Gen. Mark Clark
Will Address
Bankers Friday

The 66th annual convention of the N. C. Bankers Association begins at the Carolina Hotel today and runs through Saturday evening with over 1,000 bankers and guests expected.

NCBA President C. M. (Neil) Vanstoy, Jr., of Greensboro will preside over the three-day convention which will feature addresses by General Mark W. Clark, president of The Citadel, and William F. Kelly, prominent Philadelphia banking executive.

The convention begins Thursday afternoon with registration and a president's reception. The general business sessions will be held on Friday and Saturday mornings. General Clark speaks on Friday and Kelly on Saturday. Entertainment on Friday evening will be by Shearen Elebash of Montgomery, Ala.

There will be a luncheon and bridge for the ladies—golf, skeet and bank parties between business sessions. Committees of the NCBA will make their reports, and the executive committee meetings will be held on Friday and Saturday mornings.

The NCBA organized at Morehead City and chartered in 1897, for the past several years has met at Pinehurst.

Jackson Springs

New Minister

Thomas Kernan, a member of the senior class of Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, has accepted the call of the Jackson Springs Presbyterian Church, and will begin his ministry in June. His father, the Rev. Charles W. Kernan, pastor of Mizpah Church in Richmond, is remembered in this section as having conducted revival services at Culdee.

The new minister is a graduate of Davidson College. When he arrives at the church, he will also serve as minister-counselor at Samarcand Manor. The Presbyterian Church has been without a pastor since last fall when the Rev. W. A. Brown accepted the call of the Bluff Church in Wade. The Rev. Lacy McDuffie has served the church as minister during this interim period.
