

Sandhills Given Boost By Sports Magazine Writer

The resort facilities of Southern Pines and Pinehurst received a bit of extremely favorable publicity this week as the area became the subject of a two-page travel article in "Sports Illustrated" magazine.

Horace Sutton, a regular contributor to "Sports Illustrated" and the author of a weekly column syndicated by the New York Herald Tribune, wrote the story after a visit to the Sandhills September 4 and 5.

Describing the area as "decorated with hounds, horses and golf holes," Sutton took the reader on a brief tour of the many resort facilities offered in the area. He touched on the golf courses, hotels in both towns, horse facilities, and temperature. He also described the various methods of reaching the area and told of the type person who lived here in the winter months.

"The difference between the towns," he wrote, "is that Southern Pines is golf and horse, and Pinehurst is golf and horses."

In the article, entitled "Carolina Pines," Sutton had the cooperation of the State Advertising Division of the Department of Conservation and Development. He was brought here by Mrs. Miriam Rabb, travel editor of the State Advertising Division, and while here interviewed James Tufts of Pinehurst and Mayor Voit Gilmore of Southern Pines.
