 Accident Friday

A Vass youth and his date, both 16 years old, were injured Friday night when the car he was driving ran off the Union Church Road and overturned, shortly before midnight.

Charles Curtis Ferguson received head and arm injuries. His date, Mary Elizabeth Frye of Route 1, Cameron, suffered multiple contusions, according to the weekend report of the State Highway Patrol. Both were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

The car, according to Cpl. Jim McColman, was torn up. Investigation is still underway and no charges have been preferred.

The accident was the only one over the weekend involving personal injury. Three other wrecks were investigated last week, all in minor accidents, but the SHP said no serious damage was reported.

THEATRES CAROLINA

Continuing through this Thursday-Saturday at the Carolina Theatre, is "A Cry In The Night" with Edmond O'Brien, Natalie Wood, Brian Donlevy and Raymond Burr.

An added attraction is the special Technicolor, short subject, "The Amazon Trader," photographed entirely in the Amazon regions of South America. The picture has some breath-taking scenic wonders to present, several stories to offer with professional performers, headed by John Sutton, and the lush, dense flora and wild fauna found only in the depths of the South African jungle, through which the Amazon River flows.

Spencer Tracy, one of the screen's most distinguished actors, gives what may well be called the crowning performance of his career in one of the year's greatest motion pictures, "The Mountain," coming to the Carolina Sunday through Wednesday, November 4-7, with three shows Sunday at 3-7-9.

Starred with Robert Wagner and co-starred with Claire Trevor in an incredibly suspenseful, magnificently filmed story of heroism at the top of the world, Tracey creates a memorable portrait of rugged strength and profound dignity.

Two eternally dramatic themes background this tour de force performance, that of brother pitted against brother and man against hostile nature, with both playing an important role in an adventure story unmatched in recent memory for sheer, terrifying tension.

Interwoven with the basic plot is the excellently played, gently humorous theme of the September romance of Tracy and Claire Trevor.

Included in the supporting cast is the bright and auspicious debut of the exquisite beauty from Calcutta, Ana Kashfi.

The VistaVision, Technicolor Alpine scenery is extraordinary. Its like has never been put on film before.

The Carolina also announces the coming of the special production, of Leo Tolstoy's great novel, "War And Peace," which will grace the screen beginning Wednesday, November 14. On account of the extra length of this great masterpiece, (208 minutes) the hours of showings will be distinctly different from the usual, or about the same as those of the run of that other great production, "Gone With The Wind."

SUNRISE

John Wayne and Lauren Bacall star in "Blood Alley," a Batjac production for Warner Bros., in CinemaScope and WarnerColor playing Tuesday only at the Sunrise Theatre.

The same producer-director-actor team which scored so heavily in "The High and the Mighty" John Wayne and William A. Wellman, are together again in "Blood Alley," which bids fair to even better their previous efforts.

The Warner Bros. picture captures a story as hot as today's headlines. It brings to the screen a powerful adventure drama and a poignant love story.

For Wayne, the role is that of a two-fisted adventurer, exactly the type of part that his fans, who have made him the top box office attraction in the world today, seem to prefer him in.

For Miss Bacall, the outdoor role is a complete change from the drawing-room siren type she has played so much in the past. She reportedly emerges as an entirely new personality, playing the determined daughter of an American caught in the cross-fire of intrigue and action.

An antiquated ferry boat is reputed to have an important prop role in the picture. The boat is said to have been reconstructed from a tow boat for barges, and emerges disguised as an old wood-burning ferry.

 Pastor Will Be Honored Next Week

The Rev. G. D. McNeil, Jr., pastor of the Harrington Chapel, Freewill Baptist Church in West Southern Pines, will be honored with a series of anniversary services at the church November 7-11.

The services will mark the close of two years of ministry by the Rev. McNeil, who came to Southern Pines from Dunn where he was a public school teacher.

He was also worked at the Johnston County Training School in Smithfield and the Lawson Institute here.

The services which begin next Wednesday will have a different pastor each night through Sunday. The Rev. McAdams, Emmanuel Presbyterian Church, the Rev. J. W. Peek, Refuge Church of Christ, the Rev. E. A. Jackson, St. Matthew's Chapel, and the Rev. G. B. Gilchrist of the First Missionary Baptist Church will preach.

Services will be held nightly, except Saturday, at 8 p. m., with the final anniversary service scheduled at 3 p. m. Sunday.
