DICK CHAPMAN

The annual Mr. and Mrs. John D. Chapman Memorial tournament for members of the Silver Foils and Tin Whistles Clubs, is being played today at the Pinehurst Country Club.

Two tournaments were instituted some years ago by Richard D. Chapman to honor his father and mother; the two have been consolidated in recent years into one mixed tournament, trophies for which are given by the Richard Chapmans.

Both the late Mr. and Mrs. John Chapman were golfers of stature—the former was a United States Seniors champion. His father was away so much playing golf, his son Dick recalls, that upon mother devolved the task of disciplining her two sons. Except for one memorable time when the boys, playing in a cave they had dug off Midland Road, inadvertently set a grass fire which caused several hundred dollars damage—Mr. Chapman was unfortunately home to deliver punishment for that misdemeanor.

Both Chapman boys are inheritors of their parents' golfing skill. John, who lives with his family in Basking Ridge, N. J., plays for pleasure and has participated in many tournaments. Dick Chapman who, with his wife and their son, Richard, Jr. (Dixie), was a resident here for 18 years, two years ago moved to Palm Beach, Fla. The only golfer to hold four National Amateur titles—the United States, French, British and Canadian, Dick broke his own record by winning the Italian Amateur in 1960.

By coincidence, the John D. Chapmans, who came here from Greenwich, Conn., bought and rebuilt a house on Village Green East that was originally built by Pinehurst's founder, James W. Tufts, which house eventually became the property of the H. Arnold Jacksons, also from Greenwich and also excellent golfers.

Mrs. Jackson, who died here last spring, was in fact, twice U. S. Seniors Champion. The winner of the Women's Northeastern Golf Association championship, the Women's Golf Association of Boston and the Metropolitan Golf Association championships, Mrs. Jackson, in 1953, donated eight gold medals to the United States Golf Association, where they are now on view at the Museum in Golf House, USGA headquarters, at 40 East 38th Street, New York. Mr. Jackson, as is well known, besides his golfing interests, has a love of harness horses; the owner of a stable in training at the Pinehurst Race Track, he can be seen in a sulky almost every morning, taking one of his colts through its paces (or trots).

New Stable

The new barn at the Pinehurst Race track, replacing the old Polo Barn which burned to the ground last February, is the latest thing in modern construction, and should be ready by the end of this week for occupancy by the Morris McDonald stable from Westbury, Long Island.

According to Bill Sledge, who supervises proceedings at the Track for Pinehurst, Inc., the cement block barn, has 34 stalls and a double alley construction, eliminating two outside walls. Attractive aqua plastic skylights set into the slanting roof on either side give a pleasant, glare-proof light inside. Contractor is Melvin Johnson of South-ern Pines.

An influx of colts was expected last weekend, said Mr. Sledge, following the Harrisburg Colt Sale, and aged horses will begin coming in for winter training the latter part of the month when the northern racing season winds up.

"Tightening Up"

In a recent column in the Charlotte Observer, Wilton Garrison discusses the work underway on the Pinehurst courses preparatory to the playing of the National Amateur here next September. Fairways of No. 2 will be tightened up, he notes and the 18th hole will be changed with the green moved closer to the No. 1 tee, thus creating a dogleg hole.

Says Mr. Garrison: "Richard Tufts, in whose honor the USGA awarded the event to Pinehurst, has recovered from a recent illness and is playing golf again. He's also supervising the construction of course No. 5 there. This new layout won't be as long as No. 2, but will be tighter and will take a big load off No. 2. Despite dry weather, greens at Pinehurst are excellent."

Runner-Up at Sea Island

Playing in his first Southern Seniors Golf Association Championship since reaching the eligible minimum age limit of 50, Dick Chapman was ousted by Dorsey Nevergall of Pompano Beach, Fla. last week in Sea Island, Ga.

Going out in 35 in Sunday's final round, Dick had trouble on a water hole on the course's back nine, finishing in the runner-up berth, two strokes behind the winner.

THEATRE SUNRISE

The rip-roaring West of 1911 is a milieu new to the talents of Debbie Reynolds, but she comes off with umbrella-swinging honors in "Second Time Around," a 20th Century-Fox outdoor comedy that takes Debbie, as a young widow, from the formal world of New York to the gambling-and-gunsmoke territory of early Arizona and puts her through a rancher-to-sheriff career with all the trimmings. The CinemaScope-DeLuxe Color comedy-romance co-starring Andy Griffin, Juliet Prowse, Thelma Ritter and Ken Scott, opens Sunday at the Sunrise Theatre to run through Wednesday.

Charleyville is a typical pioneer town at the turn of the century, peppered with outlaws, saloon-thugs and gamblers who make life tough for the ranch-folk. Broke and friendless, Debbie takes a job as ranch-hand with Aggie Gates (Thelma Ritter), aiming to collect enough money to send for the two youngsters she has left in New York with her mother-in-law. Saloon-keeper Dan Jones (Steve Forrest) and his dance-hall sweetheart (Juliet Prowse) are an immediate threat to Debbie's security, as is Sheriff Yoss (Ken Scott) whose loose government Debbie attacks at once and sets out to fight to a showdown. Befriending Debbie in a series of adventures through which she learns to slug her way with the best of them, is neighboring rancher Pat Collins (Andy Griffith) who does his blundering bit to win the energetic widow's affections, but loses to a better man.

Since the Cooperative Economic Insect Survey was started in 1954, over one new destructive insect has been found annually in North Carolina.
