

CLUB HOME MODEL—A model of the uniquely constructed proposed club home of the Moore County Wildlife Club is pointed out and described by Howard Butler of Southern Pines, the designer, left, to Mrs. Albert S. Tufts of Pinehurst, chairman of next Tuesday night's bazaar at Pinehurst for benefit of the club home's building fund; Mrs. Estelle Wicker of Carthage, club treasurer; and Ralph T. Mills of Southern Pines, club president. The poster lists some of the bazaar's many attractions. The proposed building is 40 by 60 feet in size, using an "A-frame" construction of 50-foot poles running from ground to the peak of the aluminum roof with three large colored skylights. Commissioners Studying County Trash Disposal

The county commissioners, meeting in Carthage Monday, looked with favor on a plea by Southern Pines officials that the county share in the cost of operating the town's "sanitary landfill" garbage and trash disposal area. They also asked County Sanitarian Floyd Dunn to investigate and report on ways to solve the rural trash disposal problem in other areas of the county.

Appearing before the board to bring the subject up were Mayor W. Morris Johnson and Town Manager F. F. Rainey, of Southern Pines.

Rainey told the board that Southern Pines has the only organized landfill disposal system in the county and that "everybody dumps in it—not only garbage, but tree-trimmings, stumps and all kinds of trash," so that the situation "has gotten out of hand financially." Some out-of-town commercial garbage collectors are dumping there at no charge, he said.

He estimated that about 25 percent of the volume of work at the landfill is due to dumping by persons who don't live inside the town limits of Southern Pines. Asked to suggest what he thought the county should do, he suggested a payment of about $5,000 per year—this being about one-quarter of the estimated $20,000 annual cost of the town of running the landfill operation which is located on town property, off Morganton Road, near the National Guard Army.

In the commissioners' formal action, they voted to ask Rainey to compile accurate cost figures on the landfill's operation and the proportion of non-town use it receives so that the board "can work from there to find a solution."

Both Mayor Johnson and Manager Rainey emphasized that the object is not to keep non-Southern Pines people out of the landfill, as that would only mean that the trash would be dumped in the woods somewhere along the roads.

"We don't want that and we want to keep the area clean," Mayor Johnson said.

Rainey said that other officials of other towns report that counties have helped with landfill expenses when faced with a similar situation.

Mr. Dunn recalled that he had discussed rural garbage disposal problems with the board some time ago and that it is clear that some kind of arrangements must be made in other areas of the county, as well as in the Southern Pines area, where the problem is most pressing, because of the larger population.

The discussion developed two lines of thought—the possibility of the county's operating its own system of dumps which would be visited regularly by some one employed by the county to bury the garbage and trash; and the possibility of sharing the cost of dump operation with other towns.

To encourage use of these dumps by persons living in nearby areas.

Perhaps, it was suggested, some areas without garbage disposal systems, such as the unincorporated West End community, would set up systems if they knew they could get some assistance from the county.

The board asked Dunn to help draw up a tentative county regulation that would take these points into consideration, and put an end to rural dumping operations such as one he had previously brought to their attention in the Midway community between Southern Pines and Aberdeen.

In the morning session, the board heard reports from Mrs. Jean Hubbard, home economics agent; Mrs. Amelia Capehart, home agent for Negro work; F. D. Allen, county extension chairman; and Mrs. W. B. Cole, director of the public welfare department.

All the commissioners were present for the morning session: Chairman L. R. Reynolds, J. M. Currie, Tom Monroe, J. M. Pleasants and W. S. Taylor. At noon, Chairman Reynolds left and did not return, because of the serious illness of a close relative.

Funeral Held For Mrs. Wallace, 85

Mrs. Flora Ann Wallace, 85, of Route 1, Eagle Springs, died Monday. Funeral services were conducted Wednesday at the Cross Roads Baptist Church by the Rev. Fred Richardson, the Rev. Clyde Cockman and the Rev. Bennie Maness. Burial was in the Wallace family cemetery.

Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. Nettie Saunders of Route 1, Eagle Springs, Mrs. Cora Britt and Mrs. Beulah McNeill, both of Route 1, Robbins, Mrs. Josephine McKenzie of Lakeview and Mrs. Swannie Maness of Route 2, Siler City; three sons, Millard of Route 1, Eagle Springs, Jim of Route 1, Carthage and Stead Wallace of Biscoe; and 44 grandchildren.

Several committees are working in preparation for the bazaar and prospects are for an outstanding event, she said. Many unusual and desirable articles have already been given by the members for sale, and others will be received Monday from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. at the Village Chapel Hall, it was pointed out.

President Ralph T. Mills conducted the meeting, featuring an interesting "pinch-hit" speaker, after Dr. Philip N. Brown, federal geologist, was prevented from coming by a family emergency. The substitute was Stephen L. Conrad, of the staff of Dr. J. L. Stuckey, state geologist, who had been a member of Dr. Stuckey's team in preparing the geological map of Moore County a couple of years ago. Displaying the map, he gave many little-known facts on the clays, shales and other formations which go to make up the county's underpinnings, including some of considerable economic promise.

BOND ELECTION

A 100-acre site for the college, estimated to be worth around $40,000, has been donated by Mrs. C. Louis Meyer, east of the road from Pinehurst to the Southern Pines-Pinehurst Airport.

The bond issue funds for public school construction will be shared by the three administrative units, Moore County, Southern Pines and Pinehurst, on a per capita (per student) basis, with the county system's share permitting quick completion of the high school consolidation program. Union Pines school, now nearly finished, is expected to open next September, and the other two units, along with the college, in September, 1965.

COLLECTIONS

In Pinehurst, the Lions Club is sending out notices of the blood collection to all families in the Pinehurst school district and notices will also be taken home by school children, in an effort to make the collection there a success. (Editorial and letter about the blood program on page 2.)

West Side Church To Have Homecoming Day

The Church of God in Christ on S. Stephens St., in West Southern Pines will have its homecoming service Sunday, November 10, to be followed by dinner in the church dining room. All members, former members and friends of the church are invited.

SUPERIOR COURT

Resident Judge John D. McConnell of Southern Pines, serving his home county on the Superior Court bench during this six-months period, will preside over the regular term for trial of criminal cases, to be held at Carthage next week.

Because of the Veterans Day holiday on Monday, court will open Tuesday, continuing through the week.

HUSBANDS HELD

Three children, aged four, six and 10, were in the house at the time of the shooting, but did not witness it, Chief Seawell said. Mrs. Bennett, who had three older children, none now living here, by a former marriage, was a maid in the Harold Collins home. Her husband had been unemployed.

Coroner W. K. Carpenter of Pinebluff, who investigated both the shootings, here and near Carthage, said that a bullet struck Mrs. Bennett behind the right ear, ranging downward to shatter her jaw, apparently causing instant death.

The second shooting, that of Barbara Alice Vernon Cobb, 23, is being investigated by Chief Deputy Sheriff H. H. Grimm. He said her husband, William Felton Cobb, 24, a tenant farmer, admitted having had the death weapon, a shotgun, in his hands during a quarrel but didn't remember firing it. He also admitted having been drinking.

The shotgun blast hit the lower left side of the woman's neck, killing her instantly. She fell across a bed on her back, her feet hanging over the edge. On the floor at her feet was found a rifle.

In bed in the next room at the time were the couple's four young children, twin girls two years old, and other children three and five.

Cobb, in hysterical condition, told officers she had accused him of not going to work that day, but of "gadding around Southern Pines and Pinehurst, drinking whiskey and beer." He admitted this was true, and that he had come in late. A fried-chicken supper which she had prepared for him was untouched in the room.

One word led to another, he said, till the quarrel became violent.

He was placed in Moore County jail to await grand jury action. Grimm said Cobb has a clean record up till now. In Southern Pines, police said that Bennett has a record of several court convictions.

DRIVER

(Continued from page 1) supplement regular high school driver training and to meet the needs of those young people to whom such training is not available.

Young people who have successfully completed an accredited high school driver training course, or those who plan to take a school course before applying for a driver's license need not attend the newly announced classes.

McDonald said high school students will be required to have written permission from their principal prior to enrollment.

The department representative said persons wanting to attend the classes should apply at a driver licensing office. These are: the fire station in Aberdeen on Monday and Tuesday; the Information Center building here on Wednesday and Thursday; and the fire station in Pinehurst on Friday.

Enrollment forms are available there, he said, and examiners will complete the application and make class assignments.

Applicants must bring with them a copy of their birth certificate.

"I am pleased that the Post Office Department saw fit to extend service to this growing area," Mr. Bailey said. He stayed at Whispering Pines Friday through the first dispatch of outgoing mail in the late morning.

An interesting feature of this mail was a group of 30 "first day cancellations" sought by stamp collectors from the North, Far West, Mid-West and other areas of the United States.

Mr. Bailey explained that collectors learn about opening of new post offices, including such comparatively small operations as the Whispering Pines rural station, from a bulletin that is issued by the Post Office Department. They then send in stamped letters to be cancelled on the opening day.

The Carthage postmaster pointed out that the new rural station will not curtail existing postal service to the area on RFD Route 3, Carthage. Many residents will continue to receive their mail at their RFD boxes on this route, he said. Other residents maintain post office boxes in Southern Pines. Therefore, he said, correspondents need not change addresses for Whispering Pines residents unless informed by individuals that the addresses should be changed.

Magazine Subscriptions Taken By Girl Scouts

Girl Scout Troop 82 is taking new and renewal magazine subscriptions, at special rates, as a troop fund-raising project.

Interested persons are asked to call Mrs. W. T. Huntley, Jr., 692-7462. Subscriptions for Christmas gifts should be entered at once, it was stated.

In these days of "clean" farming, ditch banks are kept clean, fence rows are open near areas surrounding fields and woods are cleared out. This is human progress, but for the wildlife it means less food, less water, less cover and less living space. It also means less wildlife for the hunter.

Junior-Senior Team Wins Powder Bowl Contest; John Daughtry Chosen 'Queen'

By STEVE HASSENFELT

The favored Junior-Senior team romped over the Sophomores-Freshmen, 12-0, in the annual "Powder Bowl" girls' touch football game at Memorial Field Saturday night.

The event was sponsored by the Junior class, with proceeds going to the fund for the Junior-Senior Prom.

The Junior-Senior team won the toss and kicked off, going into a single wing offense. The Sophomore-Freshman team used a double wing formation.

The Juniors and Seniors scored in the first quarter when Susan Huntley broke loose.

During the half-time period, choosing of the "Homecoming Queen" from among the members of the boys' football squad took place, with John Daughtry, sophomore representative, receiving the honor.

In the second half, the game was scoreless until the last minutes, when Mickey Pritchett intercepted a pass and ran for a touchdown.

Arch Honeycutt Succumbs At 71

Arch Honeycutt, 71, of Vass, died Tuesday morning. He is survived by his wife, the former Mattie Crabtree; two sons, Robert of the home and Frank of Vass; three daughters, Mrs. Ruby Smith of Vass, Mrs. Alberta Baker of Lakeview and Mrs. Rose Elle Scarborough of Little River, S. C.; one brother, Charlie of Southern Pines; and three sisters, Mrs. Notie McRae and Mrs. Mattie McRae, both of Vass, and Mrs. Ada Evans of Coolemeec; and 23 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Thursday at the Pilgrim Tabernacle, conducted by the Rev. William Vick. Burial was in the Johnson Grove Cemetery.

Driver Escapes Serious Injury In Smashup

Onix France, of 1200 West Indiana Ave., was injured last evening returning from work when the truck which he was driving skidded and ran into trees on the corner of the Aberdeen-Pinehurst Road where it passes the plant of the Taylor Chemical Company. Mr. France is an employee of the Pleasants Sand and Supply Company where he has worked for 15 to 20 years.

He told officers that another car turned out in front of him and he had to throw on the brakes suddenly, causing the car to skid. Severely bruised, he was rushed to Moore Memorial Hospital, where the injuries, while painful, were found not serious and he is reported doing well.
