C. P. Street, Charlotte Contractor, Low Bidder For Hospital Building

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of Moore Memorial Hospital, held Tuesday evening at the Nurses Home, with the president, H. G. Poole of Carthage, in the chair, it was voted to accept the bid made by the C. P. Street Construction Company of Charlotte for the planned additions and alterations to the hospital.

Bids had been received by hospital officials at a meeting held at the National Guard Armory last Friday with construction firms of the state. Of the nine who took part in the bidding, the C. P. Street Construction Company was low with a bid of $1,721,250 for all required work.

In addition to the base bid, the project included 24 alternates, 10 of which are elective on the part of the hospital, and the other 14 are required elements of the project but are listed separately due to accounting requirements.

Other firms bidding were L. P. Cox Company, Sanford, Crowder Construction Company, Charlotte, King-Hunter, Inc., Greensboro, William Muirhead Construction Company, Durham, Robert H. Pinnix, Inc. Gastonia, Juno Construction Company, Charlotte, R. K. Stewart and Son, High Point, F. N. Thompson, Inc., Charlotte.

The project includes a new air-conditioned three-floor wing which will provide space for Surgery, Central Supply, Pharmacy, Mechanical Equipment Room, X-

Ray, two additional elevators, and a net gain of 65 beds. This will be located at the southwestern end of the hospital. In addition, new parking will be provided, new boiler and shop facilities added, plus alterations within several areas of the existing building. These changes include relocating and expanding existing laboratory and medical records departments, conversion of existing operating rooms to provide space for seven beds, additional storage space, new helps' locker facilities, renovation and expansion of the physical therapy department.

The laboratory is scheduled to move into the space now occupied by the Negro wards, with the latter acquiring greatly enlarged and improved quarters in the central section.

The Board of Directors planned at Tuesday's meeting to notify the North Carolina Medical Care Commission of the Board's recommendation regarding the construction contract award. This must be approved by the State Board before the award is actually made.

Hospital officials were pleased with the bids received, the low bid being very close to previously estimated construction cost.

The entire project including equipment is expected to cost over $2,000,000 and will require approximately twenty months for completion.

Spencer Proposes Archivist Job For Local "Historians"

Colin Spencer, Sr., of Carthage, newly elected president of the Moore County Historical Association presided at a dinner meeting of the group, as his first move in office.

The dinner was held Tuesday night, a Dutch affair in the private dining-room of the Holiday Inn restaurant. From thirty-five to forty members were present.

Following the steak dinner—much enjoyed by all—the president explained the plan for the Association which he and a few others had been mulling over and which was the main reason for the gathering. Mr. Spencer said that he felt the Association could become more active throughout the county in the task, or even duty, of gathering information of the past and keeping up with current happenings. He pointed out that much of history has been garnered through idle notes, letters, journals and from scrapbooks of newspaper clipping meticulously kept through the years by individuals interested to preserve the annals of their communities. He urged that each Moore County community should appoint a member of the Historical Association to act as archivist.

"And the time to start it," he said, "is right now. Things are happening all the time that we ought to note down and classify, for the help of future historians."

He said he believed firmly that the society could do an important work if members became more active in such a task. The idea was received with enthusiasm.

Only definite action taken that evening was the decision that there should be four regular meetings during the year. The president then named a program committee consisting of: Mrs. K. N. McColl, Miss Helen Butler, Edwin T. McKeithen, and N. L. Hodgkins, Jr.
