uation" that North Carolina is now in: "drawing nourishment from fear." "gerrymandering districts to perpetuate the Democrats in power," and "sinking in literacy while growing in migration."

Ewing said that more people are leaving the state all the time because of the political situation that causes the state to be on the bottom of the list "in many things that are good."

He asked: "Do we want a summer White House in Southern Pines?" The crowd answered, "No!" He then asked, "Who do we want for the First Lady?" The answer, "Mamie!"

"And who is Mamie's husband?" The crowd shouted, "Ike!"

"And who do we like?" "Ike!" they shouted.

Other Speakers

Other speakers on the program, introduced by Don Kennedy, included Mrs. Katherine McColl of Southern Pines, and Jesse W. Page, formerly of Pinehurst, who is now campaign manager for Charles W. Jonas in his quest for reelection to Congress from the 10th North Carolina district.

Page spent considerable time explaining the ballot and election procedures. He said that Mecklenburg Republicans are spending thousands of dollars trying to explain how Republicans should "keep out of the circle" if they wanted to vote Republican. He was referring to a law that was passed by the State Election Board's rule the last General Assembly that a vote in the circle for a straight ticket would go to the party circled, regardless of the other candidates' names marked if they appeared on the other side of the ballot.

Others introduced included R. G. Wallace of Carthage, county chairman of the Republican Party; Les Cohen of Montgomery County, chairman of the Republican Party there; Clarence Gordon, J. Carr Paschal and Arthur V. Atkins, candidates for Moore County Board of Commissioners; W. Clement Barrett of Carthage, GOP candidate for State Senator from this district; Mrs. Malcolm Grover, Mrs. Raye DeBerry, George Leonard, H. H. Pethick, Nelson Hyde and Joe Warren, all members of the Moore County Board of Commissioners Committee and several other guests.

Wilson has heard, that it finally became necessary for him to say he would spend the money," the Senator said.

As to the importance of electing Democrats to Congress, Senator Ervin said that North Carolina and other states in the South would lose their positions of importance on the various Congressional Committees if the Republicans were elected. That, he pointed out, was the single most important reason for voting the Democratic ticket.

He said he had been speaking throughout the state during the present campaign and "never have I seen such a sense of unity and desire to win since 1936."

Other Speakers

Other speakers on the program included Voit Gilmore, mayor of Southern Pines, who said that there were three reasons why people should vote Democratic this year: the possibility that Southern Pines would become the "little White House," the fact that the Democratic party has produced great leaders both in the state and in the country and has a good reservoir to draw from, and the fact that Adlai Stevenson is a "man of good health, great vision, and tremendous intellect."

H. Clifton Blue, Moore County's representative to the North Carolina General Assembly, called on Democrats to vote the straight party ticket. "We nominate our candidates in the primary, then join behind them and vote for them. In the national election, Democrats should, likewise, vote for the Democratic nominees."

Charles F. Gold of Rutherfordton, North Carolina's Commissioner of Insurance, spoke briefly and called on all citizens to exercise their right to vote, "but vote Democratic," he said.

Judge J. Vance Rowe of the Moore Recorder's Court, also spoke briefly, telling a story that he has told before at rallies. He sold a bull in the early days of the Truman Administration for 29 cents a pound, he said. Recently, the same size bull brought only 11 cents a pound. "And it was a better bull, too," he added.

W. Lamont Brown, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee in the county, presided and introduced the speakers. He also introduced guests from throughout the county.

The rally, which was presided over by Lloyd T. Clark, chairman

Stanton Hill Club

The Stanton Hill Club met in October with Mrs. Hilton Kelly, with Mrs. Wilson Dalrymple as co-hostess. Since it was State Fair Week, Miss McDonald and Mrs. Muse had to be in Raleigh, so two representatives from Carolina Power and Light company gave the lesson on broiling.

A very delicious meal was prepared in a short time consisting of asparagus in the bottom of the broiler pan, hamburger steaks on the racks, potatoes and peaches garnishing the dish. Each member was invited to sample the meal.

At the conclusion of the meeting the hostesses served ice cream, cake, and coffee.—By Mrs. Walter McDonald, publicity chairman, Stanton Hill Club.
