TEERING OFF * WITH deNISSOFF

Near Miss

One of the nearest near accidents during the sleet storm that created havoc with trees and power lines in this area on Christmas day almost happened to Maj. Gen. I. T. Wyche.

General "Billy" made a trip out back of his home on Village Green East to get some wood to keep the home fires burning since the furnace fires weren't. As he was returning to the house, he heard an ominous dull crash and looking back, saw a heavy tree, burdened with too much ice, fall in the place where he had stood seconds before.

Ah, Vigah!

While employed in a post-Christmas task—cleaning out papers from an old wallet to replace in a new one—we found a couple of scraps of paper containing lines which suggest that we, too, were at one time mesmerized by one of President Kennedy's favorite words—"vigah."

One is a motto attributed to the young Swift:

"Beat not the paths which vulgar feet have trod.
But give the vigorous fancy room."

Of the authorship of the other phrase—"The vigorous mind has mountains to climb and valleys to repose in—" we are unsure, but believe it to be either by Emerson or Hazlitt.

We still feel that vigorous is a wonderfully full-bodied word, a word brimming with abundant life, with all the sweep and power of a March wind that buoys while it buffets.

Obsolete?

On the subject of words, we were slapped on the wrist recently for using a word in a news article which we were told is archaic, in fact, really obsolete.

The word was "cottage" and if it is truly obsolete, then that poses quite a problem, for how are we to separate the seasonal and transient hotel dwellers from those who dwell in homes if we can no longer use the well-worn phrase—"the cottage colony"—to describe the latter.

Of course, we could probably call this regiment of winter residents "the home colony" but that's fairly ridiculous since most of them, admittedly, make their homes on the Pinehurst golf courses and/or at the Country Club during the majority of their time of residence here.

Also, the word "home" doesn't sit well with our editor, it makes him shudder and, frankly, he thinks it's "corny," to use another archaic word.

So, presumably we have no recourse but to call Pinehurst winter colonists either "the house colony," or to revert to obsolescence, and continue the cottage colony designation.

Guest Ministers To Preach At Village Chapel

During the two-week absence of the Village Chapel's minister, Bishop Louis C. Melcher, who, with his wife, plans to leave Saturday for a Caribbean Cruise, the following ministers will be in charge of Sunday services at the Chapel:

The Rev. Grant Folmsbee of Laurinburg, on the staff of St. Andrews College, will conduct the 11 a. m. worship service and preach on January 6.

On January 13, the Rev. James Sterling of Trinity Church, Columbia, S. C. will supply the pulpit.

18 Play In Tennis Event; Winners Listed

The Scrambles and Parent-Child tennis tournaments, both scheduled over the weekend on the clay courts at the Pinehurst Country Club, were combined as the weather made the courts unplayable for part of the period.

Winning the men's division was Keith Gernold and Miss Judith Owens won the women's division. The tournament had a total entry of 18 players.

Next tourney on the tennis schedule is a doubles round robin event slated for Sunday, January 20.

Russell Glover Wins Junior Golf Title; Two Pairs Tie In Father-Son Tourney

A total of 324 young players participated in the 15th annual Donald J. Ross Junior Golf Championship at the Country Club last Thursday, playing on all five courses.

Russell Glover of Florence, S. C., age 17, and a veteran of six years on the links, captured the crown with a two-under par 70 on Number Two. In his sixth appearance at the tourney, he went one over par on the first nine. Coming back, he racked up three birdies.

Winner of the Southern High School Individual Championship at Chattanooga, Tenn. for the last two years, he won the Florence Country Club Men's Championship in May and the Florence Junior Boys Invitational in July, was second in the Florence Men's Invitational and went to the fourth round of the USGA Junior tourney at Detroit, Mich. before bowing to runnerup Jim Sullivan of California. Just under the age wire, he celebrated his 18th birthday Friday.

Four low gross awards were made for each course. In addition to the champion, other winners were:

Number Two—second, Leonard Thompson, Laurinburg, 37-34-71; third, Billy Hall, Lexington, 37-35-72; and fourth, Jack Lewis, Florence, S. C., 37-37-74.

Number Five—first, Freddie Newworth, Wilmington, 39-39-78; second, David Alexander, Raleigh, 39-40-79; third, Jimmy Thornes, Rocky Mount, 40-41-81; and tied for fourth, Billy Lee, Rocky Mount, 39-43-82; Phillip Hough, Lancaster, S. C., 40-42-82; and Bobby Brooks, Greensboro, 40-42-82.

Number Three—first, Mike Cheek, Whispering Pines, 36-38-74; second, Jay Horton, Wilmington, 36-40-76; third, Wally Howard, Greenville, 41-37-78; and fourth, Tom Webb, Albemarle, 41-40-81.

Number One—first, Randy Hoff, Chapel Hill, 44-43-87; tied for second, Erwin Paxton, 45-44-88, and Jack Jeffords, 43-46-89, both of Florence; and tied for fourth, Don Brown, Greensboro, 47-48-90, and Peter Pottle, Southern Pines, 44-46-90.

Number Four—first, Pete Vernon, Winston-Salem, 43; second, Bill Lewis, Florence, 47; third, Lynn McDonald, Wilmington, 48; and fourth, Wayne Howell, Darlington, S. C., 49.

Father-Son Division

Top honors in the Father-Son division of the Junior Golf were divided Friday between two teams, with a total of 94 entered in the Number Three Course selected-drives and alternate shots event.

Palmer Laughridge, Jr. of Wilson and son, Palmer, III, scored 34-40-74, and W. W. Greene of Marion and son, Woody, posted 36-38-74 for the tie finish.

Woody, at age 17, was making his final appearance in the tourney but Palmer, III, standing six feet tall at age 12, has five more years of eligibility.

The Laughridges scored a birdie on the 4th hole with bogeys at 11 and 16 and a double-bogey at 15, while the Greenses birdied the 1st hole and the 11th but went one over par on five other holes, 2, 6, 14, 17 and 18.

Third place resulted in a three-way tie at 75. Ernest Hays of Blowing Rock and son, Jimmy, and William A. Hall of Lexington and son, Billy, each scored 37-38; while John Pottle, of Southern Pines, Pinehurst Country Club dining-room and grill manager, and son, Peter, posted 36-39.

Seven pairs registered in the pro bracket. Winners at 37-38-75 were J. C. "Chuck" Alexander of Rocky Mount Country Club and son, John, Jr. Grant Bennett of Florence, S. C. and younger son, Gary, 34-42-76, tied for second with Darelle Napier of Richmond, Va. and son, Rick, 37-39-76.

HOLIDAY DINNER

The Women of the Community Church entertained at a dinner party Friday night in the church's fellowship hall for college students home for the holidays and for the seniors at the Pinehurst High School.

SKET WINNER

Dan Lewis of Pinehurst was winner Sunday at the Gun Club's afternoon skeet shoot, scoring 45, including his handicap of one. First competition of 1963 will take place Sunday, January 6, at 2:30 p. m.

Income taxes introduced during the Civil War expired in 1872. Tariffs were the main source of revenue until 1913.
