Mrs. S. R. Newton, Lifetime Resident, Dies Here Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Catherine Shaw Newton, 79, lifetime resident of Southern Pines, were held Saturday at Manly Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Newton died Friday morning at St. Joseph's Hospital after a lingering illness. The Rev. Grover Currie, pastor of the church, officiated at the services, assisted by the Rev. C. K. Ligon, pastor of Brownson Memorial Presbyterian Church.

Burial was in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Don Smith, Dan West, Herbert Wilson, Frank Wilson, John M. Goldsmith and E. Richardson.

Honorary pallbearers were Chester Calloway, Ernest Wilson, Tom Wilson, James Sessoms, W. H. Hick and Charlie Block.

Mrs. Newton was born February 15, 1877, in the old Shaw homestead, first house to be built on the present site of Southern Pines and now restored by the Moore County Historical Association. She was the daughter of "Squire" Charles Washington and Kate Blue Shaw, member of Scottish pioneer families. Mr. Shaw was Southern Pines' first mayor.

When the Shaw house was officially opened in April, 1948, Mrs. Newton was honored at a tea held there by Mrs. W. C. Deadwyler, who had invited many of the members of pioneer families to enjoy the occasion.

Mrs. Newton was the widow of Scott Rockwood Newton, who moved here from New Hampshire in the town's early days.

She was for many years a member of Bethesda Presbyterian Church. Later, she transferred her membership to Manly Presbyterian Church. She holds a life membership in the Manly Women of the Church organization.

Surviving are one daughter, Mary Scott; two sons, Charles Edwin, chief of the Southern Pines Police Department, and Roy, both of Southern Pines; 7 grandchildren, and nine great-grandchildren.

A TRIBUTE

In the death of Mrs. Newton, Moore County loses one more in the gallant company of Old-timers.

As the veterans of the Grey ranks slip away, year by year, so do those hardy and upstanding souls, Moore County's veterans, slip away, and the county and its people are the poorer.

The poorer and yet not the poorer. For as each one goes, there comes a rush of memories, a flood-tide that grows and will always grow, testimony to the life that was lived and the inspiration left for those who come after.

"Our echoes roll from soul to soul, And grow forever and forever."

Mrs. Newton was a real Old-timer, and the thought gave her, always, much satisfaction. She loved to think and tell about the old times. She was descended directly from Moore County's early settlers, and in her character the heritage was strong and clear, for she had the rugged, high-minded qualities of the early Scots.

Kindly, keen of wit and mind, humorous, she was intensely interested in life, loved her community, her friends and kinsmen; most of all, she loved her family, a devotion that was returned in full.

But back of everything in Mrs. Newton's life, and the basic fabric of her being, was her religious belief that sustained and strengthened her; in the long illness and acute sufferin, which she endured, always the words, "God's will be done," were on her lips. Like those early settlers, her religion was her life.

She was held in high esteem, in deepest respect by this community. She leaves many who mourn her going and who will ever hold in gratitude the memory of this long and fruitful life. —K.L.B.

WITH THE ARMED FORCES

Major James J. McDonald, formerly of the Air Force Air Ground Operations School here, was recently awarded the University of Maryland's Scholastic Achievement Medallion in a formal presentation at AMFEA Headquarters in Europe.

Major McDonald, who now heads the AMFEA OIS Visitors Bureau, received the award for appearing on the dean's list with an "A" average in German language for the fifth term. The mark was achieved by only one-half of one per cent of all students enrolled in the University's Overseas program.

Herman A. Smith III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Smith, Jr., of 905 N. May St., Southern Pines, completed recruit training October 15 at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C.

Relatives and friends of many of the new Marines were on hand to witness the graduation ceremonies.

The 12-week training schedule included drill, bayonet training, physical conditioning, parades and ceremonies, and other military subjects.
