Homecoming Observed

The Carthage Presbyterian Church observed its first homecoming Sunday with the Rev. William M. Currie, a son of the church and now associate pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Greensboro, giving the 11 o'clock message.

A long table under the pine trees on the church lawn was laden with delicious food prepared by the ladies of the congregation.

The day was perfect, with warm fall sunshine, and the congregation with a large number of invited guests and former members back for the day enjoyed the dinner and fellowship.

The committee in charge of arrangements left nothing to be wished for. One group served coffee and another poured lemonade.

Services will be held each night at 7:30 through the week with the Rev. Mr. Currie as guest preacher.
