Observes 98th Birthday
Mrs. George Bruton, better known as "Miss Kitty Ann," a former Moore County native now making her home with her son, D. D. Bruton, and family in Chadbourn, passed her 98th birthday on February 8.

Mrs. Bruton has been in Chadbourn for the past three years but is remembered and loved by a host of relatives and friends in Moore County. For several years she lived in Carthage with her daughter, Mrs. P. H. McDonald. "Miss Kitty Ann," a remarkable lady, is growing old gracefully, is very alert in mind and enjoys visits from friends. She suffered a fall some years ago, but seems to have fully recovered and has her meals each day with the family in the dining room.

Assembly's Youth Sunday
The young people of Carthage Presbyterian Church conducted the 11 o'clock service Sunday, February 3, and presented an interesting program on "Youth Work."

Miss Janet Carter, leader, introduced the program. Tommy Currie gave the Scripture reading and O. D. Wallace, Jr., adult leader offered prayer. A trio composed of Mrs. O. D. Wallace, Jr., Candace McDonald and Joan Morrison sang a special number.

Francis McCaskill, Ruth Anna McDonald and Nancy Gardner gave informative talks on "Christianity in Action," "Christianity Everywhere" and "Christianity Together." Mose Boyette spoke on "What Does the Church Say to Young People?" A poem was given by Kay Patterson.

Ushers were Watson Dalrymple, Archie McLeod, Jr., John L. Currie and Don McCalum.
