Man Terrorizes Family, is Sent Back to Hospital

An Aberdeen Negro went berserk and kept several members of his family terrified for several hours last Thursday, with hatchets and knives, till officers sized him at the home in Berkeley and took him to Aberdeen jail.

He was Lonnie Taylor, 41, who had recently been released from a state mental hospital at Goldsboro. Brought into Aberdeen court Friday morning, he was determined by Judge J. G. Farrell to be mentally unable to stand trial, and was re-committed and returned to the hospital.

The capture was made by Assistant Chief D. M. Winfree with Officer William H. Jackson, State Trooper R. R. Samuels and ABC Officer Edward Floyd of Aberdeen.

Winfree said the man had cornered his mother, brother, sister, brother-in-law and a young nephew in the house during the afternoon, frightening them with death threats and brandishing his weapons, which, however, he did not use. About 9 p.m., the brother slipped out and sought help from the police.

At first the officers considered the use of tear gas and sent out a call for some, but then decided they could manage without it. They surrounded the house, then, while Taylor shouted threats at them, broke in simultaneously at front and back. Once his weapons were taken away, Taylor became tractable and did not resist as he was carried to jail.

Specific requests for information concerning individual cases cannot be handled by the Veterans Administration Central Office in Washington, J. D. DeRamus, manager, Winston-Salem Regional Office, pointed out. These must be supplied by the regional office where the records, files and case folders pertaining to the individual veteran are maintained.

Only six per cent of the 3.3 million persons under 35 years of age enrolled in college in October of 1959 were farm residents. And less than two per cent of those who did enroll chose to major in agriculture.
