

SOUVENIRS OF STORM — Though Pilot readers have no doubt seen enough snow in the Sandhills to last them for many years, here are some souvenir scenes from last week's snowfall of seven and a half inches—the second of about that depth in a week. Becky Lucas, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Lucas, 155 E. Massachusetts Ave., poses in her yard with a whole family of snow people—Papa at left, Mama at right and Junior below—she made and outfitted from her own wardrobe. At left is a wall of snow blocks, along which the family is strolling for a winter promenade. Biggest icicle in the area (below) was formed on the water tank of the Pinecrest Manor Apartments on Saunders Boulevard, extending from the tank to the ground, in some places. It was still snowing hard Wednesday of last week when the overturned truck and trailer was photographed near Skyline on No. 1 highway, north. Standing in front of the wheels is driver Paul LaRussa of Birmingham, Ala., who stayed in his cab as the big vehicle skidded and overturned, ending unhurt, high over the trailer. The Malone Freight Lines trailer was loaded with textiles. Man at left was not identified. (V. Nicholson photo at top. Pilot photos at bottom)

Court Term Ends Early; Divorces Granted to 13

A term of Moore County Superior Court, for trial of civil cases, which opened at Carthage Monday was adjourned Wednesday by Judge F. Donald Phillips of Rockingham.

Illness of two Carthage attorneys involved in a number of the cases on the calendar—H. F. Seawell, Jr., and W. D. Sabiston—was a major factor in the adjournment.

Non-suits were taken in some cases and judgments reached in a few others, prior to the adjournment.

Thirteen uncontested divorces were granted on grounds of two years' separation on Monday.

They were: Alicia Blue Savoie vs. Arthur Raymond Savoie; Emma Frances Shiflett vs. Shirley Linwood Shiflett; Willie Kate Shaw vs. Jasper A. Shaw; E. E. Rushing vs. Aletha C. Rushing; Annie Vestal vs. Grant Vestal; Margaret Rice Batts vs. John H. Batts, Jr.; Barbara Moore Maness vs. Billie Lee Maness; James B. Ingram, Jr., vs. Eula Thompson Ingram; James E. Tucker vs. Dolie N. Tucker; Anne V. Dietsch vs. Charles E. Dietsch.

NAVY BAND

Programs Listed
The program for the matinee will open with a fanfare by the Navy Band's famous trumpets and continue with The National Anthem; Introduction to Act III from "Lohengrin" by Richard Wagner; La Belle Helene Overture, Jacques Offenbach; The Blue Bells of Scotland, Arthur Pryor; Suite Celtica, Luis Arague; The Huntsman, Leo Stanley; a Latin medley including Perfidia, A. Dominguez and Brazil A. Barroso; Artists Life Waltz, Johann Strauss; La Danza, Tarentella Napolitana, Rossini; and a medley from "The Music Man," Meredith Wilson.

The evening concert program includes Donna Diana Overture, Emil N. Reznicek; Capriccio Eskov; Carnival of Venice, Jean Baptists Arban; Aria and Bacchanale from "Samson and Delilah," Camille St. Saens; French Military Marching Song, Sigmund Romberg; Tally Ho! Roger Bartotti; Tales from the Vienna Woods, Johann Strauss; Rudolph's Narrative from "La Boheme," Giacomo Puccini; and Portrait of a Frontier Town, an arrangement by Lt. M. E. Ford, U.S.N.

Jaycee President Paul Borroughs, Jr., has announced that a large 9'x17' American flag donated by Sidney Taylor of Aberdeen will be used as a backdrop for the band concerts. Gratitude was expressed to all others offering flags.

Local Boys to Play
William McAdams, Music Director of Southern Pines City Schools, has announced that Dick Hoskins and Frank Staples of the Southern Pines High School Band and David Funderburk and John Dawless of the Aberdeen High School Band will play with the band at the matinee concert.

A color guard of National Guardsmen will present the colors at the opening of both the evening and matinee performances. Ushers for the concerts will be retired Navy personnel now living in the Sandhills, reports Dr. Joe Currie, chairman of the reception and decorating committee.

The parade originally announced for Saturday, March 19, has been cancelled because of a change in the scheduled arrival of the Navy Band.

STEEPLECHASE

Gates will open at noon for race fans who bring picnic lunches and a pre-race program of special events will precede the 2 p. m. start of the racing. The 82nd Airborne Division's band and precision drill team will perform and famous trotters and pacers stabled at Pinehurst will be paraded.

The card lists seven races in all. Parking spaces and tickets can be obtained from the office of Donald D. Kennedy, race chairman, in the MacKenzie Building on W. New Hampshire Ave.

Proceeds of the hunt meeting, beyond expenses, go to the Women's Auxiliaries of Moore Memorial and St. Joseph of the Pines Hospitals.

KARLSRUD, FETSCH

yer. Campus theatricals and solo appearances with the University Chorus and Concert Band, however, brought a pre-graduation music scholarship to the Juilliard School in New York.

Mr. Karlsrud received his bachelor's degree in music at Juilliard. While still in school he organized the Men of Song quartet and performed with them for several years.

Now only 32, the handsome Mr. Karlsrud has made more than 700 professional concert appearances, as a soloist and with the Men of Song and another group he organized, the Concertmen.

He has been a popular network television guest performer and has had many successful dates in theaters and clubs. He has appeared at the larger hotels in the New England resort mountains.

Dr. Fetsch was born in Mannheim, Germany, a city steeped in musical traditions, so that opportunities for enriching his musical interest abounded. His study with Fetsch senior, Continental virtuoso and conductor, was augmented by study abroad under noted musicians, including Leonid Kreutzer.

In the United States he attended Indiana University where he studied piano with Bela Nagy. He graduated with the degree of Doctor of Music in Piano Literature and Performance.

Before coming to the United States, Dr. Fetsch lived in the Far East with his symphony conductor father who had accepted a prominent position in Japan. Dr. Fetsch was repeatedly featured as soloist with the Tokyo Symphony Orchestra and the Nippon Philharmonic Orchestra.

As a teacher, he worked with the U. S. Army Education Program and was on the staff of Osaka Music College in Japan and the University of Denver. He is now on the faculty of East Carolina College, Greenville.

Although Dr. Fetsch has been living in North Carolina for only a little more than two years, he is well known throughout the state as a superb artist and a master teacher. This season he is appearing as soloist with the Little North Carolina Symphony and the Full North Carolina Symphony.

Name Suggested for No. 1 Alternate; Advertising Committee Funds Lagging

Meeting at the Information Center Monday, the town Advertising Advisory Committee heard that the planning department of the State Highway Commission suggests that the Alternate No. 1 highway route through town be called "Southern Pines Business 1A."

The route was requested recently by the town council, to provide a marked route in and out of town for motorists wanting to visit the business section or the Information Center.

The committee maintains the Information Center, corner of Pennsylvania Ave. and S. E. Broad St., with a full time secretary, Mrs. Carl Ackers, in charge.

Committee funds—which are derived from a Town appropriation supplemented by private donations from business firms and professional people—are used also to advertise Southern Pines. The current schedule places advertisements in the Wall Street Journal, The Virginia Chronicle and Golf World. The committee also helps advertise sports events such as the Golf Carousel, the Stoneybrook Race Meet and the Moore County Hunter Trials.

Pictures of people participating in sports events here are mailed by the Information Center to newspapers in their home towns, creating interest in this community.

George Pottle, chairman of the committee, said this week that private contributions in the 1959 campaign for funds have been very slow in coming in and that many who contributed in 1958 have neglected to make a contribution in 1959-60. He pointed out that private funds are essential if the work of the committee is to be carried on at its present level.

Other members of the committee are Jimmy Hobbs, Morris Johnson, George H. Leonard, Jr., and Ward Hill.

Next meeting of the group will be Monday, March 28, in the Information Center at 10:30 a. m. The public is invited to this meeting and others to be held thereafter on Monday mornings at two-week intervals.

The meetings are regularly attended by Town Manager Louis Scheipers, Jr., and Mrs. Ackers.

ANTIQUES FAIR

(Continued from page 1) assisted by some 40 women volunteers from Moore County towns in staging the event. A lunch counter will be operated for the exhibitors and visiting public.

The Antiques Fair, draws attendance from the Southern Pines and Pinehurst resort hotels as well as from throughout the State and adjoining states. Dealers not exhibiting also attend such fairs in large numbers, giving those in the business a chance to view each other's items and buy items to fill their own needs.

Many of the exhibitors listed are repeaters from the first and second years. The publicity given golf and equestrian events and other seasonal activities draws the kind of crowds they like; also they themselves enjoy the resort life. One dealer from New York is coming early to get in some golf, and others to plan to stay over the weekend to attend the Stoneybrook Hunt Race Meet of next Saturday afternoon.

The Antiques Fair benefits projects of the Moore County Historical Society, of which the major one is the Alston House Restoration in Deep River Township.

MR. MAURICE

(Continued from page 1) built "Ballintoy," Mr. and Mrs. Maurice and their family lived in a small house he constructed on the farm. The new, larger house reflected Mr. Maurice's engineering training. Its roof, walls, floor and ceiling were built of reinforced, poured concrete, rendering it so fireproof that, though located in the woods, its owner never had fire insurance. Extensive gardens were developed nearby by Mrs. Maurice who, before her death, had planned the old-fashioned garden at the Shaw House here, which was later planted according to her plans and named the Ethel Maurice Memorial Garden.

Mr. Maurice concentrated on cotton in his early farming operations, was a leader in the development of peach growing in the 1920's and later conducted a general farm operation, aided by a resident manager. He worked closely with government agricultural agencies in planting crops for soil improvement and in instituting soil and water conservation measures.

About 125 of the 600-odd acres are now cleared and, in recent years, some of the acreage was being put back into pines. During World War I, Mr. Maurice commanded the Moore County company of the North Carolina Reserve Militia and once said that the most prized memento among the guns, books, hunting trophies and other possessions in the room in his home that he called his "office," was a cup won by the drill team of that militia company.

Soon after World War I, Mr. Maurice's first major public service project was accomplished when he mapped roads all over the county and, working with the township highway commissioners, planned road construction and improvements that gave the county its first good roads system.

During World War II, Mr. Maurice served the county as chairman of the Ration Board at Carthage, a difficult responsibility he discharged with notable fairness and vigor.

Mr. Maurice was appointed a member of the original building committee for Moore County (now Moore Memorial) Hospital in May, 1928, and was one of the original 15 directors of the hospital which was opened in November, 1929, serving on the board continuously—including three years as vice-president and four years as president—until 1956 when he asked to be relieved as director. At that time the board elected him honorary president and he held that title, continuing to take an interest in hospital affairs, until his death. He was appointed to the Executive Committee of the board in 1930 and was its chairman from 1934 to 1937.

Mr. Maurice was a director of the Bank of Pinehurst (now the Carolina Bank) for many years and was a director of the Pinehurst Religious Association which owns and operates the Village Chapel at Pinehurst. He was a member of Emmanuel Church, Southern Pines.

From his youth, Mr. Maurice had had a deep interest in history, especially the American past. He travelled extensively in the far West, tracing the trails of pioneers and frontiersmen. In discussing this interest, he once recalled standing in the "South Pass" of the Wind River Mountains, in Wyoming, and seeing, in his imagination, the trappers, hunters and settlers who had gone that way.

His study of Daniel Boone over many years—during which Mr. Maurice traced Boone's travels from his birthplace in Pennsylvania to Missouri where he died—culminated in the publication in 1955 of an illustrated booklet, "Daniel Boone in North Carolina." A revised edition was issued last year.

The booklet—based on personal interviews, studies of courthouse records and other research—established for the first time the locations of Boone's four cabins in North Carolina and produced other new information about the famous woodsman and guide.

Locally, Mr. Maurice's interest in the past was shown by his participation in the North Carolina Society for the Preservation of Antiquities, of which he served as the Eighth Congressional District vice-president from the Society's organization in 1939 until his death.

He helped to form and was for several years a director of the Moore County Historical Association. In recent years, he took a special interest in the restoration of the Alston House in Deep River Township—a major project of the Association—and actively supervised the work, as chairman.

In recognition of these activities, the Cannon Cup was awarded him by the Society for the Preservation of Antiquities in 1958.

Mr. Maurice was a charter member of the Sandhills Kiwanis Club—a civic club with county-wide membership—and in 1941 was awarded the club's Builder's Cup, an award for community service rendered without thought of personal gain.
