

250 STUDENTS ATTEND

Good Sportsmanship Stressed At Annual Educo Club Clinic

The second annual "sportsmanship clinic" for Moore County high school students was held in Carthage recently and attracted some 250 representatives from each of the county's schools.

The clinic, sponsored by the Moore County Educo Club, is designed primarily to promote sportsmanship in the schools and to function as a clearinghouse for new ideas that would foster better relations between the schools, particularly in the field of sports.

L. J. "Hap" Perry, executive secretary of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association, attended and praised the efforts of the sponsors for what he termed an "excellent example of taking the lead in developing good sportsmanship."

Perry, who travels constantly throughout the state in his work, said it was his belief that Moore County was pioneering in the ever-growing field of inter-school relations.

At the clinic, which was held in the Carthage gym, each school had a boy and a girl to discuss sportsmanship and means of improving it. In addition, all members of the boys' and girls' basketball teams in the county were in attendance, plus representatives from each student body.

The students built their short talks around three principal factors:

1. In any contest, someone has to lose and members of teams should learn to lose gracefully.
2. The attitude of players is, in large part, the same that is transmitted to the fans in many instances.
3. It is highly important and desirable to maintain friendly and sociable attitudes to opponents both before and after the game, and to maintain friendly contacts with other schools throughout the season.

Bobby Parker and Anike Verhoeff represented the Southern Pines school at the clinic.

W. A. Leonard, member of the Educo Club, which is composed of all men teachers and administrators in each of the schools in the county.

Members of the planning committee for the clinic were Thad

Frye, superintendent of the Carthage system, James Bowles, coach at Pinehurst, and J. C. Phillips, Westmore principal.

Two Smash-Ups In Nine Days Puts Man In Hospital

A young Fort Bragg soldier, who was involved in two automobile smash-ups in a nine-day period, was in the Fort Bragg hospital this morning recovering from severe injuries received in the latest mishap.

Linden Eldon Spivey, 18, whose home is on Route 1, Carthage, ran his car, a 1949 Plymouth, off the Talc Mine Road about 7:30 Saturday night and turned over twice. Patrolman H. A. Hight, who investigated, said he appeared to have been going at a high rate of speed.

Spivey was also involved in an accident near Cameron slightly more than a week previously. While Patrolman Hight was conducting his investigation, Patrolman Ed Shomaker came to assist him and, discovering who the driver was, wrote a ticket citing him to court for the other accident. He said that Spivey had apparently lost control of the first vehicle, smashed it up and, before anyone could arrive, had left to go to the hospital.

He never had notified the State Highway Patrol, which is mandatory in highway accidents.

In the latest smash-up Spivey received lacerations about the head in addition to opening the old wound he had received in the earlier accident, and suffered a fractured skull.

Three others in the car also received injuries and two of them, along with Spivey, were removed to the military hospital at Fort Bragg. The fourth, who was unidentified, received treatment from a Robbins doctor.

Dr. Neal To Attend Veterinarian's Meet

Dr. J. I. Neal of Midland Road will fly Sunday to Chicago for the national meeting of the Equine Practitioners Association. He will return Wednesday of next week.

Dr. Neal is a charter member of this veterinarians' group which is now in its second year of existence. Its members are mostly practitioners who deal with race horses.
