Did you know this fact about... NORTH CAROLINA

We are a State of many small farms—the second in number in the entire country.

These farms provide North Carolina with a reservoir of highly intelligent and adaptable workers available to our new industrial growth and development. Industry is always seeking new locations in progressive areas where people are happy in their work and play.

And almost without exception where you find industrial progress in North Carolina you find "legal beer," as sold under state control laws supported by the brewing industry's own program of Self-Regulation.
