-age boys.

Many Prizes Offered

Sponsored by the Southern Pines Chamber of Commerce, the tournament offers prizes to winners, runners-up, consolation winners and special event winners in each flight, assuring that half the teams in the event will win prizes.

Entries received by early this week included Harry Welch and Ray Taylor, from Salisbury, both scratch players well known throughout the state and the South. George Pottle and Max Forrest, last year's champions, plan to defend their title, reports Hermann Grover, chairman of the tournament committee.

Driver Education Pays For Itself, Kiwanians Told

The cost of introducing and maintaining driver education courses in the schools of Moore County can be turned into a profit by the results obtained, members of the Sandhills Kiwanis Club were told Wednesday at their regular luncheon meeting.

The speaker was John Noll, chief of the driver education bureau of the State Department of Public Instruction.

Saving in lives, economic losses from accidents and saving in insurance rates make a driver education program pay dividends in any county that introduces it, Mr. Noll said.

The county-wide Sandhills Kiwanis Club has been plugging for driver education in the schools for several years. A definite request that the program be introduced in this county was turned down by the board of county commissioners a few years ago for economy reasons.

DOOLEY ADAMS RIDES THE WINNER

Rhythmhim Runs Gallant Second In Gwathmey

Rhythmhim, five-year-old bay gelding owned by Mrs. Mickey Walsh and trained at Walsh's Stoneybrook Stables here, just missed winning the year's richest steeplechase when he was injured going over the 16th and final obstacle at Belmont Friday.

Leading all the way, and six lengths ahead of Mrs. Ogden Phipps' Neji over the last jump, the splendid Walsh horse, ridden by Pat Smithwick, injured his pelvis but continued on in a gallant try to win. Suffering, he was forced to slow down despite the frantic urging of Smithwick, who did not at once realize he was hurt. Neji flashed past, to win by a third of a length.

The race was the Temple Gwathmey $50,000-added steeplechase, climax of two days devoted to steeplechasing under the United Hunts banner at Belmont Park, New York.

According to the New York Herald Tribune's account of the event, Rhythmhim's effort was a glorious one despite his failure to win. "His heart was willing but his hind legs had lost their power. . . The Walsh family ran an eighth of a mile to reach him and comfort him. He had run a grand race."

Adams Rides Winner

Riding the Temple Gwathmey winner—for the second time—was F. Dooley Adams, of Southern Pines, top steeplechase rider for the past seven or eight years. Neji's victory made him the first horse to win the triple crown—the International, Grand National and Temple Gwathmey, all in the same year.

The Walsh horse—whose curious-looking name breaks down to the simple phrase "Rhythm in (Continued on Page 8)

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Lefroy, who spend their summers in Canada and winters in Southern Pines, arrived in town Wednesday and upon arrival received the tragic news of the accidental death of their married daughter in Canada, which occurred while they were en route. They left by train Wednesday night on the return trip.

Details of the accident have not been learned here. The victim leaves two children.

A MESSAGE FOR SOUTHERN PINES

Southern Pines has a "fair chance" to secure the Presbyterian college, according to the best information the local committee can gather—only fair, because it is not in a too well populated area.

To overcome this handicap, Southern Pines' desire for the college, its enthusiasm and willingness to do whatever is necessary, must be made plain to those in a position to influence the decision.

Your opportunity to show how you feel will come next Wednesday night, at the countywide meeting to be held at Weaver auditorium, with Dr. Harold Dudley, the Synod's executive secretary, as a special guest.

Your presence—or absence—will not only show Dr. Dudley, but will show your local committee how you feel, and if you appreciate the great opportunity which may be offered; an opportunity for the whole community, and most especially its youth.

Your local committee needs YOUR vote of confidence in order to continue with the task of presenting Southern Pines' cause to the trustees and the Synod.
