

Cox Awarded Scholarship for Summer Study

Word has been received from Dr. Joseph W. Straley, director of the National Science Foundation Summer Institute at the University of North Carolina, that Glenn L. Cox, principal of the East Southern Pines High School, has been awarded a scholarship to the University of North Carolina for the current summer session, Superintendent Luther A. Adams stated.

The course will be in Principles of Classical and Modern Physics, and is designed for teachers of high school physics.

Mr. Cox will study a new high school textbook written by the Physical Science Study Commission, a research commission of the National Science Foundation. The purpose of the text and the course is to upgrade the quality of high school physics being presented in most of the high schools today.

The course will be taught by members of the physics department of the University and visiting lectures, and will consist of three to four hours of classroom lectures and two to three hours of laboratory work each day.

The summer school course will last for six weeks (July 2-August 10) and will earn six semester hours of graduate credit.

The scholarship received will cover tuition and fees and will pay an additional stipend to cover room and board.

108 Farm Ponds Being Stocked With Largemouth Black Bass Today

By W. K. KELLER

Soil Conservation Service

Largemouth black bass will be furnished by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service from the hatchery near Hoffman for the stocking of 108 farm ponds in Moore County. Farmers and pond owners were to receive their bass fingerlings today (Thursday). Almost all of these ponds are new ponds constructed late in 1960 and in 1961. All were stocked last fall with bluegill and redear bream.

The May issue of Farm Journal magazine discusses the increasing use being made of a method of planting certain farm crops—a method called mulch planting. The first mulch planting to be made in Moore County will be made this year by Jack Huff when he plants soybeans in small grain stubble. The Huffs, father, Jack and brother, have used this method for two years on a farm near Ashley Heights in Hoke County.

Mulch Planting

Mulch planting is a method whereby corn, soybeans and milo are planted directly in a sod or small grain stubble without prior land preparation. Many farmers claim yields are better, especially in a dry season, because the residue from the previous crop or grass is maintained on the surface conserving soil moisture. The saving of $8-$12 per acre for land preparation lowers production costs. It is an excellent conservation practice preventing wind and water erosion.

Waterway and Terraces

Elwood Blake has constructed a grass waterway and 1,450 feet of terraces on his farm between Aberdeen and Pinehurst. A. G. Hall has constructed nearly one-half mile of terraces on the former A. L. Hall farm near White Hill.

Charles Green, Route 2, Carthage, has installed 650 feet of drain tile.

More Ponds

Ponds for irrigation have been constructed recently on the farms of Gordon Matthews, Darrell Matthews, and J. M. Kelly, of Route 3, Carthage; B. A. Ring and Jesse Ring, Cameron; Roger Council, Vass; and U. T. Hight, Jr. and Henry Flory, Aberdeen.
