Students To Get Career Guidance Advice On Monday

Hundreds of Seniors and Juniors in high schools throughout Moore County will gather at Southern Pines High School Monday to take part in the annual Vocational Guidance and College Career Day sponsored by the Sandhills Kiwanis Club.

In a half-day program starting at 9 a. m. with an assembly in Weaver Auditorium, students will have opportunities to confer with persons active in some 30 professions and with representatives of about 30 colleges and nearly 20 business, nursing, industrial and trade schools.

Parents are invited to join their children in the college conferences.

Norman Caudle, chairman of the program for the Kiwanis Club, will preside at the opening assembly. Others taking part will be Luther A. Adams, local schools superintendent; R. E. Lee, county superintendent; Dr. Bruce Warlick, president of the Kiwanis Club; C. E. Powers, director of guidance for the Moore County school system; and the Rev. Jack Deal who will give the invocation.

4 GRADES TO HAVE ONE-DAY HOLIDAY

Four grades—seventh through 10th—of East Southern Pines schools will have a holiday from school Monday, so that their classroom space in the high school and junior high wing can be used during the Vocational Guidance and College Career Day, Supt. Luther A. Adams points out.

The 11th and 12th grades (Juniors and Seniors) will be taking part in the all-morning conferences.

Everything will be back on normal schedule Tuesday.

Band, Glee Club To Perform Monday

Concerts by the school bands and glee club, all under the direction of William McAdams, will be featured at the December meeting of the East Southern Pines Parent-Teacher Association, to be held in Weaver Auditorium at 8 p. m. Monday.

The groups have given a Christmas concert at December PTA meetings for several years.

The High School Glee Club will sing a cantata, "The Song of Christmas" by Ringwald. The same program will be presented by the glee club at 3 p. m. Monday for the Civic Club in the club building on S. Ashe St.

At the PTA meeting, the High School Band will play a chorale by Pierre, a Christmas March and a special arrangement of Adeste Fideles. The Junior Band will play several Christmas carols.

The Christmas musical program is one of the most popular of the PTA meetings during the school year. Mrs. Albert Grove, president, urges all parents and friends of the school to attend.

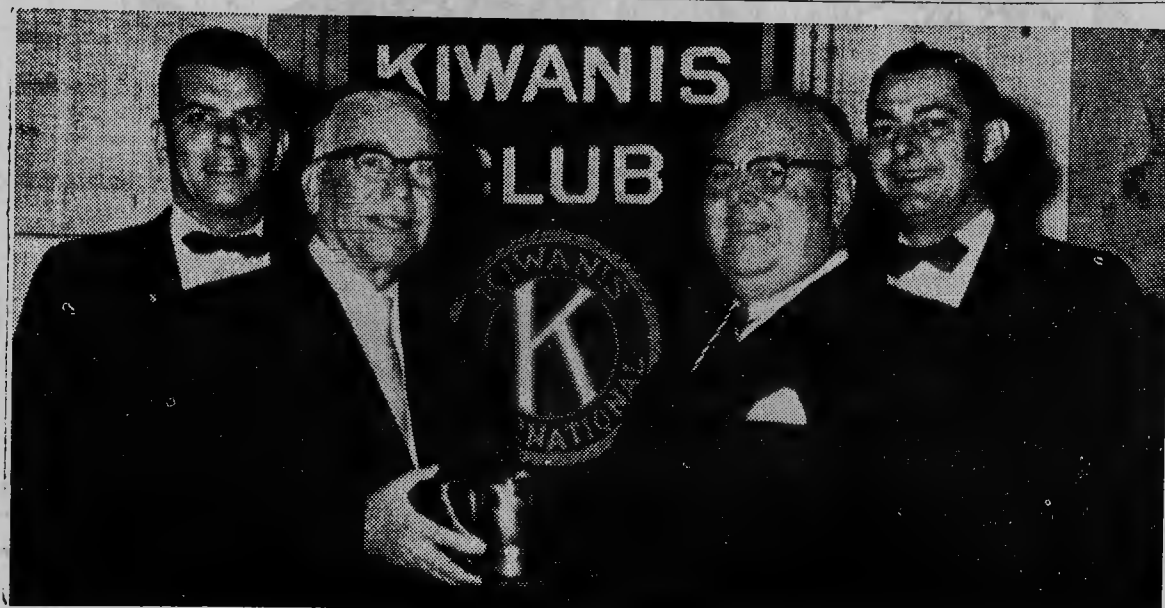

Variety Show Set Friday, Saturday

The East Southern Pines Parent-Teacher Association's Variety Show—the PTA's chief fundraising project of the school year—will be staged in Weaver Auditorium Friday and Saturday, at 8 o'clock each night.

Singing, dancing, a male fashion show and other acts are on the bill, with many adults from the community participating. Tickets can be obtained at the door and have been on sale by numerous PTA members.

Mrs. Douglas Kelley is general chairman. Harry Chatfield will be master of ceremonies. Mrs. Raymond Cameron and Mrs. Houston Black are ticket chairmen. The pianist will be Miss Diane Fields. Soloists include Mrs. Royster Gaskell, Mrs. Dewey Mims and Bobby Matthews who won TV appearances in a talent contest at Pinehurst earlier this year.

Members of the school faculty will present an act. Mrs. Jan

Saunders Awarded Builder's Cup

The Builder's Cup, given annually by the Sandhills Kiwanis Club for unselfish community service, was awarded to William P. Saunders of Southern Pines, last Friday night during the club's Ladies Night festivities at the Carolina Hotel in Pinehurst.

R. M. Cushman, vice-president of Amstron, in making the award, cited Saunders for having done more than any one man to bring about industrial prosperity in this county and nearby areas. He referred to his tenure of office as mayor of Robbins, his continuing interest in people, and his return to public service after retirement, to head the State Conservation and Development Department. It was during his administration that the State progressed further than any other state in obtaining new industries, Mr. Cushman said.

Nominations For Jaycees' Service Award Requested

The Southern Pines Jaycees are asking for nominations by the public of young men from whom will be chosen one to receive the organization's Distinguished Service Award for leadership and community service during 1962.

Gary Griffith and Jim Thomason are co-chairmen for the project.

Nomination blanks, which must be submitted by December 31, are available at the town hall, giving all regulations.

A committee of civic leaders over Jaycee age will make a choice of recipient, not to be announced until the annual banquet that accompanies the awarding ceremonies in January.

Only young men 35 years of age or younger are eligible for the award. They need not be members of the Jaycees.

Nominations, preferably on the official blank which gives space for three names, should be sent to DSA, Box 809, Southern Pines.

Playhouse Will Open New Season On February 19

The Pinehurst Playhouse is expected to open February 19 for a 10-week season of 10 shows, Producer Donald Filippelli of New York City reports.

Visiting the Sandhills during the past 10 days, to make preliminary arrangements for the season of professional presentations in Pinehurst, Mr. Filippelli said that the list of shows is not yet available.

The theatre at Pinehurst, formerly the Carolina, has been used by the New York producer for the past two spring seasons. Plans for various improvements, technical and otherwise, are being made for the theatre, he said.

Additional efforts will be made to encourage theatre patronage in Sanford, Fayetteville and other towns and cities surrounding this area, the producer said.

Committees to promote the playhouse and sell season tickets are being formed in both Southern Pines and Pinehurst and are expected to be set up in other communities.

Mr. Filippelli said that he wants the Playhouse to become a family type of theatre. He has plans for afternoon shows for elementary school children, to widen interest in the project.

Officials Sworn In; Reynolds Is Board Chairman

County officials elected in November—all Democrats—were sworn in Monday, at Carthage, as were several others in appointive posts.

Taking oaths as county commissioners were L. R. Reynolds of the Leaman community in upper Moore, who was later reelected chairman of the board; John M. Currie of Carthage, reelected vice chairman; Tom Monroe of Robbins, James M. Pleasants of Southern Pines and W. S. Taylor of Aberdeen.

All members of the board but Mr. Currie had actually taken the oath of office Saturday, at a special meeting held to prepare for organization of the board. Mr. Currie then was sworn in on Monday. Mr. Taylor was not able to be present at the Monday session.

Appointive posts filled by the commissioners who reappointed persons now filling them were: M. G. Foyette of Carthage, county attorney; J. Douglas David, tax collector; Mrs. Estelle Wicker, tax supervisor and county accountant; and Mrs. Audrey McCaskill, clerk to the board. Mrs. McCaskill was also sworn in as

Jere McKeithen Elected To Head Education Board

Members of the Moore County Board of Education met, visited the new Union Pines consolidated high school now under construction and organized for their new terms of office at Carthage Monday.

Jere N. McKeithen of Aberdeen was elected chairman of the board and W. Howard Matthews of the Clay Road Farm community was elected vice chairman.

Two other three members of the board are T. Roy Phillips of Carthage, Roland Upchurch of Highfalls and Mrs. John L. Frye of Robbins. Mrs. Frye is the only new member of the board. She succeeds J. A. Culbertson of Robbins, who had served as chairman of the board for the past several years.

Contract Signed, Work Starting On Episcopal Home For Ageing Here

Directors of the Episcopal Home for the Ageing to be built on N. Ridge St. met here Monday and signed a general contract for $435,680 with W. L. Jewell Construction Company of Sanford.

Work at the site, a mixed wooded and open tract, began Tuesday morning. Completion is expected by next October.

The general contract with the Jewell firm covers the major unit of the home, containing offices, housekeeping, recreation and medical facilities and 32 bedrooms for persons living there.

However, the Home's directors empowered the building committee to negotiate a contract for eight to 10 additional rooms to be added to the main structure. Funds are available for this work.

Ground was broken for the Home on March 4, by the Rt. Rev. Richard H. Baker, D. D., bishop of the Diocese of North Carolina, but letting of a contract was delayed by adjustments in the plans and specifications.

It is planned that several cottages and an apartment building with several three-room units for couples will be built simultaneously with the main structure. The building committee has been empowered to let contracts for these buildings as well as for the additional rooms in the main building.

H. T. Cosby of Charlotte, president of the Home, presided at Monday's meeting. The Rev. Martin Caldwell, rector of Emmanuel Church here, is first vice president. N. L. Hodgkins of Southern Pines is treasurer. A local member of the board of directors, in addition to the officers, is Dr. William F. Hollister. Howard Broughton of Southern Pines is attorney for the board.

Mr. and Mrs. John MacDougall are administrators for the Home and will be in charge of its operation after construction. They have been active in preliminary work for the past year, and have a temporary office in the Information Center building on E. Pennsylvania Ave. They are handling applications for residence at the Home.

Facilities included in the main unit on which work has begun include, in addition to the 40 or more bedrooms:

A 10-bed, fully equipped infirmary with facilities for medical care and physical therapy.

A kitchen and dining room designed to serve 90 to 100 persons. Craft shops with facilities for weaving, ceramics, etc.

Large lobby with offices. A library.

The home will provide life care with medical benefits and flexible admission and cost policies. Fees are charged on several bases—by the month, in a lump sum and others. There is no requirement that a person entering the home turn over to it all his financial resources.

The full name for the institution is Episcopal Home for the Ageing in the Diocese of North Carolina. This diocese covers a wide area in the east-central and Piedmont sections of the state, running as far west as Charlotte. Applicants for residence at the Home need not, however, be residents in the Diocese.

The site, which lies east of Ridge St., was formerly a portion of Weymouth estate and was given to the diocese by Mrs. James Boyd.

Jonas To Visit Here Dec. 12

Eighth District Congressman-elect Charles R. Jonas of Lincoln will visit Moore County Wednesday of next week and will be speaker at the regular luncheon meeting of the Sandhills Kiwanis Club that day, it has been announced.

The public is invited to meet Congressman Jonas during a coffee hour at the Southland Hotel, from 10 a. m. to noon.

Republican Jonas, veteran of 10 years of service in the former 10th District, defeated Democrat A. Paul Kitchin of Wadesboro for the 8th District seat in November.

County Banks To Take Part In New Student Loan Plan

Three banks operating in Moore County are participating in the North Carolina Bankers' Student Loan Plan announced this week by Gov. Terry Sanford: the Carolina Bank, with headquarters at Pinehurst and branches in Aberdeen, Carthage, Vass and West End; the Citizens Bank and Trust Company of Southern Pines; and the Southern Pines office of the Southern National Bank of Lumberton.

Spokesmen for the banks said today information brochures will be available at each of the banks to explain to interested persons how the new plan works, or that interested persons could write for a free descriptive booklet.

The North Carolina Bankers' Student Loan Plan was developed by bankers throughout the state to enable North Carolina students to continue their education after high school.

All students become eligible to apply for financial assistance from the plan upon acceptance for admission by any accredited col-

E. CONNECTICUT AVE. EXTENSION

Soldier Killed In One-Car Wreck

A one-car accident a few minutes past midnight took the life of a 29-year-old Fort Bragg sergeant early Tuesday, on East Connecticut Ave. extension about a half mile from the entrance to the military reservation.

Killed when his 1956 Mercury hardtop failed to make a curve and smashed against a tree was Sgt. Ernest Samuel Barnes, of Co. B, 92nd EBC of the 82nd Airborne. His home town was Rock Hill, S. C.

The tree, standing at the left of the highway, just beyond the culvert that carries Mill Creek under the road, is the same that was struck by an automobile in October, 1960, killing two young men and injuring another.

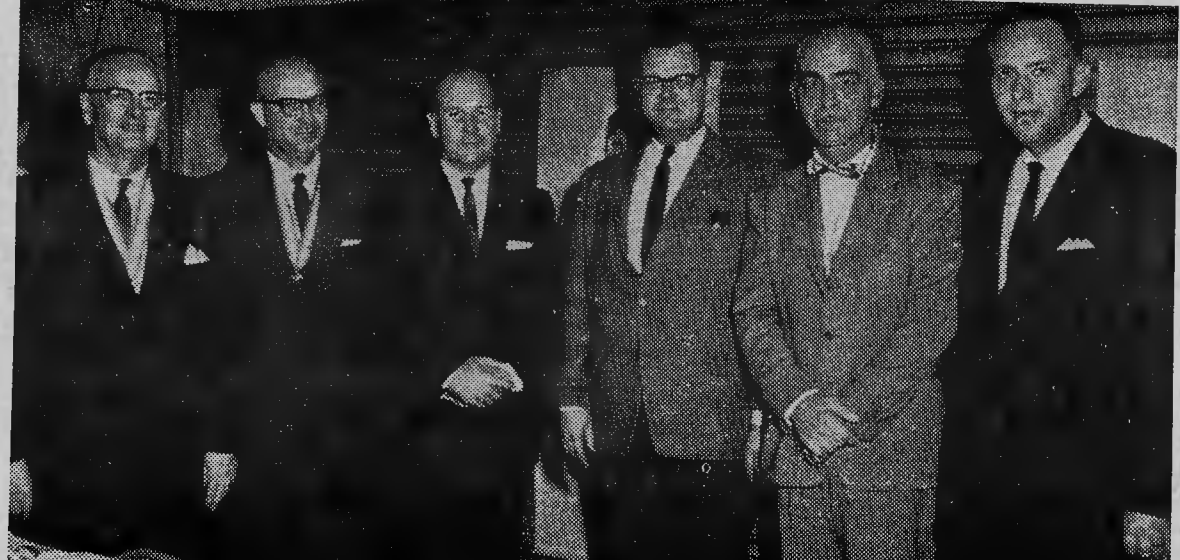

Barnes was heading toward the post, where he is believed to have been living with his family. Photos in his billfold indicated he was married, with young children. In the trunk of the car and undamaged by the accident were three small brand-new tricycles, as if in preparation for Christmas.

Patrolman F. R. Wicker, investigating, said there was indication of speed, which, while probably not excessive under normal conditions, was higher than safe on the winding, S-curve road. Recommended speed in the area is 40 miles per hour on the first curve of the S and 30 on the curve where Barnes left the road.

Wicker said witnesses had seen the car a few minutes earlier heading north on US Highway 1 between Aberdeen and Southern Pines, and observed it speed up on the four-lane highway.

Barnes, traveling alone, was pinned inside the car by the force of the crash, and his body was removed with difficulty. This was the first case handled by the new Moore County Coroner, W. K. Carpenter of Pinebluff, who had been sworn in only Monday morning. He rendered a verdict of accidental death.

Edward T. Taws, Jr., Southern Pines, chairman for Lower Moore; Karl Schweinfurth of Vass, Upper Moore commissioner and recipient of the high Silver Beaver award for Scouting activity; and C. C. Thompson of Pinebluff, commissioner for Lower Moore. Both Beard and Sandlin wear neck sash pendants indicating they are former winners of the Silver Beaver honor. (Humphrey photo)

Schweinfurth Awarded High Scout Honor

A greying former U. S. Navy commander, who in 10 years of living in retirement at Vass has dedicated himself to the Boy Scout program, Friday night received the Silver Beaver award, highest in volunteer scouting on the council level.

The award made to Karl Schweinfurth "for distinguished service to boyhood" climaxed a program which had as another highlight an address by U. S. Senator Sam J. Ervin, Jr., following the annual Moore District Boy Scout potluck dinner held at the National Guard Armory. This was the last Moore District dinner, one of a series which in the past few years has grown steadily larger. The installation of chairmen and commissioners for the Lower Moore District No. 8 and Upper Moore District No. 18 marked the division of Moore County into two new districts within the Oconeechee Council, for greater service and efficiency.

Two Executives Each district will have its full-time executive, Lewis Waskey for Upper Moore and Richard Muse for Lower Moore. Waskey, a South Eoston, Va., native who moved to Carthage as Moore District executive last June 1, will continue to serve the new districts until Muse, Carthage native who will move here from Raleigh, completes his training at Camp Schiff, N. J., about the first of the year.

The new chairmen and commissioners, aided by their executives, will complete their staffs by appointment as soon as possible and move forward into independent
