Halloween Party For Children Set Thursday, Oct. 31

The Southern Pines Rotary Club will hold its annual outdoor, public Halloween party for children on Thursday, October 31. The festivities will begin with a parade at 7 p. m., forming in front of Clark and Bradshaw's Service Station located on N. W. Broad Street, at Connecticut Ave., and ending in front of the main Citizens Bank and Trust Company Building, on Broad St., north of Pennsylvania Ave.

Prizes will be awarded to those children participating in the parade who have the best costumes in various categories. Numbers will be assigned to each of the contestants to assist the judges in making their decisions.

Apple bobbing and pie eating contests will be held after the parade. Booths will be set up where children can toss rings, throw balls and take part in other activities. Prizes will be given out for all of these events.

Refreshments, candy, popcorn and cookies will be available to everyone.

The Seaboard Air Line Railroad has given assurances to representatives of Rotary that all trains passing through town during the party will be slowed down.

The party will be concluded by a teenage street dance to be held after the contests.

WOMAN REPORTED KILLED IN WRECK

A Negro woman listed as Easter Ingram, 38, a kitchen employee of the Carolina Hotel in Pinehurst, was reported killed in a one-car auto wreck about one-half mile east of the race track on the "old road" to Pinehurst, about 2 p. m. today.

The investigating state trooper, R. R. Samuels, listed as seriously injured, Shirley Ingram, sister of the dead woman and driver of the car, and James Gaines, both of Jackson Hamlet; and Connie Ruth Stubbs, of Southern Pines.

He stated the cause to be a blown right front tire. The car was running off the road on the shoulder for 198 feet before it wrecked, he said.

The accident took place on a straight stretch of road, the car leaving the highway and crashing into a clump of small pine trees while headed toward Pinehurst.

IN 'BUSINESS WEEK'

Southern Pines, Pinehurst and the Sandhills get several paragraphs of favorable comment on this area as a golf and resort center in the "Personal Business" section of the current Business Week, widely circulated national magazine read primarily by business executives.

CORRECTION

In a portion of today's press run, the date of the upcoming county school and college bond election is incorrectly given in a full-page sponsored advertisement urging registration of voters. The correct date is Tuesday, November 5, not Saturday as stated in some of today's papers.

COMMISSIONERS ADOPT RESOLUTION

Robert M. Cushman Recognized For Industrial, Civic, Church Activity

About 60 friends and associates of Robert M. Cushman of Southern Pines, an industrial, civic and church leader since he and his family moved to the Sandhills in 1955, honored his contributions to the area's betterment with a recognition dinner at the Mid Pines Club last Thursday night.

Present for the occasion, to meet Moore County leaders and witness the esteem accorded Mr. Cushman, was Roger Milliken, president of Deering-Milliken, large textile firm which earlier this year purchased from Textron, Inc. the Amerotron Company of which Mr. Cushman was then executive vice president, becoming president in August.

The recognition dinner was a joint project of the Moore County and Southern Pines Industrial

Mrs. Blue Heads YDC; Loyalty To Party Is Urged

(Speaker Blue praised by Eure for crucial vote in General Assembly's special session—page 3)

Sounding the call for party loyalty and unity in the coming election year, Democratic leaders also paid tribute to past achievements and individuals of today at the annual Moore County Young Democrat Club's membership meeting held Saturday night at the Carthage High School cafeteria.

Guest Speaker Secretary of State Thad Eure, after a resounding tribute to Speaker of the House H. Clifton Blue, of Aberdeen took out after those who vote "for the man" and not "for the party," and those who defect from party ranks because of something some individual has said or done.

"From the beginning of this nation's history, on county, state and national levels, the administration of every phase of governmental operation has been and is a party job," declared the man known from end to end of the State as "Mr. Democrat."

"There is no place to go from our party except into the ranks of the party which has opposed us all these years, and which has never contributed one thing to our life and progress except they always say they 'can do it better,'" Eure said.

The only piece of statewide legislation on the statute books originating with a Republican, Eure noted, "is the law changing the death penalty from electrocution to asphyxiation—the one thing they showed they could do better."

"As for myself," he said, "I am not even going to engage in any conversation with anyone that might drive me out of my party. If there is something in my party I think needs rectifying, I am going to stick in there and work to get it done. That is something (Continued on page 17)

Ann Crockett Of Lakeview Wins 'Miss Moore County High School' Contest

Ann Crockett, 17-year-old Vass-Lakeview senior, was crowned "Miss Moore County High School of 1963" Wednesday night at the Moore County Fair at Carthage.

Blonde and hazel-eyed, wearing a slim formal gown of gold brocade, she was crowned by Molly Dotson, "Miss Carthage of 1963," who acted as mistress of ceremonies at the pageant.

Assisting the judges was "Miss North Carolina," Jeanne Finn Swanner of Graham, a special guest of the Carthage Jaycees for the occasion.

The new Moore County high school queen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Crockett of Vass is a member of the Beta club and FHA, and outstanding in other school activities and in her studies. She is the sister of David Crockett, chosen last spring as Moore's second Morehead scholar at the University of North Carolina.

First runner-up was Diane Williams of West End High school, a petite 16-year-old "brownette" wearing a white-ruffled bouffant gown, and second runner-up was Janice Lee Cagle of Elise High school, Robbins, also 16, brown-haired and brown-eyed, also wearing a bouffant gown of white.

A large crowd braved chill, rain-threatening weather to cheer their favorites in the competition held on the floodlit outdoor stage.

Worth McDonald, presiding jaycee chairman, turned the proceedings over early to Molly Dotson. (Continued on Page 8)

Charter For Mental Health Group To Be Given Monday

Moore County's Mental Health Association will receive its charter at a luncheon meeting Monday at the Holiday Inn Restaurant.

David Drexel, president of the Moore County chapter, said this week that officials from Greenville will attend the luncheon and make the presentation.

He also announced that new officers will be installed and committee chairmen for the coming year will be announced.

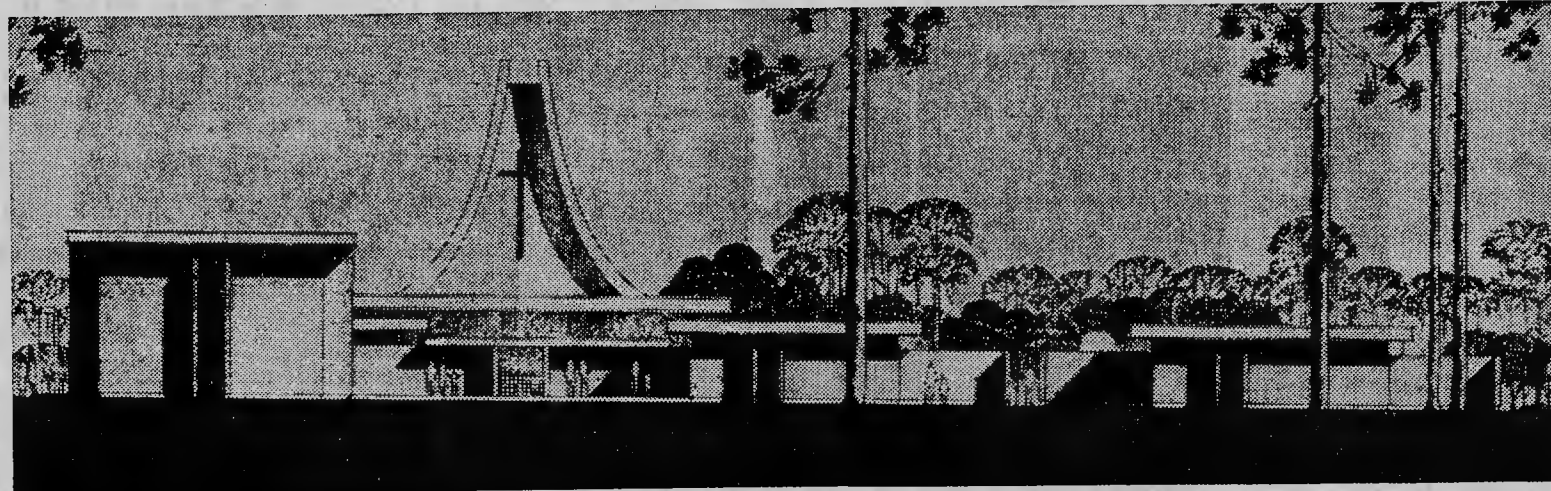

Those desiring to attend the luncheon, which is dutch, may do so, Drexel said. He suggested that those planning to attend telephone him or the Holiday Inn to make reservations. A turkey dinner will be served.

COUNTY FAIR CONTINUING

The Moore County Fair will continue at Carthage through Saturday, with agricultural, home and industrial exhibits, entertainment and special events.

Tomorrow, Friday, has been designated "Agricultural Day." Farm exhibits are reported more extensive than ever before.

Saturday's designation is "Moore County Day." The fair is sponsored by the Carthage Jaycees.

Lutheran Church To Ask Bids Soon On Construction Project

Bids will be asked soon on construction of the first phase of Our Saviour Lutheran Church and associated buildings, the Rev. Jack Deal, the church's pastor, announced this week.

The accompanying drawing by Hawes, Howell and Associates, of Southern Pines, architects, shows a view of the proposed completed project as it will be seen from No. 1 highway. The structures will be built on a site of about seven acres owned by the church, north of the Fairway Motel.

Plans for the project have been approved locally by the Council of the church, the congregation and a building committee headed by M. O. Johnson, as well as by the North Carolina Lutheran Synod, the Board of American Missions in Chicago and the Board of Church Architects in Philadelphia, all Lutheran groups.

The first phase of construction will include the building on the extreme left—a fellowship hall accommodating about 175 persons which will be used as a sanctuary until completion later of this portion of the plan. A feature of the fellowship hall, as shown in the drawing is a buttress, with window in center, from roof to floor, in the center of the build-

Saturday Is Last Day To Register For Voting On County Bond Issues

Saturday, October 26, will be the last day on which residents of Moore County can register to vote in the school and college county bond elections to be held Tuesday, November 5.

Registrars in all 19 precincts will be at polling places Saturday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., as listed in another item on this page.

In the election, citizens will be asked to vote for or against a $3 million county bond issue for construction and expansion of schools in all three school systems of the county; for or against a $1 million bond issue for funds with which to build a two-year "comprehensive community college" that has already been authorized for the county by the state; and for or against the legal authority of the county commissioners to appropriate funds for annual maintenance of a college plant after it is built.

Should Check Status Registration has been generally light since it began October 12, said S. C. Riddle, chairman of the county board of elections. Persons who are properly registered on the county's general election books in the precincts where they now reside need not register again. However, the elections board chairman noted, there was a complete re-registration of all voters in Moore County last year and all persons not certain of their voting status should check with their registrars.

Persons who have moved from one precinct to another within the county, for instance, must re-register.

Local Committee Mayor W. Morris Johnson and Mrs. J. S. Hiatt, Jr., president of the East Southern Pines School Parent-Teacher Association, are heading a steering committee on behalf of the two bond issues in the Southern Pines area, concentrating their attention this week on registration of voters.

Newcomers Urged They urge newcomers to the area to register, pointing out that North Carolina law requires residence of one year in the state and 30 days in the precinct, to qualify a person to register and vote.

Information on the proposed bond issues can be obtained from the committee chairmen.

Local Voters Warned Voters in Southern Pines who are registered on the municipal election books only—the books used in voting for town council and court officials last May—are warned that this registration does not qualify them for voting in the November 5 county election.

Three Precincts Local area voters also are asked to note that there are three precincts in the Southern Pines area—North Southern Pines, South Southern Pines and Pinedene. A description of their dividing lines can be obtained from any of the three registrars who are listed in black face type in another front page story today.

Brochures Ready Mayor Johnson said that brochures are ready, explaining how both the East and West Southern Pines schools would benefit from the $554,700 that would be received by the Southern Pines school administrative unit if the $3 million bond issue is approved.

Each school child will take home a copy of this brochure—which also stresses the Saturday registration deadline—tomorrow, Friday, said N. L. Hodgkins, chairman of the Southern Pines board of education.

The brochures also explain and support the proposed bond issue for the college.

Mayor Johnson said that, next week, all registered voters in the three area precincts will be sent an information packet including a copy of the brochure, a sample copy of the ballot to be used, a copy of a resolution adopted by the town council in favor of the two bond issues (appearing also in today's Pilot) and a letter from the local board of education.
