New Site Considered For School To End County - Pinehurst Disagreement

A new proposal has been made which could head off the head-on issue between the Pinehurst and Moore County school systems, which last week threatened to block the school consolidation and community college programs.

Joining with the Moore County board of education at its regular meeting Tuesday night, the combined Aberdeen-West End school committee proposed an alternate site for their consolidated school which would not be in the Pinehurst district.

"The site itself would be just as good as the other, and spacious enough for both the high school and college campuses," said Joe Lennon of Aberdeen, chairman of the combined committee. "It would mean a mile or two travel for some of the students but, since all the consolidated high school students would have to be transported by bus anyway, that would probably not be too much of a disadvantage."

Since the idea was a tentative one, and the owner or owners of the land had not been contacted, they asked that the location of the site not be publicized yet.

This would mean, said Jere Mc-

Pinehurst School Board's Position On College Told

The Pinehurst School Board this week asked that, "as a result of the recent publicity given to the subject of a Community College in Moore County," its position should be made clear.

The board's statement follows:

"The Pinehurst School Board fully approves and endorses the need and desirability of a Community College in Moore County but also feels strongly that it should be completely separated from any connection with a local high school. In addition to the reasons felt by the Pinehurst School Board was a statement issued by the Department of Curriculum Study and Research, published by the State Board of Education, as follows:

"The Community College must have a campus of its own, apart from local public school facilities. A college cannot operate satisfactorily as the off-hours tenant of a high school building."

"The Pinehurst School Board would like to go on record as being willing to do anything in its power to assist in the bringing of a community college into Moore County in accordance with the above statement."

(Editor's Note: While The Pilot also favors separating the college and any high school, it is in order to point out, as a factual matter, that the Moore County Board of Education—which wants to build the college and a consolidated Aberdeen-West End High School on adjoining sites, sharing some facilities like heating plant, auditorium or cafeteria—has never advocated operating the proposed college "as the off-hours tenant of a high school building.")

13th Fireman's Ball Set Saturday Night

The Southern Pines Volunteer Fire Department will stage its 13th annual Fireman's Ball at the National Guard Armory on Morganton Road Saturday night, with music by Troy Richardson and his orchestra.

Fire Chief Joe Garzik pointed out this week that proceeds of the Fireman's Ball go into an entertainment and recreation fund for the volunteers who are unpaid, not for maintenance or equipment of the fire department. The department itself is tax-supported, he said.

Miss Collins Wins 'Miss Sanford' Title

Miss Emma Holiday Collins of Southern Pines, a junior at Converse College in South Carolina, was chosen "Miss Sanford" Friday night, making her eligible to compete in the Miss North Carolina Pageant at Guilford College in June.

The Miss North Carolina choice will enter the Miss America pageant at Atlantic City, N. J., later in the summer.

Known to friends here as "Emmaday," Miss Collins is the daughter of Harold A. Collins and the late Mrs. Collins. At the Sanford event, sponsored for the fourth year by the Jaycees, in McLeod Auditorium, she was crowned by Miss Jacquelyn Jeanne Mayer, the current Miss America.

For her evening gown appearance, Miss Collins wore a white satin formal, styled with a train and gold brocade trim. In the talent portion of the contest, she presented a dramatic modern dance, wearing a blue and white costume. There was also a swim suit appearance.

In the questions asked the five finalists, Miss Collins was asked, "How would you define the expression, 'Holy Smoke?'" She re-

ENDORSE COLLEGE Schools Officials Here Prefer To Be Independent

At its meeting Monday night the board of education of Southern Pines Administrative School District endorsed the idea of a community college and reaffirmed its intention to continue as an independently administered school district.

The board in its deliberations stressed the fact that operation as a special administrative district assures local control of the schools, while the supplementary tax "enables the Southern Pines Schools to offer adequate supervision to obtain good teachers by supplementing their salaries, and teachers, paid from local funds, to offer a good curriculum and better instruction through a moderate teaching load and greater attention to the problem of the individual child."

In reporting the results of the meeting, N. L. Hodgkins, chairman, stated that the local school

Does Public Want Hear About Consolidation?

Dr. Charles Phillips, Southern Pines resident who last week told The Pilot he had asked the local board of education to call a public hearing for discussion of high school consolidation proposals, said this week the board had invited him to attend the next board of education meeting, but that no action on a hearing was indicated.

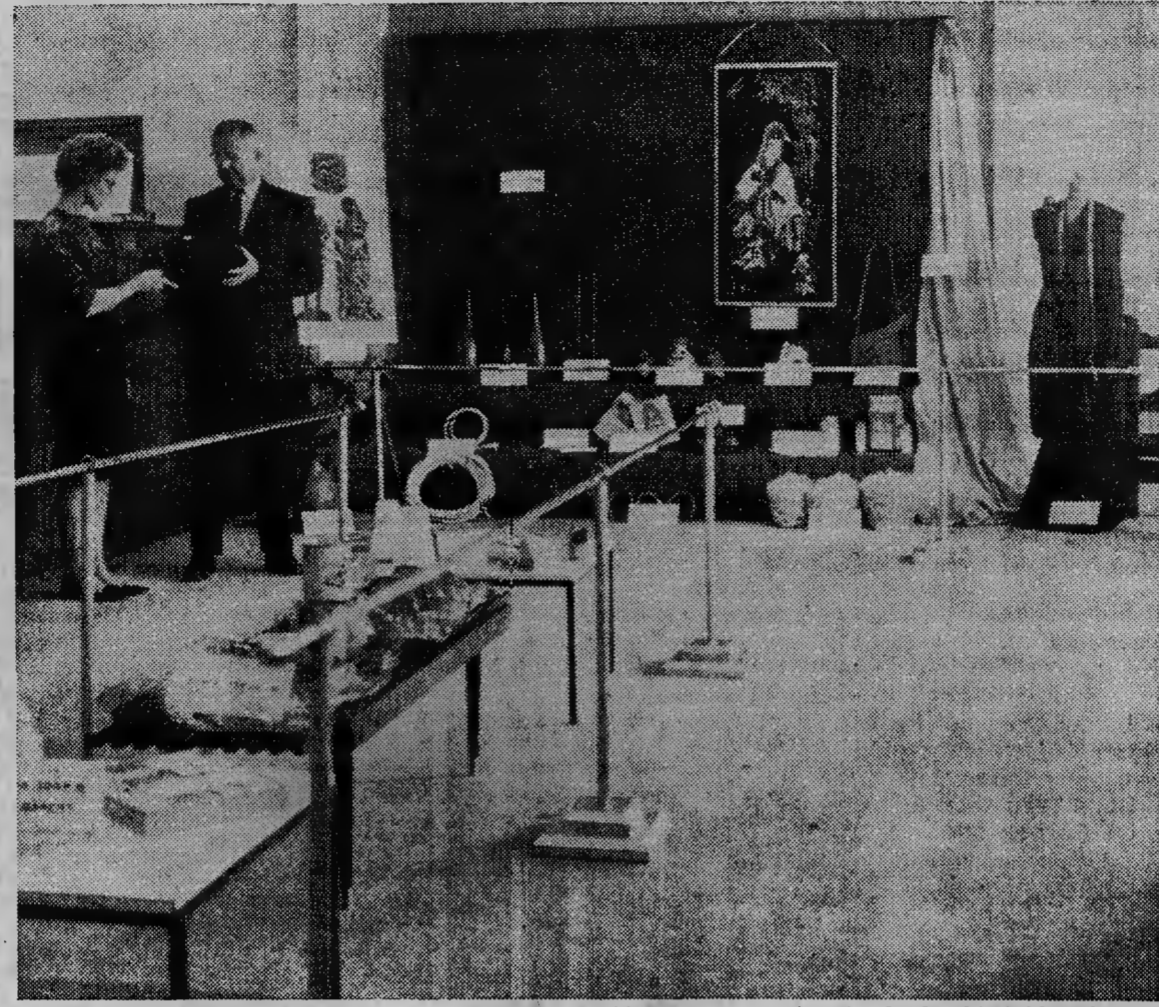

Dr. Phillips said today he had suggested to Mrs. Albert Grove, East Southern Pines Parent-Teacher Association president, that a public opinion poll be conducted outside the town hall on election day next Tuesday, on how many citizens would like to have an open meeting to discuss the pros and cons of school consolidation.

plied: "I would define it as half halo, or the rings people blow when they smoke." The answer brought a round of applause.

Another Southern Pines resident, Miss Charla Marcum, won the Miss Sanford title a few years ago, going on to win the "Miss Congeniality" designation in the Miss North Carolina Pageant.

WIDE VARIETY OF INDUSTRIES

Moore County Products Displayed

About 30 products of Moore County manufacturing companies, ranging from handcrafted items to a bag of wood chips symbolizing the county's lumber and wood products industry, went on display Monday in the lobby of the Southern National Bank on S. W. Broad St.

They will remain there, with the public invited to view them during banking hours, until taken to the Mid Pines Club where they will be displayed and given away as door prizes at the annual convention of the N. C. Association of Certified Public Accountants, May 9-11. Some 250 persons are expected.

The display was originated as a kind of county "trade fair" by two local CPAs, Garland McPherson and J. E. Sandlin, as a feature to add interest, color and an appreciation of Moore County to the Mid Pines gathering.

The list and display of items became so impressive, Mr. McPherson said this week, that the cooperation of the bank was sought in making the collection available to a wider audience.

Two products not shown are old-fashioned hand-made coffins built by Jesse Phillips of Glendon and railroad cross ties produced by the John L. Frye Co. at Robbins.

"I expect there are products we have overlooked," Mr. McPherson said. "And if so, our apologies to those firms. We had no idea so many different items were manufactured in this county. This display is in memory of the founder."

33 Girls Entered In 'Little Miss' Contest Friday

Thirty-three pre-school age girls will take part in a "Little Miss Southern Pines" contest to be held in Weaver Auditorium at 7 p. m. tomorrow (Friday).

The event is sponsored by the Jaycees, with proceeds from the small admission charge to benefit the organization's park playground equipment project.

Winner of the contest will receive a loving cup and transistor radio. Her mother will be given a steam iron.

Going to the first runner-up will be a child's Boston rocker and a $10 bank savings account. (Continued on Page 8)

A group of older girls will be receive their Curved Bar pins—high award equivalent to the Eagle rank in Boy Scouting.

Mrs. Charles Phillips, neighborhood chairman, is in charge of the event. Mrs. W. T. Huntley will supervise the flag ceremony.

Maternal Welfare Tag Sale Day To Be Held May 11

Members of the Moore County Maternal Welfare Committee, now under the sponsorship of the Woman's Auxiliary of Moore Memorial Hospital, are making plans for the forthcoming fund drive of this county group.

Tag Day, the day of the year when funds for the organization are collected, will be May 11, the Saturday before Mother's Day. On this day tables will be manned in most county towns, where the small tags, with their slogan: "Help a needy Moore County Mother," will be sold.

Funds collected at that time support the main object of this county organization: maintenance of the free bed for needy mothers in the Elizabeth Woltz Currie maternity ward at Moore Memorial Hospital, established by the committee in memory of the founder.

Under a special arrangement with the hospital and its obstetrical staff, needy mothers who have attended the county public health clinics are delivered of their babies, with subsequent care of mother and child, at a rate of $50 paid by the fund raised yearly at this time. A second fund is provided on which the public health nurses may draw in emergencies to buy milk, food, furnish layettes, etc.

This past year 19 mothers and their babies profited by use of the free bed; a number of these were recommended for litigation. (Continued on Page 8)

Jenkins Named Schools Superintendent

The selection of James W. Jenkins as superintendent of the Southern Pines City Schools has been announced by N. L. Hodgkins, chairman of the Southern Pines board of education.

At the close of the present school year, he will succeed Luther A. Adams who recently resigned to become superintendent of Stanly County schools, at Albemarle.

Mr. Jenkins comes to Southern Pines from Morven where he has been superintendent for the past four years. Prior to that, he was teacher and elementary school principal at Roanoke Rapids.

A native of Shelby and 37 years old, he graduated from West Carolina College in 1953, has received his master's degree from Appalachian State Teachers College in Boone, and has also taken post graduate work at University of North Carolina. He is married and has two children.

Mr. Hodgkins said that Mr. Jenkins was particularly recommended to this school by Dr. Guy Phillips, professor of education at the University of North Car-

Council Certifies Vote, Authorizes Water Line Bids

In a special meeting held Tuesday morning in the conference room at town hall, the council accepted and certified the results of the voting in Monday's municipal primary and authorized the printing of ballots for the election Tuesday, May 7.

In a separate action, the council accepted engineering proposals for water line extensions and replacements under the $105,000 program financed by bonds voted last fall, and authorized requests for bids on the work.

The water line extensions are in addition to other major water bond projects authorized—a new raw water intake line from the lake to the treatment plant and a new pump at the plant.

The three major water line projects are:

1. On Connecticut Ave. from Ridge St. to Weymouth Rd.—replacing a four-inch line with a 12-inch line, to help increase pressure in a portion of Weymouth Heights.
2. On Midland Road, continuing an eight-inch line from Leak St., past the Methodist church to Delaware Ave. and west on Delaware to Leak, completing a circle, including installation of four more fire hydrants.
3. Replacing a two-inch line with a 12-inch line, south from Wisconsin Ave. on Broad St.

Southern Pines voters will go to the town hall voting place Tuesday, May 7, to elect five council members. After election, the five will vote to choose a mayor for the coming two-year term.

Polls will open at 6:30 a.m. and close at 6:30 p.m.

On the same ballot voters will find two unopposed candidates for local Records Court offices—W. Harry Fullenwider for judge and Howard C. Broughton for prosecuting attorney.

A slate of 10 council candidates, with voters asked to choose five, will appear on the ballot.

Listed alphabetically, they are: Felton Capel, Norris L. Hodgkins, Jr., W. Morris Johnson, Donald D. Kennedy, C. A. McLaughlin, Dante S. Montesanti, Harry H. Pethick, Dr. Charles A. Speas Phillips, Fred B. Pollard and William S. Thomasson.

Capel, Johnson and Pollard are members of the present council. Mayor John S. Ruggles and Mayor Pro Tem J. D. Hobbs were not candidates for reelection.

Primary Results

In voting Monday, 641 persons turned out, to eliminate one of the 11 candidates then appearing on the ballot. This one was Leland M. Daniels, Jr. The vote received Monday by each candidate is listed in an accompanying tabulation.

Estimates of number of voters expected out Tuesday range up to 1,000 or more, with considerable speculation going on as to how these additional voters may change the results as compared to the primary.

Kennedy Asks Leave Race But Must Stay

Donald D. Kennedy, town council candidate, sought this week to withdraw from Tuesday's election, for personal reasons, but was told that his name could not be legally removed from the ballot. However, Mr. Kennedy asked that The Pilot publish this statement to the public:

"Personal reasons, consisting mainly of illness in my family, have arisen which take prior claim on me to serving on your town council, if elected. Hence I ask that you do not vote for me, but make your choices from the many good men whose names appear on the list of candidates. Earnest thanks to those of you who thought well of having me serve you."

Other Elections Set For Tuesday

While Southern Pines is the only Moore County town having a primary in a municipal election, other towns will vote for their officials (mayor and board of commissioners) on the same day that Southern Pines voters go to the polls—Tuesday, May 7.

Elections will be conducted then in Aberdeen, Pinebluff, Carthage, Robbins and Vass.

DENTISTS TO CONVENE

The 107th annual session of the North Carolina Dental Society will open Saturday, to run until Tuesday, at the Carolina Hotel, Pinehurst. Dr. R. Bruce Warlick of Southern Pines is chairman of the Sports Committee for the event.
