Braillist Speaks at Civic Book Club Meeting Thursday

Due to the absence of the Civic Book Club's president, Mrs. A. B. Cozzins, who was ill, Miss Grace E. Thwing presided at the club's meeting last Thursday morning. Coffee and doughnuts were served before the meeting by hostesses Mrs. Frank Hale, Miss Alice Carlson and Mrs. Eunice Culpepper.

Miss Thwing gave a brief history of the work with and for the blind, from the earliest known efforts made to give them special physical care when in the fourth and fifth centuries, hospices were established for that purpose in Caesarea and Syria. Later attempts to do more were traced to Christianity and Buddhism.

Many ways were tried to teach the blind to read, finally culminating in the work and teaching of Louis Braille.

The move has now been made, pointed out the speaker, to put blind children in the same schools as the sighted, with specially prepared books for them to use.

Mrs. Emma Pearce, a Brailist who took her training in St. Petersburg, Fla., at Temple Beth-El and the Library of Congress, explained to the group the type of training necessary to write Braille. She demonstrated the method and gave her audience a chance to try it.

Miss Ruth Wilson discussed the training and education of blind children from infancy to adulthood. She also read a page from the Braille Bible she had brought, she played the piano for the meeting and sang the music she composed for "The Children's Hour."

St. Mary's Alumnae Lunch-Meet Will Feature Panel Talks

Alumnae of St. Mary's Junior College in Raleigh are invited to attend a Fayetteville area lunch luncheon to be held February 27 at 12:30 p. m. at the Highland Country Club in Fayetteville.

A feature of the luncheon meeting will be a panel and group discussion on "St. Mary's Today."

Members of the panel will be Mrs. Waverly Broadwell, area representative to the alumnae council; Mrs. Franklin Clark, former member of the board of trustees and the alumnae council; the Rev. Roscoe C. Hauser, Jr., rector of St. John's Episcopal Church in Fayetteville and a member of the board of trustees; and Barbara Hauser, former alumnae secretary.

Anyone planning to attend the luncheon should make reservations with Mrs. Milton Wofford, 1046-B Elm St., Fayetteville; phone, 484-0656.

Plans Made for Does State Convention Here, March 13-14

The regular meeting of the BPO Does, Drove 42, was held Tuesday evening at the Southern Pines Country Club with President Mrs. G. E. Kimbrell presiding.

Mrs. W. S. Eushby, general chairman for the Does State Convention, announced her committee chairmen for the various events during the convention, to be held in Southern Pines, March 13 and 14.

Following the business session, a social hour was held and refreshments served from a table decorated in commemoration of Washington's birthday.

LOCAL FIRM EXHIBITS WILL BE SEEN IN FLOWER & GARDEN SHOW, FEB. 23-27

An outdoor living room garden that combines privacy with pleasant family relaxation will be featured at the Southeastern Flower and Garden Show in the N. C. State Fair Arena, Raleigh, February 23-27.

Bill Booker of Landscapes in Southern Pines is the landscape contractor who will install the garden. As a participant in the show last year, Bill installed a container garden with a circular design motif.

Richard C. Bell, Raleigh landscape architect, is the designer. Many specimen plants will be brought in and displayed in architecturally designed containers. They will be tagged for easy identification. Plants used include orchids, staghorn ferns, geraniums, pittosporum, photinia, yucca, grape ivy, mahonia, aucuba, and tropical foliage plants.

Mrs. Karl A. Bridges of Carolina Orchids, Inc., the only official active woman member of the southeastern Flower and Garden Show board, told the Pilot this week that her exhibit at the Southeastern Show will be representative of what has more or less been her life plan for some years. The exhibit will feature "children and flowers."

Mrs. Bridges, mother of six children and an orchid grower here for nine years, is justly proud of both achievements.

She stated one of the most exciting things to be presented at this year's show will be a very special Design School, commented and directed by Mrs. Tommy Bright of Chicago, Ill., one of the finest designers in this country, who conducts schools all over the United States, Europe, South America and Africa.

Mrs. Bright is the official designer for the "Pause for Living" booklet, published by the Coca Cola Bottling Company.

The design school will be open to the public Friday, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday afternoons from 3:00 to 4:30.

Receives Awards

Carolina Orchids, Inc. sent out orchids for exhibit in the seventh annual Orchid Show of the Maryland Orchid Society, of Baltimore, January 29 and 30.

While delayed shipment prevented their arrival in time for the scheduled judging, the flowers were considered so outstanding, the judges decided they merited a special award.

In entering the cut flower exhibit of the 14th annual Florida West Coast Orchid Show in Tampa, Fla., February 6-10, Carolina Orchids received five ribbons—first prize for a pure white orchid and four second prizes for pure white and lavender brassica catleya hybrid orchids and miniature cymbidiums.

PARADE SATURDAY SETS SCENE FOR GALA MARDI GRAS BALL MARCH 2

The Mardi Gras Parade will start Saturday morning at 11 at the corner of Vermont Avenue and Broad Street.

The parade is a prelude to the forthcoming Mardi Gras Ball, sponsored for the fifth year by the Women's Club of St. Anthony's, to be held March 2 at the National Guard Armory.

Decorations at the ball will rival those to be seen at the original Mardi Gras in New Orleans; masks will be given the dancers; a new king and queen will be elected, and other surprise features will enhance the "enchanted evening."

Reservations are coming in fast—those wishing to reserve tables and/or tickets, should call Mrs. Lee Smithson, OX2-6421. Tickets will also be sold at the door on the night.

Mardi Gras Belles who will ride in the parade Saturday include Joan Grover, 1961 Homecoming Queen of the Southern Pines High School; Dale Cuff, Sally Cushman, Kathy Sandstrom and Faye Reid.

There will be two bands, old fashioned cars and an old fashioned decorated fire truck.

W. P. Still will enter a new Oldsmobile convertible.

Miss Sharon Grassburger will parade in a lovely European outfit; Mary Ann Cuff will appear as a clown, as will Charles Buchholz. Mrs. John Buchholz will enter her decorated station wagon.

Riding in the Pony Club will be: Johanna Smith, Vickie Ritter, Susan Huntley, Julia McMillan, Sandra Younts, Nancy and Carol O'Callaghan, Nona Pritchett, Jan Millsbaugh, Janet Phillips, Kathy Tate, Janet Fullenwider and Daphne Pottle.
