Ocracoke - Bound? Here's Schedule Of Ferry Service

North Carolina has stepped up toll ferry service to Ocracoke Island from the mainland.
The ferry Sea Level is now making two round trips daily to Ocracoke from Cedar Island on the Carteret County peninsula. The Sea Level leaves Cedar Island at 6 a. m. and 12 noon and Ocracoke at 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. daily and Sundays. The ferry formerly was operated between Atlantic and Ocracoke, and the crossing required about three and one-half hours. Cedar Island is reached by a State Highway and causeway linking up with U. S. 70 at Atlantic.
Free State ferries between Hatteras and Ocracoke Islands depart every 40 minutes between 4:30 a. m. and 5:10 p. m. from the village of Hatteras, and between 6 a. m. and 6:40 p. m. from the tip of Ocracoke Island. A paved highway spans the 14 miles between the northern end of Ocracoke to the village of Ocracoke. Hatteras Island is accessible via the new Herbert C. Bonner Bridge across Oregon Inlet near Nags Head and Manteo.

The boys go to the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, the girls at UNC, Greensboro.
The students will participate in an Americanism project to provide for high school student leaders in North Carolina the opportunity to study and practice citizenship in a democracy.
The four young people are active in school, church and community activities and are honor students. They were selected because of their mental alertness, physical fitness, enthusiasm, cooperation, honesty, dependability and possession of leadership and citizenship qualities.

Public Hearing On Dam Sites Set

A public hearing on the proposed dam and reservoir projects at Howard's Mill in Moore County and Randleman in Randolph County has been set by the Army's Corps of Engineers for Friday, June 26, at 10:30 a. m. in the Randleman elementary school on Highway 220, south, at Randleman.
The two proposed dams are part of the Cape Fear River Basin flood control and water conservation project in which the New Hope dam in Chatham County—the largest—has already been authorized.
The Howard's Mill damsite is in northern Moore County, only a few miles from the Randolph County line. The lake the proposed dam would create would lie largely in Randolph.
If the dam is constructed, the lake would become the closest large body of water to the Sandhills area, affording a prime attraction for recreation purposes.
