IN NEW ROOM—Several of the officers and directors of the Citizens Bank and Trust Company are shown in the new "North Carolina Room" on the second floor of the bank building. The room, on the west side of the building, was converted from an apartment and was furnished almost exclusively with items made in North Carolina. The room, seating 16 around a large table, replaces a much smaller directors' room and is offered by the bank without charge for the use of civic groups and has already been used by several organizations. Roy Newton of Southern Pines converted the room from the apartment and Miss Frances Pleasants of Pinehurst was in charge of decorating. The floor is covered with a Gulistan carpet made by the A. & M. Karagheussian plant at Aberdeen and drapery material was manufactured in the Amerotron mill at Robbins. The Boling Chair Co. of Siler City made the chairs and the big table is a product of the Myrtle Desk Co. of High Point. Seated, left to right, are: Dr. R. M. McMillan, James D. Hobbs, R. F. Hoke Pollock and R. M. Cushman, directors; N. L. Hodgkins, Jr., executive vice president; N. L. Hodgkins, president; and John M. Howerth and Dr. J. I. Neal, directors. (Humphrey photo)

INCREASES VARIETY OF PLAY New Pinehurst No. 5 Course Second Only to No. 2 in Golfing Challenge

Pinehurst's new No. 5 Course, which opened for play last week, is a challenging layout. Nine completely new holes have been added to the former No. 4 Course back nine, which originally was the first nine of the old No. 3 Course designed by Donald Ross and beloved by golfers.

The par-three 10th hole of last year's fourth course has become first for the Fifth, with all the rest of the 17 holes on the other side of the highway. Changes made include lengthening of the 3rd and 4th holes (old 12th and 13th), the former becoming a par-five and the latter more of a dog-leg to the left but retaining its par of four.

Two new water holes have been added, making a total of three with the famed Cathedral Hole (15th). The 11th is a par four, with the short way to the green over water and the long way around; while the 13th is a par three over water and measures 181 yards.

6 Receive Minor Injuries Friday In Car Collision

Six persons received minor injuries in an automobile collision at the intersection of E. Pennsylvania Ave. and Gaines St. in West Southern Pines at 8:30 a. m. Friday.

The spotlight at the intersection was out of order at the time of the accident in which a 1961 Ford owned and driven by Miss Harriet Barnum of Ridge St. extension and a 1957 Chevrolet owned by James Otis Williams and driven by Mrs. Ann Henderson Williams collided in the center of the intersection. Miss Barnum was driving east on Pennsylvania and Mrs. Williams was headed north on Gaines, with four passengers in the car.

Police Sgt. G. L. Wright, who investigated, said that no charges were being preferred against either of the drivers.

Miss Barnum, who received a leg injury, was treated at a physician's office and went later to a hospital for x-rays. Injuries to occupants of the Williams car, all of whom are West Southern Pines residents and are employees of Pine Needles Lodges and Country Club, were: Mrs. Williams, the driver, bruised shoulder; Mrs. Mary E. Tillman, cut face; Mrs. Gertrude Brokenbrough, cut on left leg, seven stitches; Mrs. Flora Brasdels, cut left leg, three stitches; Mrs. Charlie May Henderson, scraped left knee. All were treated at Moore Memorial Hospital.

Gavin, Others to Visit Fort Bragg On October 26

The 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, its troopers still exhilarated over the recent visit of President Kennedy, is now preparing to welcome its two wartime commanders Ambassador James M. Gavin and General Matthew B. Ridgway, and French Ambassador, Hervet Alphan, expected on October 26.

Ambassador Gavin and his French counter-part will present the Division with an urn containing soil from the site where the Division's first Normandy dead were buried near Ste. Mere-Eglise as well as earth from the Merderet River Bridgehead where 82nd Troopers withstood vicious German attacks at high cost in lives. The urn will be presented in the name of the Association France-Amerique at a formal review on the Division Parade Field at 10:30 a. m. An installation ceremony at the Division Museum will follow.

Ambassador Gavin, who commanded the 82nd longer than any other man in the Division's history, led Division elements into their first World War II combat. The dignitaries will arrive at Fort Bragg at 10 a. m. and will receive honors at the Main Post Parade Ground. Following the review and installation ceremonies, there will be a luncheon

State's Buildings Interesting, Eure Tells Kiwanis Club

Although North Carolina school children frequently visit the capitol building in Raleigh, the old structure should mean more to adult Tar Heels, Secretary of State Thad Eure told members of the Sandhill Kiwanis Club at their luncheon meeting in the Mid Pines Club yesterday.

The State official, who is marking his 25th year in the same elective office—a record that exceeds that of any living North Carolinian—described and extolled not only the old capitol but the new "statehouse" now under construction, covering a full city block, which will house the state Senate and House of Representatives, with related facilities, beginning with the 1963 General Assembly.

The term "statehouse," Mr. Eure recalled was applied to the building housing the state government before it was burned at Raleigh in 1831. It is of particular interest, he stressed, that North Carolina will have when the new structure is completed, a block from the capitol, a capitol building, a "statehouse" as in the years before 1831 and also a restoration of Tryon Palace at New Bern, the only other permanent seat of government that North Carolina (then a British colony) has had with the exception of Raleigh.

The speaker was introduced by H. Clifton Blue of Aberdeen, Moore County representative in the General Assembly. Dr. Robert VanderVoort, club president, presided.

Mr. Blue said in his introduction that Mr. Eure has served longer than any other secretary of state of any of the states and also longer than any other member of the "Council of State" in North Carolina. He praised the performance of Mr. Eure in his duties and said that he had never heard any criticism of his office.

Adams Speaks to Lutheran Men

Luther A. Adams, superintendent of Southern Pines schools, was the speaker Sunday at a meeting of Lutheran men from the Eastern District, at Trinity Lutheran Church in Sanford. His topic was "Importance and Need for Mission Development."

The afternoon meeting included a business session and workshops on program planning, in addition to Mr. Adams's address. A picnic supper was served.

Attending were representatives of 13 Lutheran Churches in Eastern North Carolina.

Mr. Adams has been prominent in organization of the new Our Savior Lutheran congregation in Southern Pines which is holding services in the Civic Club.
