WEST END NEWS and PERSONALS

By SALLY AUMAN

Jr.-Sr. Banquet

"Up in Them Thar Hills," was the theme of the gala Junior-Senior Banquet at the High School Cafeteria on Friday evening. An authentic mountain cabin porch was built before the entrance of the kitchen, which was complete with string-topped chairs, lantern, stone jug, gourd dipper, and strings of red pepper and ears of corn. In the cabin yard was a cat asleep on the woodpile, chickens, a well with chain and bucket, a wash pot, and trees entwined with ivy. On the dining tables, blue candles were stuck in assorted bottles, and the program booklets and place cards were blue with the design drawn by Sharon Richardson, a member of the sophomore class. The table favors were corn cob pipes, which really worked.

Program Skit

The program consisted of a skit featuring Billy Harris as a lazy mountaineer who wanted his "wife," Phyllis Burns, to "pint his gun fer him so he could shoot." The guns used were old muzzle loaders loaned for the occasion. They thought "it shored was comfortable to have 21 children so they didn't have to work hard in their old age." When the mountaineers saw a stranger walking up to the cabin, they were about to shoot him, until they saw he was carrying a "geetar" (guitar). The visitor was Gurney Baines, of the faculty, who was looking for mountain ballads.

After Maw understood the ballads were songs, not people, she called the 21 young'uns, who were dressed as barefoot mountain children, from the still. The children sang, seated on the cabin floor, "On Top of Old Smoky," "Down in the Valley," "She'll Be Comin' Round the Mountain," "The Riddle Song," "Red River Valley," "Careless Love," "Y'all Come," "Good Old Mountain Dew" and a song to the seniors, "Here's to the Class of '62." Gurney-Baines accompanied the juniors in all of their songs. The senior class responded with a farewell song.

James Vest gave the invocation, and Clare Cole, president of the junior class, gave the welcome. The response was given by Linda McNair, president of the senior class.

An arrangement of white carnations, the senior class flower, was used on the guests' table. The guests for the banquet included the 32 members of the senior class, members of the West End School board and their wives, the High School faculty, with their husbands and wives, and the gradeparents for the junior and senior classes. It was a most enjoyable occasion with an entertaining program and a delicious dinner. Mrs. W. M. Thompson, as usual, directed the program in her own original and efficient manner.

Gradeparents Entertain
Following the banquet, the gradeparents of the junior and senior classes, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Z. B. Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sutphin, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blake, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McNair, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Seawell, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hartsell, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lewis, entertained the guests at a dance in the School Gymnasium, which was decorated with blue and white streamers and balloons. Ted Kanoy and his Orchestra furnished the music. Under one of the basketball goals, the gradeparents had a refreshment table covered with a lace tablecloth, decorated with blue and white crepe paper swags, an arrangement of iris and the punch bowl.

Students Tour

The students of the seventh and eighth grades of the Eagle Springs School made an educational tour last Friday, accompanied by their teacher, J. C. Newsome. The tour featured a viewing of the Easter Story, "Easter Awakening," at the Morehead Planetarium in Chapel Hill, and a tour of Duke University in Durham. They visited points of interest in Raleigh including: the Governor's Mansion, the North Carolina Museum, Hall of History, Art Museum, State Prison, Sports Area at the State Fair Grounds, a view of the Senate and House of Representatives, and a period of shopping in Cameron Village.

This is the first tour of its kind made by the Eagle Springs students, and it was educational as well as enjoyable, with transportation provided by McGill's Touring Service of Asheboro. The students financed the trip with money raised through class projects.

Benefit Dance

The public is invited to a Round Dance on Friday evening, May 11, at the American Legion Hut. The music will be furnished by the Bob Bass Combo, and dancing will be from 8:30 until 12:30. The dance is sponsored by the Community Recreation Development Committee, and the proceeds will be used for the new Athletic Field.
