Baccalaureate Service

"And who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this" from Esther 3:14 was the Scripture passage on which the Rev. A. C. Trivette, pastor of the Cameron, Vass and Union Presbyterian Churches, based his message to the seniors in the baccalaureate service Sunday night which opened the commencement of Vass-Lakeview High School.

The service began with Mendelsohn's "War March of the Priests" as a processional with the seniors—the girls in white caps and gowns, the boys in blue, colors of Vass-Lakeview School—marching in, led by the capped and gowned mascots, Barbara Sawyer and Stewart McFayden.

Scattered facing the congregation were the 60 or more members of the combined high school and elementary glee clubs, whose music was an outstanding feature of the service. Mrs. W. E. Gladstone was accompanist.

The stage was unusually attractive with several large baskets of red gladioli and white feverfew.

The Rev. Thomas Wolfe, Baptist minister, gave the opening invocation, followed by the singing of the Doxology. The Rev. James Eskridge of the Methodist Church read the Scripture lesson.

Iris Jackson, soloist, and the glee clubs sang Handel's "Largo," and, after the sermon, the High School glee club sang "Come to Me, All Ye That Labor" by T. Roff, with Douglas Johnson doing the solo part.

With Roger Gibbs as glee club organizer and director the pupils have made wonderful progress since the club was started about a month before Christmas, it was noted.

Mr. Eskridge pronounced the benediction and the glee clubs sang "Now the Day Is Over" as a choral response, and Sullivan's "Onward, Christian Soldiers" as a recessional.

Commencement marshals are: Polly Key, chief; D. A. McNeill, Reba Willard, Jimmy Mashburn, Mary Ruth Smith, and Estelle McIntosh. Marshals were chosen from the Junior Class on the basis of scholarship.

Supt. John McCrummen, who welcomed the people to the service, announced as other commencement events the Class Day exercises Wednesday night and Graduation exercises Thursday night, May 22 and 23, at 8 o'clock.

Seniors Entertained: Last Thursday at 6 p. m., Mrs. L. B. McWilliams and Mrs. Murdoch Cameron, mothers of the valedictorian and salutatorian, entertained the seniors at a spaghetti supper at the Lakeview community house.

From there the seniors went to the school to practice their Class Day exercises, and after rehearsal, Mrs. W. J. Morgan served refreshments at her home.

Presbyterian Circles: The circles of the Presbyterian Women of the Church held their monthly meetings last week, with business sessions, programs, Bible study and refreshments.

Mrs. C. G. Crockett, Jr., and Mrs. W. D. McGill were the May hostesses for the Jane McGill Circle, which met at the church. Mrs. McGill was called to Claremont by the illness of her father and could not attend. Mrs. Ben H. Wood presided and Mrs. P. A. Wilson led the Bible study, with Mrs. M. M. Chappell, Mrs. Johnny Hicks, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Delmas Kimball and Mrs. Crockett taking part. Mrs. N. N. McLean was program leader. She was assisted in presenting it by Mrs. Leon Keith, Mrs. D. F. Cameron, and Mrs. Kimball.

Miss Polly Gilmore was hostess to Circle 1. Mrs. Hugh McLean led the program with Mrs. J. A. Hudson taking part, and the Rev. A. C. Trivette conducted the Bible study.
