

WEST END NEWS and PERSONALS

BY SALLY AUMAN
To Teach

William E. (Bill) Jackson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson of West End, has accepted a teaching position at Charlotte College where he will report the latter part of next month. Always interested in politics, Bill should now be in political heaven where he works for the Bureau of the Budget, the nerve center of the Federal Government in Washington. His office is in the Executive Office Building, right next door to the White House where the politicians of the world come and go.

But Bill is giving up all of this to come to Charlotte because he has always wanted to teach that is what he had in mind when he went into the study of Political Science.

Enthusiasm
He said that on recent trip to Charlotte, he saw so much enthusiasm about the college with every one with whom he talked and the wonderful prospects for its future. He added that in such a heavily populated area, with the community support that is there, it offers a rare opportunity to participate in the moulding of a great institution of university stature.

Well Prepared
For West Enders, it will be nice to have Bill back in his home state. He is well prepared for this teaching position having graduated from Davidson College, received his Master's degree at the University of North Carolina and almost completed his work on his doctorate at Columbia University.

Queen To Be Chosen
At the West End homecoming game Friday night, December 20, at 7:30 with High Falls, the Homecoming Queen will be crowned. She will be chosen from seven high school beauties—Kay Brown, Janice McLean, Judy Williams, Gayle Thomas, Lynda Godfrey, Delores Brewer and Dorothy Caddell. The Queen will be chosen by the student body and she will be crowned by the Homecoming Queen of '63, Clare Cole, now a freshman at East Carolina College.

The contestants will make up the Homecoming Court and they will lead the sock hop in the gymnasium immediately after the game. All are invited to attend.

Speaks on Color
Mrs. Gary Petree spoke to the Woman's Club Thursday evening on color and she urged the members to enjoy the new combinations. She also told of a number of new articles now on the market to help make homemaking a joy. Mrs. Fred Monroe, program chairman, presented the speaker.

Each member exhibited a Christmas arrangement, with Miss Grace Donaldson receiving the award for the loveliest. Mrs. Harold Markham's arrangement was second and Mrs. M. C. McDonald's, third.

Mrs. Bill Poley was hostess to the club at her home with Mrs. Bertha Klouse and Mrs. Claude Underwood as co-hostesses. The Poley home was decorated throughout with exquisite Christmas arrangements. The guests were directed to the dining table where they were served fruit, cookies with Mrs. Harold Markham serving coffee.

Special Guest
Mrs. Anna Cockran, house guest of the Poles of Jacksonville, Fla. and former resident of this community and Club member, was a special guest at the meeting.

Christmas Visit
The high school Future Homemakers, 36 in all, delighted the patients at the Pinehurst Nursing Home on Monday afternoon with Christmas carols, gifts and a visit. These girls have also adopted a senior citizen in the community and will play Pollyanna to him during the school year.

The Future Homemakers will have their Christmas arrangements on display in the Home Economics Department at 7:30 Thursday evening and all adults are invited to enjoy this display.

All these activities are under the direction of their advisor, Mrs. Gary Petree.

Presbyterian Choirs
Miss Dianne Kearns is assisting with the choir at the Presbyterian Church. Mrs. George Cheney and Mrs. Clyde Auman entertained the Junior and Senior Choirs of the church with the director, Mrs. Floyd Upole and Miss Kearns, at a Christmas party Wednesday evening after practice.

Sandspur Club
The Sandspur Club met Thursday evening with Mrs. W. M. Chriscoe and Mrs. North Lewis, hostesses at the Lewis home. The club members made 100 Christmas favors to be used on hospital trays at Moore Memorial Hospital. Each member exhibited a Christmas arrangement and Mrs. James Rector had the most beautiful.

Birth Announcement
Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Scheppegrell of New Orleans, La. announce the birth of a son, David Louis, on November 9. Mrs. Scheppegrell is the former Miss Jean Cox and the grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cox.

Open House
The Rev. and Mrs. Daniel Boone had a Christmas "Open House" at the Methodist Parsonage Sunday afternoon from 2-5:30. Greetings were extended to the more than 75 guests who called. Mrs. Boone greeted her guests and was assisted by her family, the Methodist women and girls of the Youth Fellowship.

Family Night Supper
The Presbyterians launched the season with a family night supper in the church's recreation hall on Sunday. It was truly a joyous occasion with supper, candlelight, fireglow amid holly, cedar and poinsettias. Special guests were the Daniel Boons, the Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Burns, Mrs. M. L. Morris, Mrs. Claude Burkehead, the Harold Wood family and Miss Dianne Kearns, with a friend. Miss Kearns led a number of carols and the Rev. George Cheney gave a meditation.

Deacon Earl Auman remembered the Rev. Mr. Cheney with a gift. Mrs. Z. B. Conrad and members of her circle were in charge of the supper.

"Hi-Lights"
Mrs. Clarence Edson and members of her second year typing class published an excellent edition of "Hi-Lights," High School paper, on Friday.

Dinner Party
The Holly Grove Home Demonstration Club had a Christmas dinner party at the Jackson Springs Community House, with 29 present, including club members, husbands, children and grandchildren. Mrs. George Cheney and Elaine Vest were special guests. Games were played and carols sung which made a most enjoyable party.

WCS Program
Misses Blanche and Alberta Monroe were hostesses to the WCS Monday evening at the Christmas meeting at the Methodist Youth Building. Mrs. Decatur Richardson gave the worship service using the Christmas Story. The program was presented by Mrs. Vivian Tucker who gave two stories, "The Little Watch Girl" and "Little Don and Annie's Prayer." Miss Blanche Monroe summarized the mission study book of the "Christian Family and its Money."

Personals
Mr. and Mrs. Clement Richardson of Greensboro visited his parents, the D. D. Richardsons, on Sunday.

The Hawley Poles had an early Christmas with their family with them on Sunday. Mrs. Paul Davis of Urbana, Va. was here last week and on Sunday she was joined by Paul and the Sam Poles of High Point.

Brother Of Local Man Winner Of Prize For Book

Dr. Charles Hartshorne, professor of philosophy at the University of Texas in Austin and brother of James Hartshorne, of Southern Pines, has been awarded the Lecomte du Nouy prize for his book, "The Logic of Perfection," published in 1962. The prize, presented recently in ceremonies at the Rockefeller Institute in New York City, carries an award of $1,000.

First awarded in 1955, the prize goes to "the best work written in French or English or published in either language which is of particular interest for the spiritual life of our epoch and for the defense of human dignity."

At the University of Texas, Dr. Hartshorne is Ashbel Smith professor of philosophy. As a Smith professor, he is one of 10 faculty members at the University whose salaries are supplemented to $20,000 per year from a fund that memorializes Ashbel Smith, first president of the University of Texas board of regents.

Dr. Hartshorne has been president of our national philosophical organizations. He also has taught at Harvard, Yale, Stanford and Emory Universities, the Universities of Chicago and Washington and the New School for Social Research in New York City as well as at universities in Germany, Australia and Japan. He has written eight books on philosophy, nearly 200 articles and hundreds of book reviews. He has been at the University of Texas for the past year.

Another brother of the local man, Richard Hartshorne, is a professor at the University of Wisconsin.
