

Niagara Dairy Consolidates With Montgomery

Niagara Dairy, Moore County's oldest milk producer and distributor, has consolidated with Montgomery Dairy Products, Inc., of Troy, it was announced this week by Leroy Snipes, manager of the local dairy, and the Montgomery company.

Mr. Snipes, who has been distributor of Meadow Gold dairy products for more than two years, is now handling Montgomery products. Production of milk by the Niagara Dairy ceased about two years ago, though the family's 100-acre farm is in operation, managed by Robert Snipes, for general farming and beef cattle.

They are the sons of Mrs. Mary Snipes of Niagara and J. V. Snipes who died in 1947. The late Mr. Snipes began his dairy business more than 30 years ago with one cow bought to provide milk for his family, and it grew into a well known operation that served customers around the Sandhills. It was the last dairy in the county to produce its own milk, as well as being the oldest in point of service when it ceased independent operation about two years ago.

Leroy Snipes is married to the former Gay Wyatt of Georgia. They have two children, Carolyn, 4, and Debby, 2. Mr. Snipes is a member of the Woodmen and the local Moose Lodge.

In addition to her two sons, Leroy and Robert, Mrs. Mary Snipes has two daughters, Mrs. Robert Younts of Niagara and Mrs. Charles Myers of Delaware, Md. Montgomery Dairy Products was founded in 1947 by a group of Troy men who saw the need of a dairy products company to serve Troy and nearby areas. It now buys milk from Grade A producers in Moore, Montgomery and Stanly Counties and distributes its products in these counties and in Richmond, Hoke and Robeson Counties also.

The plant at Troy is completely modern and includes "ultra high vac heat" equipment that stabilizes the flavor of milk, after it has gone through a new, fast pasteurization process. Milk for the plant is collected exclusively in bulk tanks, eliminating human handling "from the cow to the table."

Seven of the company salesmen have homes in Moore County and the firm spent a quarter of a million dollars in Moore last year in payments to milk producers, salaries of employees and other expenses. Its Moore County sales top those of any other county it serves, John E. Hodge, general manager and executive vice president, said this week.

QUARANTINE

Brunswick, Johnston and Lenoir Counties, North Carolina, have been placed under witchweed quarantine for the first time. Williamsburg County, South Carolina, also has been added to the quarantine list. Witchweed has been found only in North and South Carolina. About 79,000 acres in North Carolina are infested by witchweed, a root-killing parasite.

Hitch Hike to Maryland

Bobby Alpert and Johnny Mills left Monday for Georgetown, Md. for a visit with Mac Mills and John Keith. From Pinebluff to Raleigh they had nine different rides. However, they were more fortunate on their next lap, having the good luck to ride to Richmond in an air-conditioned Oldsmobile. From Richmond they went by bus to Washington and had a slight layover there before going from there to Annapolis. Because of an ordinance that one could not thumb a ride in the city, the boys had to walk to the city limits before getting a ride. They arrived at the city limits at 5 a. m. and left there around eight o'clock arriving at Georgetown at one o'clock Tuesday night. On their return home they took the coastal route, spending Wednesday night at the YMCA in Norfolk. They arrived home Thursday night, tired but well pleased with their trip.

Mrs. Daniel Adams, Sandhills Native, Dies Here at 43

Requiem mass was sung Monday morning at St. Anthony's Catholic Church for Mrs. Lorena Montesanti Adams, 43, who died Saturday at St. Joseph of the Pines Hospital, after a long illness. Burial followed in Mount Hope Cemetery.

Mrs. Adams is survived by her husband, Lt. Col. Daniel B. Adams; a daughter, Danielle, 17 years old; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Montesanti, 240 Valley Road; and a brother, Joe Montesanti, Jr., Massachusetts Ave. extension. Her husband and daughter were here during her final illness.

Mrs. Adams first became ill in November, 1959, at Omaha, Neb., where Colonel Adams has been professor of military science at Creighton University since July, 1958, under the ROTC program. An operation was performed late in November, 1959, but there was a recurrence of her illness in April of this year. She was flown to North Carolina and entered St. Joseph's Hospital June 15. She was able to leave the hospital for short periods to visit her parents at their home, but became critically ill on Sunday, June 19.

Mrs. Adams was born at Cambridge, Mass., August 5, 1916, and came to Southern Pines with her parents in October of that year. Her father first visited the Sandhills in 1912, to become associated with the Highland Pines Inn in Southern Pines which was then under construction. The family moved to Pinehurst in 1919 and Mrs. Adams grew up there, attending Pinehurst schools.

Colonel and Mrs. Adams met when he was at Fort Bragg as a captain with the 47th Infantry in March, 1941. They were married at Sacred Heart Church in Pinehurst in May, 1942. Their daughter, Danielle, was born in May, 1943, after Colonel Adams had gone overseas with the 9th Infantry Division. In 1944, they bought a home on Midland Road — now leased to Roger Deering of Kennebunkport, Maine, for an art gallery, expecting eventually to occupy it after Colonel Adams' retirement from military service.

Mrs. Adams accompanied her husband to various military posts after World War II. From May, 1947 to June, 1951, he left active duty and they lived here. He was called back to duty in 1951 during the Korean War, serving three years at the U. S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga., and then in Korea. Mrs. Adams lived here again in 1955-56 and, on Colonel Adams' return, went with him to Fort McPherson, Ga., where he served a tour of duty at Headquarters, 3rd U. S. Army. The assignment to Omaha, Neb., followed.

Colonel Adams's mother, Mrs. Helen Adams, with a cousin, Miss Naomi Caldwell, of Cleveland, Ohio, were here for the funeral services.

Mrs. Adams had known since May that her illness would be fatal, though the end came sooner than had been expected. The two desires she had expressed were fulfilled before her death, to see her daughter graduate from school and to return to the Sandhills to see members of her family. Her courage and resignation during her final illness were noted and admired by all who were close to her.

Colonel Adams and his daughter will leave tomorrow for Omaha where he expects to continue his teaching at Creighton University.

AT MEETING HERE JULY 7

Civic, Religious Leaders to Discuss Campbell College Development Plans

A committee of Moore County civic and religious leaders will meet at the Jefferson Inn next Thursday evening, July 7, to consider the development program of Campbell College and how it will affect this county.

The event will be sponsored by the Sandhills Baptist Association and Campbell College. Co-chairmen for the dinner meeting will be the Rev. C. A. Kirby and Willis Kivett of Southern Pines. The Rev. Mr. Kirby, pastor of Carthage Baptist Church, is moderator of the Moore County Baptist organization and chairman of its central executive committee. Mr. Kivett, for 33 years a sales representative of Gulf Oil Company in Southern Pines, has served two terms as a trustee of Campbell College.

Pitts and Deane to Speak

Principal speaker will be Charles A. Pitts, who will discuss "The Importance of Christian Education to Evangelism." Pitts, prominent Canadian industrialist who recently established residence in Pinehurst, is active as a lay evangelist. A member of the Billy Graham advisory board, he also serves from time to time on the noted Baptist minister's evangelistic team. Most recently he assisted with Graham's Crusade in Washington, D. C., June 19-24.

Also speaking will be C. B. Deane of Rockingham and Dr. Leslie H. Campbell. Mr. Deane, former Congressman of the Eighth District, in the U. S. House of Representatives, is president of the North Carolina State Baptist Convention. Dr. Campbell, honored throughout the Southeast for his services to Southern education has been for more than 25 years president of Campbell College.

Next week's dinner-conference of Moore County leaders was recommended May 2 by the Sandhills Baptist central executive committee in a meeting at Ephesus Baptist Church. The Moore County Baptists have endorsed the present state-wide effort to underwrite developing Campbell College into a senior institution.

The move is necessary, Baptist educators think to fill the "educational void" created in the eastern half of the state by the moving of Wake Forest College to Winston-Salem.

On the recommendation of the Baptist State Convention in its special session of May, 1959, Campbell began last November a campaign for two million dollars to invest in endowment and plant needed to qualify it as a senior college. About half of this has been raised; two of the buildings are now going up on the campus; and a third is about to begin. The college hopes that freshmen entering this September will become its first college juniors in the fall of 1962.
