

58 Golfers Play in First 'Whistles' Event

Fifty-eight golfers took part in the season's first tournament of the Tin Whistles Club at Pinehurst, played Friday, including a number of senior players here in advance of this week's North and South Seniors tourney.

Two teams tied for first place honors at 86 points in the par-bogey, better ball of pair contest—John N. Ledbetter, Jr., of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Frank K. Stevens of New Rochelle, N. Y., playing on No. 2 course; and Ralph A. Bullock of White Plains, N. Y., and Mercer C. Hufford of Pinehurst, playing on No. 3 course.

Southern incomes compare more favorably with the national average now than they did in 1940, but the South did more to narrow the gap between 1940 and 1945 than it has since.

Girl Scout Awards

The Parent-Teacher meeting was the scene Monday evening of nine curved bar awards to girl scouts of Troop 27. Before an enthusiastic audience, Dr. John C. Grier, Jr., scouting executive, made the presentation to the girls with their parents sitting with them on the stage. Over a period of eight years, their leader, Mrs. Harold Markham has worked with the troop and has assisted them with the badge requirements (14) for a curved bar which is equivalent to an Eagle for boys. Dr. Grier presented the bar to each scout with the mother of each recipient pinning it on her daughter.

In appreciation for their parents, each scout pinned a red rose on her mother and a white carnation on her father. The proud parents were all present with Scouts Libba Johnson, Brenda Graham, Opal Whisnant, Linda Williams, Jane Jackson, Delores Conrad, Joanne Sutphin, Sharon Richardson, and Becky Markham. Dr. Grier requested all curved bar scouts present to stand with their sister scouts, Betty Conrad and Miriam Gibson. Also present were the Intermediate and Brownie Troops with their leader, Miss Sawyer Fowle and the boy scouts with their leader, Floyd Cole, all in uniform.

Dr. Grier recognized the troop committee, including Mrs. E. L. Sutphin, Mrs. Colon Williamson and Mrs. W. E. Jackson. In behalf of the troop, Mrs. Markham presented Dr. Grier with a gift. The troop also wishes to express its appreciation to H. Clifton Blue for taking a picture of the group.

Prior to the meeting Troop 27 gave an impressive flag ceremony and led the group in an allegiance to the flag. Mrs. Markham presented the Rev. Aaron Tyson, who gave the invocation, and Dr. Grier. President D. L. Ritter presided at the business session and Mrs. Lena Ladu's eighth grade and Mr. Borough's ninth grade tied for the attendance prize.
