Local Youngsters, With Mothers, Visit Capital's National Art Gallery

Peter Hayes and Caroline Hodgkins, five-almost-six-year-olds were treated to a "never-to-be-forgotten" trip last Saturday when their mothers, Mrs. Thomas Hayes and Mrs. Norris Hodgkins, Jr., took them to Washington for the day. An early morning ride took them to Greensboro where they boarded a plane (first time) and a short time later landed in the Capital city.

A visit to the National Art Gallery was the main reason for the trip, and the two young people were entranced with the pictures. Some months ago, Miss Mary Logan had given them a book with pictures of many famous paintings, and the children have been studying them with much interest since. They recognized six of the paintings in the Gallery and naturally shrieked with joy each time they found a familiar one.

After lunch, the group went to the zoo for an hour or so and then, back to the plane and Greensboro again, in time for a light supper there and home in Southern Pines by 8 o'clock. Both mothers said it was one of the most delightful days they had ever spent.

FIRST CAR GIVEN MOORE HOSPITAL BY WOMEN'S AUXILIARY COST $350

One of the first presidents of the Moore Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, Mrs. John E. Dixon of Pinehurst, who spoke on the formation of the organization at last Wednesday's general meeting in the Nurses Home, presented some amusing statistical comparisons between then and now.

Forty-two auxiliary members were present for the meeting at which the president, Mrs. Paul Dana, presided and heard short reports from the following committee chairmen:

Mrs. Fred B. Pollard, benefits chairman, who reported that the annual Moore Memorial Hospital benefit dinner at the Dunes Club will be held Monday February 25. In charge of reservations are Mrs. Walter G. Robins of Pinehurst and Mrs. A. L. Folley of Southern Pines. Mrs. W. R. Bonsal, III of Southern Pines has charge of the floor prize—a stereo-A.M. - F.M. radio combination.

Mrs. James Boyd gave a welfare report. Mrs. Alice Bodine, in charge of volunteer hospital workers, reported on the canteen and told members about the training of pink checkers for work in the hospital.

Mrs. Edward T. Taws, Jr. who has accepted chairmanship of the canteen cart, emphasized the need for workers—male or female—to take the canteen cart around the hospital.

In her warmly affectionate and humorous talk on the people responsible for bringing the women's auxiliary into being, Mrs. Dixon mentioned especially the late Mrs. Leonard Tufts—"a rare and beloved lady, with great vision, always ready to help when the occasion arose . . . who conceived the idea of a Woman's Auxiliary for the newly built Hospital here in the Sandhills. Few of the large cities, even," noted the speaker, "had organized a group such as this in 1930."

When the first auxiliary president, Betty (Mrs. M. W.) Marr, retired from office, there were 67 active members, according to the report of Mrs. Dixon, who became the organization's second president.

The third president, she stated, was Gertrude (Mrs. James Pryor) Williamson, then came Mrs. Norwood Johnston, Sr., and, as sixth president, Mrs. Dana. There were 18 presidents in the intervening years before Mrs. Dana again became head of the group.

Among special boosters for the hospital mentioned by Mrs. Dixon were "Granny" (Mrs. James) Andrews, Mrs. Noyes (Mary Spellman's mother) and Mrs. John Given.

The speaker also commended Mrs. (H.P.) Hotchkiss and her workers who helped with mending for the hospital, for, "in that era, all of the mending was done by the auxiliary members."

During the auxiliary's first year, said Mrs. Dixon, "we purchased for the hospital a new station wagon, at a cost of $350!"

The speaker concluded her talk by presenting the auxiliary, for the hospital's Building Fund, her promised check for $1,000.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Dixon's talk, Hospital Administrator Duncan L. McGoogan, present during the meeting, answered several of the members' questions about the hospital's administration.

Mrs. B. Porter Kuzsmaul and Mrs. A. L. Folley were hostesses at a coffee hour following the meeting.

FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS GIVES LANDSCAPING PROJECT TO SAMARCAND

A living, growing gift of beauty to young girls of North Carolina, whose lives may have held little enough of beauty, has been made by Women's Clubs of the State to Samarcan Manor, contributing their money, time and effort through their Federation. Women's Clubs at Aberdeen, Carthage and Robbins, in Moore County, participated in the project.

It is a gift which will grow more beautiful through the years, and which will be of untold value, in line with new knowledge about correction and rehabilitation, a part of which is that "Beauty is therapy."

This was the thought voiced by Blaine M. Madison of Raleigh, State commissioner of correction, in a program held Friday afternoon in the auditorium of Samarcan Manor, the State Training School for Girls, near Eagle Springs.

Madison, expressing thanks to the Federation of Women's Clubs for their just-completed campus beautification project, said, "Beauty comes to us from God, making life more meaningful and teaching us new ways to walk."

4-Year Project
The four-year project, costing some $15,000, was one by which women of the State through club, district and State chairmen to add extensive plantings of lawns, shrubs and trees, walkways, brickwork and a multipurpose activity field to the campus where a number of new, modern buildings have been erected by the State within the past few years.

The state's brick industry presented walls, walkways and other brick construction work. They worked by a master plan created by a Raleigh landscape architect, and with the help of the brick industry of North Carolina, which contributed an estimated $5,000 worth of materials and labor.

This was in addition to funds contributed in every district by the clubwomen, from their pockets through benefit projects and in the form of donations from their friends.

The campus development program is long-range and this project is its first phase. Future projects, under administrations to come, may center on other needs of the school, long a primary concern of the State Federation.

In the program presented before the school staff, student body and invited guests—including Federation officials and many who had worked closely with the projects—Mrs. C. Gordon Madfrey of Ahoskie outlined the history of the Federation's continuing concern, with the State Training School dating back prior to its establishment over 40 years ago.

'Helping Hands'
Mrs. Fred Bunch of Statesville, a past committee chairman, now Federation treasurer, explained another development of this interest—the "Helping Hands" program, by which club members throughout the State aid in readjustment of girls returning to their home communities from Samarcan Manor.

Mrs. James F. Harper, Jr., of Southport, present Federation president, presented two bronze plaques, to be affixed to the entrance walls and a wall at the activity field. Accepting project and plaques for the State Board of Correction and Training was Mrs. John L. Frye, Jr., of Robbins.

Appreciation was expressed by a young girl for the student body; by Miss Reva Mitchell, superintendent, and by Commissioner Madison. It found expression also in the singing of the school glee club. 20 girls in simple costumes of white blouses and black skirts, led and accompanied by Mrs. Thelma Alpert of Pinebluff, their pianist-director.
