TALK ON UNITED NATIONS BY MRS. IVES DRAWS LARGE AUDIENCE AT CIVIC CLUB

Civic Club President Mrs. Avery Evans presided at a short business meeting Monday, following which, the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Ernest L. Ives was introduced.

In acknowledging her introduction by Mrs. Virgil P. Clark, chairman of the program committee, Mrs. Ives spoke with pleasure of her 20 years as a resident here, and of her interest in historic and town affairs.

A large and appreciative audience was on hand to hear Mrs. Ives talk on "The United Nations;" her brother, Adlai Stevenson, is our Ambassador to the United Nations.

Because of her husband's connection in diplomatic affairs, Mrs. Ives has lived in many different countries, with their varied backgrounds, and the time they spent many years ago in South Africa gave her an insight into those new countries joining the United Nations.

She compared the UN to a huge machine, with each nation having its own place, and innumerable organizations connected with it.

Mrs. Ives' special interest is in the American Association of the UN, in which every American can have a part. There are six branches in North Carolina, and, feeling strongly that there should be more, the speaker urged those in her audience to work toward that end.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Arthur B. Cozzens, who poured tea; Mrs. Arthur Chadwick, Mrs. Verne Larson and Mrs. Wade Stevick. Mrs. Dean Dorman's beautiful flower arrangements were much admired.
