

ASCS Now Preparing New Leaf Allotments

The county ASCS office is now in the process of revising farm allotments and issuing notices for 1962 due to the recent increase in Flue-cured tobacco allotments of 4.3%.

All farmers who have leased tobacco from other farms must file new leases with the county ASCS office by April 1, if they want to have the additional acreage added by the 4.3% increase included in the lease for 1962.

Annual Report Shows Much Work Done In County Soil, Water Conservation

James Fulk, J. H. Poole and Herbert McCaskill, supervisors in Moore County for the Upper Cape Fear Soil and Water Conservation District, report extensive work accomplished in soil and water conservation in the county during 1961. Following is their complete annual report as made public this week:

"For the seventh consecutive year the program of soil and water conservation in Moore County was heavily unbalanced in the direction of water conservation. During this period Soil Conservation Service technicians assisted with an average of 77 farm ponds per year. In 1961 this average was maintained with the construction of 54 impounded irrigation reservoirs, 11 excavated reservoirs, and 15 impounded ponds for livestock and recreation. All but a few of these ponds and reservoirs were constructed with the help of funds from the agricultural conservation program of the ASCS. It is estimated that 35 - 40 other impoundments were constructed without District assistance.

"The District program received a boost when the Soil Conservation Service employed a permanent conservation aid who began work on March 18th. The program has been hampered by the lack of an experienced conservation aid since December of 1958, with no aid at all from March 1960 to March of this year. The program was also held up by insufficient forestry technical help. The forestry phase should receive added emphasis in 1962 due to the action of the County Commissioners who made funds available for employment of a forester in the County.

"The District accepted only 10 new cooperators for assistance in 1961. With many cancellations of cooperative agreements due to change of ownership or death, the District is now formally assisting less than one-third or about 1000 farmers in this county. Complete conservation plans in operation now total about 800. Ten basic conservation farm plans were put into operation in 1961. Only one conservation plan was completely revised, but many, many old plans need major revision.

"The objectives or goals of the District were met or exceeded in about 40% of the program. Those practices in which goals were met include strip-cropping, field border planting, woodland intermediate cutting, woodland firebreaks, critical area planting, farm ponds and reservoirs, parallel terracing and tile drainage. Goals which were not met include such practices as conservation cropping systems, hayland and pasture planting, woodland harvest cutting, wildlife food planting, hedgerow planting, grass waterways, and gradient terracing. Other goals not met were new district cooperators, new basic farm conservation plans and farm conservation plan revisions.

"The County Agent actively supported the district program by his attendance at meetings, by many conservation talks on the radio, and by excellent cooperation throughout the year. The Farmer's Home Administration assisted seven farmers in Moore County with loans which directly influenced the soil and water conservation work. The F.H.A. also assisted the district by accepting numerous telephone calls for and making their telephone available to the District technicians, and by passing to technicians the requests and information of farmers visiting the SCS office when technicians were in the field. These services were of great value to district technicians.

"The SCS received 89 referrals for servicing from the agricultural conservation program of the ASCS. All referrals were serviced. This ACP money helped the district program very much. The County ASCS Committee reports that more than 85% of their funds were used to establish permanent-type conservation practices such as: farm ponds and reservoirs, tree planting, preparation of land for forestry improvements, pasture planting, pasture renovation, tile drainage, etc.

"The district received excellent cooperation from all agencies. All agencies cooperated to enhance the program of soil and water conservation, to improve the economic stability of the county, and to provide solid foundation for a better living standard in this predominantly rural area. In the recreational aspect, so important to the communal areas of Pinehurst and Southern Pines, the district provided assistance to a number of individuals, the N. C. Children's Society, Moore County Wildlife Club, and several incorporated enterprises.

"The Moore County supervisors feel that this report is substantially a good one. At the same time it is recognized, there is much need for improvement. Some way must be found to work with more farmers and to provide more assistance with conservation farm planning to meet the needs of the land and capability of the soil.

Ribbons, Medals Awarded to Students For Exhibits in Annual Science Fair

The fourth annual Science Fair of the Moore County schools, held last Friday afternoon and evening in the Carthage High school, drew large crowds with its array of some 150 exhibits.

The exhibits, prepared by seventh through 12th grade students of 10 schools, showed the wide range and variety of science studies being offered to today's youngsters, and the original thinking generated in many of them.

The exhibits were staffed by students who had worked on them, also the teachers, to assist with explanations required by visitors educated in a less scientific day and time.

The fair was sponsored by the Moore County Association of Science Teachers, this year with the cooperation of the Sandhills Kiwanis Club, and first, second and third place ribbons and medals in four divisions were awarded by J. P. Shamburger of the club.

The divisions, and their winners:

JUNIOR (seventh, eighth and ninth grades)—Biological; 1st, Shirley Styers, Aberdeen, "Can a Fish Live in a Sealed Jar?"; 2nd, Cheryl Gschwind, Joy Hobbs, Aberdeen, "Mold"; 3rd, Teddy Lingerfelt, Farm Life, "How Smoking and Drinking Affect the Body."

Physical—1st, Donald Thomas, William Johnson, West End, "Fluorescence"; 2nd John Blue, West End, "Principles of Crystallization"; 3rd, Jimmy Robins, West End, "The Magnetic Lock."

SENIOR (10th, 11th and 12th grades) — Biological: 1st, Sally Poindexter, Aberdeen, "Comparative Embryology"; 2nd, Linda Ray, Elise (Robbins), "Bacteriology"; 3rd, Jerry Brady, Elise, "Physical Basis of Life."

Physical—1st, Betty Funderburk, "Erroull's Principles"; 2nd, Bobby Maness, Elise, "Tomorrow's Mathematics Today"; 3rd, Jack Dowless, Aberdeen, "Trigonometric Functions."

Cox, Coleridge High school, and Mr. Werheim, Durham High school.

The judges were guests of the Moore County Science Teachers association at a luncheon Friday at the Carthage Hotel, with Supt. Robert E. Lee and Mrs. Beulah McPherson, supervisor, and C. Edison Powers, Moore County Schools guidance director, also as guests. Don McCluskey, Aberdeen science teacher, acted as host for the association.

The hours needed to produce 100 bushels of corn have been cut from 135 in 1910 to 15 today. To produce 100 bushels of wheat, it takes 13 hours today compared to 106 hours in 1910.

Youths Arrested, Jailed for Theft Of Battery, Oil

Four youths vagabonding northward in an old model Dodge, trying to sell a battery for gas money Sunday at Wake Forest, on questioning by police admitted they had stolen the battery and four cans of oil from Shields Esso station at Aberdeen Saturday night.

They said the night attendant had allowed them to stop there to shift the tires around on their car, and they had stolen the items when he wasn't looking.

Deputy Sheriff J. A. Lawrence and State Trooper R. R. Samuels, notified by the Wake County sheriff, fetched the quartet back to Moore and lodged them in jail at Carthage for their appearance in Recorders Court.

The four, giving the names of John Neilson, 22, and Billy Root, 16, of Canada, and Albert Hamm, 18, and Eugene Kenzie, 19, both of Charleston, S. C., said they had met in Florida and started north in Neilson's car. Along the way they had traded good tires for old ones to get gas and "eating" money, and were having a hard time making the old tires hold out. When apprehended they had no money.

None was interested in making bond, nor would any of the boys give any information about their families, stating they did not wish anyone notified of their plight.

Tires Stolen in Station Break-in

Curtis Wall, plagued with break-ins at his Gulf station on US 1, sold the station a few months ago to Lewis Marion, and now it is Marion's turn.

The sheriff's department reported that someone broke in last Saturday night and stole four new tires, along with two re-treads, valued at a total of around $150.

The thief broke the glass of the door into the greaseroak to effect entry. Chief Deputy H. H. Grimm is working on the case.

THEATRE SUNRISE

Bob Hope and Lana Turner together for the first time, teamed for love and laughs, provide captivating entertainment in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's romantic comedy, "Bachelor in Paradise," to be shown Sunday and Monday at the Sunrise Theatre.

Bob is the bachelor; Paradise is the name of the modern housing development in which he lives in order to observe how America's young marrieds behave—and misbehave.

He not only lives there, but lives it up with the help of career girl Lana, whose house he has rented, and three neighboring wives. Bob tries to help them rekindle the spark that first set fire to their respective husbands' hearts—only to find himself named corespondent in three simultaneous divorce suits!

Playing the neighborly housewives are Janis Paige, Virginia Grey and Paula Prentiss, with Don Porter, Lee Goodman and Jim Hutton as their respective spouses. Also adding to the fun is Agnes Moorehead as a lady judge who attempts to turn pandemonium into peace at the triple-divorce hearing.
