Dr. Raymond, 85 Dies; Had Served As Pastor Here

The Rev. C. Rexford Raymond, D. D., 85, retired Congregational Christian minister, died January 15 at the Cushing Hospital, Framingham, Mass., it was learned here this week. He was a former pastor of the Church of Wide Fellowship here.

Dr. Raymond was born in Evans, New York, February 29, 1872. He was graduated in 1895 with an A. B. from Oberlin College. He received his B. D. degree from Oberlin Theological School in 1900. Berea College honored him with the Doctor of Divinity degree in 1914. He was married to E. Rose Landin of Angela, New York in June, 1900. She died in 1943, while living in South Carolina. In 1949 he married Mrs. Lillian B. Miles who lives in Southern Pines.

He began his work at Berea College, Berea, Kentucky, as instructor of English and Greek. He was called back to this same institution to serve from 1918 to 1923 as dean of religious education and college preacher.

Dr. Raymond served churches in Ohio, New York, Tennessee and North and South Carolina. His last church was in Charleston, S. C., where he retired in 1950, to live with his daughter, Mrs. Thomas E. Bailey in Frederick, Md. For the past two years he has lived with his other daughter, Mrs. Orville D. Ullom of Maynard, Mass.

In addition to his daughters, survivors are two grandchildren and one great-grandchild and a sister, Miss Ellen R. Raymond of Evanston, Ill.

Rummage To Head Peach Men Again

Members of the N. C. Mutual Peach Growers Society, meeting for their annual business and discussion session at the Carolina Hotel in Pinehurst on Tuesday, reelected W. H. Rummage of Ellerbe as president for the coming year.

Other officers were Page McAulay of Candor, vice-president and John C. Wyatt of Candor who was reelected secretary and treasurer.

About 100 growers attending the meeting, heard talks on marketing and other phases of the business. Dean D. W. Colvard of the State College school of agriculture spoke at a banquet Tuesday night, introduced by T. Clyde Auman of West End.

Prune peaches, apples, and grape vines. Remember that grapes will be produced on shoots that come from buds on canes that grew last year. Peaches are produced on wood that grew last year and apples on wood two years old (or older) and on spurs.

Otto H. Folley, Aberdeen's First Mayor, Succumbs

Otto Halbert Folley, 78, of Sumter, S. C., died suddenly at his home Tuesday morning.

Mr. Folley, Aberdeen's first mayor (late 1890's) was the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Folley, who came to Aberdeen from Warren, Pa. in the spring of 1885 (Aberdeen was then known as Blue's Crossing). Mr. Folley attended business school in Macon, Ga., and worked with the Seaboard Railroad, then with Aberdeen and Rockfish Railroad. In 1907, he went to Sumter and established the O. H. Folley Lumber Company. He later purchased the Sumter Planing Mills and Lumber Company, which he was operating with his two sons at the time of his death.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Willie May Bates Folley; two sons, O. H. Folley, Jr., and Louis B. Folley, and two grandsons, all of Sumter; two sisters, Mrs. J. H. Levy, Longport, N. J. and Mrs. L. Wren of Siler City; and one brother, Max H. Folley of Southern Pines.

Funeral services were conducted in Sumter Wednesday afternoon, with burial in the Sumter Cemetery. Attending the funeral from the Sandhills were Max H. Folley, Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Butler and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin L. Folley, all of Southern Pines; Mr. and Mrs. Jere McKeithen and Mrs. Edwin T. McKeithen, of Aberdeen.

'Rocket Circle' Features Area

A two-page feature in the current issue of the "Oldsmobile Rocket Circle" — a publication of the Oldsmobile Division of General Motors, having a nation-wide circulation — tells about the attractions of the Sandhills section of North Carolina.

Sports events, places to stay and things to do in this area are listed in the article which has two color photos, a map of the area, a photo of harness racing at Pinehurst and color and black and white decorative drawings.

The feature is headed "Southern Comfort" and says in a sub-headline, "The Sandhills section of North Carolina packs the mildest climate and the sportiest golf courses in an easy-going sports resort."

The feature was brought to the attention of Chamber of Commerce directors at a recent meeting. Newland Phillips, proprietor of Phillips Motor Co., local Oldsmobile agency, says that he has several hundred copies of the publication. These are available without charge.
