

FALL TRAVEL
North Carolina sparkles with travel dividends in the fall. Eastern America's highest mountains glow with autumn foliage; hunting, fishing and golf are prime from coast to mountains, and agriculture and industry are on dress parade at fairs as the new season begins in the Mid-South winter resorts of Variety Vacationland.

Musical Program

The Sandhill Book Club met Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. C. Robbins, North Poplar Street, with 15 members present. Mrs. J. K. Melvin, president, presided and read a letter from C. Wade Mobley, school superintendent, thanking the club for reupholstering the furniture in the grammar school library and inviting them to visit school and have lunch during National Education Week. Various members gave committee reports and Mrs. Hobbs, treasurer, reported a balance of $51.75 after paying all bills.

A musical program followed with Gloria Cruce playing three numbers, Brahms "Waltz in A" Palmgren's "May Night" and for her encore, she played Chopin's "Prelude in C Minor."

Mrs. Ralph Caldwell then gave a humorous reading, showing that in every life there is the desire for beautiful things. She closed with a prayer that we should look for the lovely as a way of life.

Mrs. Robbins served her guests cake, punch and nuts during the social hour while books were exchanged.

Honored on Birthday

Miss Alice Jean Robbins and Miss Juanita Teal gave a dinner party Friday night in the Robbins home honoring Miss Tessie Troutman on her 17th birthday.

It was a complete surprise for Tessie, which added to the enjoyment of the occasion.
