Brooklyn Negro To Be Returned Here For Stealing Car

Additional information on the arrest of Robert Lee Westmoreland, 41-year old Brooklyn Negro who came here about three weeks ago and tried to kill his wife, has been relayed to Chief of Police C. E. Newton by Federal officials.

Westmoreland, it is reported, is in jail in New York City being held under $5,000 bond for stealing a car and transporting it across state lines. According to the officials, he had cross-wired the ignition in a car owned by W. L. Baker of North Bennett Street and fled.

The car theft was allegedly after he had assaulted his wife here, and happened just a few minutes after the assault.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation arrested him November 17 in Brooklyn where he is an apartment house janitor. After he is tried on the transporting charges, he will be brought back here to face the larceny and assault charges.

Chief Newton said he was informed by Mr. Baker that a number of fruit cakes, valued at $30, had been in the car when it was stolen. They were Mr. Baker's quota in a Lions Club sale, the funds of which would have been used for Lions' work.

Westmoreland, it is reported, sold or otherwise disposed of the cakes and also sold a car heater.

The first issue of Christmas Seals sold to raise funds to fight tuberculosis in 1907 was quickly bought up by an enthusiastic public. A second edition had to be printed to fill the demand. Both are now collectors' items.

Half a century ago most people believed that nothing could be done about tuberculosis. The first Christmas Seal Sale in 1907 carried a message of hope that TB could be prevented and cured.

Carolina Orchids To Hold Floral Design School

Carolina Orchids, Inc., has invited some 300 florists from North and South Carolina, Virginia and Georgia, to attend a private orchid design school at its Southern Pines greenhouses Sunday, December 2.

The school will feature the versatile use of unusual varieties, and out-of-the-ordinary designs for the better known cuttleys. The guest list is limited to commercial florists.

James H. Davis, University Florist, Chapel Hill, will head the staff of outstanding designers.

The arrangements and corsages developed at the school will be on display beginning next Monday in the windows of Barnum Realty and Insurance Company, Franjean's, Tots' Toggery and Piedmont Electric Company in Southern Pines, and Christine Page, Inc., in Pinehurst.
