TROTTLING TWINS TO MAKE RACING DEBUT IN MATINEE SUNDAY AT PINEHURST TRACK

There is much color, as well as exceptional quality, represented in the entries carded for the Matinee Race Program at the Pinehurst Track Sunday, under auspices of the Pinehurst Driving and Training Club.

The Three-Year-Old Trot will mark the race debut of the trotting twins, Tweedledum and Tweedledee, of the Clearview Stable, that have attracted national attention due to the fact that it is so extremely rare for twin foals to live and develop into useful race horses.

In the five-horse field, along with the twins, will be The Talisman and Tenderloin, a pair of chancy looking candidates for the $150,000 Hambletonian, the most coveted race on the trotting turf. David R. Johnston of Charlotte, a popular driver in amateur events in the Grand Circuit, will have the mount behind Tweedledee.

Also, Mrs. Barbara Fitton, Hamilton, Ohio; Mrs. Maurice Glick, Baltimore; Mrs. Joseph A. Nesbitt, Greenwich, Conn.; Virginia A. Ott, Williamsport, Pa.; Doris Phillips, Bellevue, Ill.; Mrs. Betty R. Probasco, Chattanooga, Tenn.; "Tish" Preuss, Pompano Beach, Fla.; Karen Schull, Kansas City, Mo.

TEERING OFF * WITH deNISSOFF

Welcome, Miss Truman

Pinehurst, the majority of whose cottagers and winter visitors might be expected to hew to the Republican Party line, is not standing on party politics in its warm welcome for Miss Margaret Truman, who arrived Monday at the Carolina.

This daughter of a Democratic President has earned respect in her own right as a gifted member of the theatrical profession, and is here rehearsing for her stellar part in "Time of the Cuckoo," which will undoubtedly play to capacity (bipartisan) houses during its April 10-15 tenure at the Pinehurst Playhouse.

The darling of the press because of her sincere charm, Miss Truman is married to the executive editor of the New York Times, Clifton Daniel, Jr., and plans to visit her husband's family in his native Zebulon after this particular acting stint is completed.

It was Cliff Daniel, incidentally, we were interested to note, who in 1954 wrote Jazz King Benny Goodman from Moscow, asking him to send over some jazz records for the Soviet Ministry of Culture. This apparently sparked Russian interest, and in May Goodman will head up a group of top jazz musicians for a tour of Russia under U. S. State Department auspices.

Competitive Twins

It should be interesting to see that much-touted twin colts, Tweedledum and Tweedledee, in their racing debut before an audience Sunday at the Pinehurst Track. They are a neat pair and made a fine appearance in their brief exhibition before the Stoneybrook Steeplechase March 24, and Octave Blake, in his introductory remarks about the three-year-olds, said they are quite competitive and seem to enjoy racing against each other.

A co-feature will be a Three-Year-Old Race in which three of the four starters are being sighted for the premiere race of the season for the age and gait, the $80,000 Little Brown Jug Stake that annually attracts the cream of the nation's young pacers.

These are Meadow Newport from the Newport Stock Farm, and two from the Clearview Stable, Meadow Dessen and Lady Emily.

Rounding out the afternoon's program will be a field of five sharp trotters that will start their racing campaign at the Hazel Park Track in Detroit, Mich. the middle of April.

Tickets for general admission, parking spaces, and grandstand seats are on sale at the Carolina Hotel and the Carolina Pharmacy and will be sold at the entrance gate off the Pinehurst-Aberdeen Highway.

Post time for the first race is 2:30 p. m.

Miss Garrison has a keen eye for hallmarks too—old frame hotels, with elegance, small neat shops with unstudied smartness, clean white sand, stalwart pines, country roads, handsome homes, full-blown camellias and, of course, world-famous "manicured" golf courses.

Captures Essence

Eudora Garrison of the Charlotte Observer editorial staff, captured the essence of Pinehurst and Southern Pines in a recent column when she noted, "... the visitor is drawn without the ballyhoo of commercial come-on. You automatically know about Pinehurst and Southern Pines, or you don't. And if you don't—you've missed two treasures. If you do, you'll never miss a chance to go there."

Richard Tufts, newly selected by the Carolina Golf Writers Association for its golfer of the year award, last weekend attended the ninth annual meeting and tournament of the Golf Writers of America at the Dunes Golf Club in Myrtle Beach, S. C.

Dance Team, Singer, Win Holly Inn Vacation in Sandhills Talent Show

Judges Lee Kinard and Bob Waddell of WFMV TV, Greensboro, and Raymond E. North, general manager of the 1960 Scandals of the Sandhills, were hard put to select winners because of the over-all excellence of the show and of each act.
