

VICTIM RECOVERED

Robeson County Woman Freed Of Shooting Charges In Court Monday

Jessie Bell Oxendine Kilgore, 27, an Indian woman from Robeson County, was found not guilty in Moore Recorder's Court Monday on charges of shooting Charles Maples in a roadhouse in the northern end of the county earlier in the month.

The woman, who had told officers when she was arrested that Maples had "bothered" her, did not deny the shooting Monday but reaffirmed her previous reasons. Maples, who has recovered from his wounds, told a completely different version on the stand. He said he had not bothered her and could give no reason for the shooting.

Both were employed at the Carolina Pines roadhouse on US 1 close to the Lee County line.

Mrs. Kilgore had been free on $1,500 bond for her appearance in court.
