News and Personals from Vass

Bessie Cameron Smith, Representative — Telephone Vass 2171

To Build Parsonage

At a congregational meeting immediately following the regular worship service at the Vass Methodist Church last Sunday morning, the group voted to build a parsonage. The church is to have a full time resident pastor at the beginning of the new church year July 1st, and the decision to build immediately was made in order to have a place ready for him.

D. H. Williams, chairman of the Official Board presided, and he and A. M. Cameron, chairman of an investigation committee, presented the committee's findings and recommendations to the congregation. A house plan which the committee recommended was also approved.

Mr. Williams announced that the A. Cameron Estate had offered to donate either of two lots near the church as a parsonage site, one between the D. F. Cameron home and the Clyde Cox property, the other a lot next to the home of Mrs. G. W. Brooks, the third lot from the church on the same street. The latter was the one favored.

The following were elected as a building committee, upon nominations from the floor: A. M. Cameron, chairman; J. M. Davis, Redga Thomas, James E. Hudson and Mrs. S. R. Smith. The church has recently completed paying for an educational building. A systematic plan for payment was made when the project was undertaken, and it was so successfully completed that officials feel that the new project, so necessary to the growth of the church, can also be attained.

Town Caucus

At Monday night's town caucus held at the community house, with Mayor A. G. Edwards, Jr., presiding, and Town Clerk Irene Mullinix serving as secretary, Hugh McLean and Roby Futrell were nominated for mayor, and 15 names were put up for commissioner.

Cameron, Horace Mullinix, Ed Boggs, Edgar Mashburn, Preston Boggs, and Pete Mashburn. Some of these have already indicated that they do not plan to qualify.
