New Sabin Tennis Camp Opens Next Week At Pinehurst

A new summer activity for the Sandhills—the nationally known Wayne Sabin Tennis Camp which has moved from Florida—will open at Pinehurst Wednesday of next week, with headquarters at the Manor Hotel.

Wayne Sabin, former Davis Cup player and outstanding tennis professional, is director of the camp and will supervise all phases of the four-week program—the first of two such sessions to be conducted during the summer. The second session will open July 22.

Thirty "campers," who will live and have their meals at the Manor Hotel, are expected. Boys and girls, age nine through high school age, are eligible for the camp.

The tennis program will be conducted on the clay courts at the Pinehurst Country Club. In addition to daily coaching and drilling, each camper plays two competitive matches daily, one in the morning, one in the afternoon.

Periodic lectures and tennis films give the campers a broad knowledge of the game, and appraisal cards on each camper are sent home at the end of each session.

In addition to tennis, a planned recreation program offers riding, swimming, sailing, fishing, golf and cook-outs. Special evening activities are planned with a feature each night including bingo. (Continued on Page 8)

N. C. Women Play Semi-Finals Today

(Photo, page 19)

Mrs. Geva Callendar of Greensboro, Mrs. Laura Mears of Fayetteville, Marlene Floyd of Fayetteville and Louise Fike of Wilson scored quarter-final victories Wednesday in the North Carolina Women's Golf Association tournament being played at Whispering Pines.

Mrs. Callendar, runner-up five years ago, was a 2 and 1 winner over Mrs. Mary Emma Manley of Asheville, upset conqueror of eight-time champion and medalist Marge Burns, of Greensboro and Whispering Pines, in the opening round.

Semifinals this (Thursday) morning match Mrs. Callendar and Mrs. Mears and Misses Floyd and Fike, with results coming too late for The Pilot's news deadline.

The 36-hole finals will be played Friday.

MAGAZINE'S HOME — Here is the new Southern Pines home of Golf World magazine where the distinctive golf news weekly is now being edited, printed and published, located on

No. 1 Highway Parkway, near the Morganton Road intersection. The familiar Golf World emblem appears on the wall at left of picture. (Humphrey photo)

Area Students Attend Summer Sessions Here

The summer programs for students in Southern Pines and vicinity have begun at the local high school.

Glenn L. Cox, principal of East Southern Pines High School, reports that approximately 130 students are taking advantage of the various programs offered this summer.

The majority of the students are enrolled in refresher courses in English, math, science and social studies, Mr. Cox said. There are approximately 50 students enrolled for credit in these academic areas, meeting five hours per day, five days per week for six weeks. At the completion of the summer term those students satisfactorily completing their work will receive credit toward graduation from high school.

Students from the following schools are using local facilities this summer: Farm Life, Pinehurst, Carthage, Southern Pines, Aberdeen, Vass-Lakeview, West End and Cameron. Mrs. Sue Owens, Herman Brown, Eugene Price and Joseph Chestnut are serving as teachers for the summer courses.

The first of three driver training classes is underway with forty students enrolled. Ralph Foushee and John Williams are instructors.

This training course, now required to receive a driver's license, consists of 30 hours of classroom instruction and 18 hours of in-the-car training. Six of the eighteen hours in the car must be actual driving experience.

There will be another class held in July and one in August with approximately 100 students (Continued on Page 8)

Golf World Magazine Now Publishing Here

Golf World magazine is being published this week for the first time from its new office and printing plant building on No. 1 Highway Parkway in Southern Pines, near the Morganton Road intersection.

Some 57,000 copies of the magazine will be mailed out to subscribers in all 50 states and 60 foreign nations, said Mrs. Lillian Harlow, publisher and advertising manager of the publication founded by her late husband, Robert E. Harlow at Pinehurst in 1947.

Golf World moves here from editorial and printing offices at Pinehurst, with its entire operation under one roof in the new building which has 12,000 square feet of floor space. Printing is being done on a new four-color web offset press. About 25 persons are employed by the magazine.

Other key personnel in the operation are: John O. Jones, editor; Richard S. Taylor, managing editor; Eldon Thompson, vice president and promotion manager; and Clarence Thomas, circulation manager.

B. Q. Perham of Southern Pines was the building contractor. Robert E. (Bob) Harlow, a prominent figure in the world of golf for many years, died in November, 1954.

No formal opening or open house is planned at the building at this time, Mrs. Harlow said.

3 Bloodmobile Visits Slated For Moore Co.

Three upcoming visits to Moore County by a bloodmobile from the Red Cross center at Charlotte were announced this week by the sponsoring Moore County ARC chapter.

On Friday of this week, a blood collection will be made at West End (school gym, noon to 5:30 p.m.)

On Thursday, July 2, the collection unit will be in Carthage (elementary school cafeteria, noon to 5:30) and on Friday, July 3, a collection will be made in Southern Pines (St. Anthony's School auditorium, 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.)

The Charlotte center supplies blood of all types, without charge, to both hospitals in this county, asking only that blood donations from the people of the county equal the amounts used in the hospitals.

RED CROSS FUND RUNS FAR SHORT

Less than half of the $12,994 needed to meet actual expenses of the Moore County Chapter of the American Red Cross has been given in the fund campaign, officials of the chapter revealed this week, making a special appeal for contributions to the 1964 drive.

Funds are needed for the blood program, swimming and water safety instruction and other activities of the chapter.

Contributions should be sent to the chapter's local office at 244 S.W. Broad St.

FISH FRY ON SATURDAY
A fish fry, open to the public, will be put on by John Boyd Post, VFW, at the post home on N. W. Broad St., from noon to 8 p.m. Saturday, for benefit of post projects.

Local Firm Plans Sue Company For Unfair Practices

The Carolina Company Inc., of Southern Pines, doing business as the Carolina Soap and Candle Makers, has filed papers in the office of the clerk of court at Carthage, indicating intent to sue a new corporation called the Handmade Soap and Candle Makers, also of Southern Pines, for allegedly unfair competition or threat of competition, for imitation of plaintiff's name, products and wrapping style, and for use of improper methods of obtaining or attempting to obtain, plaintiff's trade secrets, formulas, business information and manufacturing techniques.

Application for extension of time to file suit was granted by the court, with deadline set at June 30.

Also granted was plaintiff's application to hold an examination of certain party defendants and two of their employees, who plaintiff said were formerly its employees hired away as part of the unfair practices.

Examination will be held at the courthouse Monday at 10 a. m. of Carl D. McSwain and Arthur C. McSwain, who with their wives are named as party defendants, also of the two employees, Walter Frye and Lemuel Tew.

In an affidavit by Charles M. (Jack) Hicks, president of the Carolina Soap and Candle Makers, the defendants are accused of: inducing plaintiff's employees to be disloyal and to betray confidence reposed in them; adopting a corporate name confusingly similar to the trade name long identified with plaintiff's business; copying the unique and distinctive non-functional appearance of plaintiff's products; using (Continued on Page 8)

First 32 Children Will Arrive Sunday At New Camp For Handicapped

Thirty-two physically handicapped children, aged seven to 17, are expected to arrive Sunday at Camp Easter in the Pines, the new facility built by the North Carolina Society for Crippled

Children and Adults, just north of Southern Pines.

The youngsters, who will have normal camping experience as well as special training in connection with their handicaps, are the first of three groups of 32 who will enjoy the camp during three planned two-week sessions. A seventh week will accommodate a group of adult campers.

Details of the camp and its operation were reported in last week's Pilot. In addition to the personnel named last week, Dr. L. B. Daniel, Jr., of Southern Pines, is listed as orthopedic specialist for the camp. Dr. Clifton Davenport, local physician, will be on call for general medical attention.

Robert A. Lassiter of Chapel Hill, executive director of the State Society, is the camp director.

The plant—land, the lake, cabins and remodeled structures, designed by E. J. Austin, local architect—represents an investment of roughly $70,000. While all the Society's projects are financed to some extent by the sale of the familiar Easter Seals, Camp Easter was actually made possible through a number of gifts, only one of which, the dock and pier given by the Sandhills Kiwanis Club, was mentioned in a general story about the camp in last week's Pilot.

Some of the outstanding ones are the paved walkways, given by the Warren County chapter; the four cabins, costing about $2,000 each—given by the Southern Pines Rotary Club, Southern Pines Jaycees, Durham County chapter and Wynn Brothers, of Charlotte; the bath house, given by Dewey F. Bean of Cherryville, with numerous touches added as donations or at cost by W. P. Davis of Southern Pines, the contractor (Sandavis Construction Co.), who is also a director of the State Society; the remodeling and equipping of the small building containing dining hall and kitchen, nurses' quarters, laundry equipment and print shop, by the Orange County chapter; and a flagpole to be erected at the entrance, given by the Moore County chapter, honoring Mrs. Graham Culbreth and Dr. H. A. Peck, whose efforts over a period of years were largely responsible for the establishment of the camp.

This week, installation was made of about 10 sturdy green-painted tables, built and given by the Southern Pines Moose Lodge, stationed near the cabins and cottages, on the waterfront and elsewhere, for picnics, arts and crafts and other activities. Some of the (Continued on Page 8)

Recreation Off To Lively Start In Town Program

The Town's summer recreation programs in East and West Southern Pines opened Monday, offering a variety of supervised activities for all ages from first graders to adults.

On the East side, Director David Page pointed out a new activity not listed in the complete program outlined in last week's Pilot. This is roller skating for ages six and up on Wednesday afternoons, from 2 to 4. For this activity only, he noted, there is a 50 cents fee. Children taking part will meet the activity bus at the park and go under supervision to the rink on Highway 15-501, south of town.

Page said the younger children are responding enthusiastically to the park program conducted by Miss Sandy Fitzgibbons.

More than 150 children turned out for opening of the West Southern Pines program Monday, reports Supervisor Joe Wynn. There is a long list of activities in the West side program, as reported in last week's Pilot.

Try-outs for Colt League baseball will be held at 5:30 p. m. Friday, Wynn announced. All interested boys are invited to be present.

Tennis instruction on the West side will begin Monday at 9:15 a. m.

The West Southern Pines All Stars of the adult baseball League have won their first three games, Wynn reported. They will play on the home field again at 3:30 p. m., June 27.

In its opening game of the season on Tuesday, the West Southern Pines Little League defeated Aberdeen 5-2.

The West Side program starts at 9 a. m. each day and runs to 6:30 p. m.

West Side Pool To Open Friday

The new municipal swimming pool in West Southern Pines will open at noon tomorrow (Friday), Town Manager F. F. Rainey said today. Joe Wynn, supervisor of the West Southern Pines recreation program, will be in charge. A formal dedication program, with members of the town council and others taking part, will be held later, the manager said.

Homecoming Set At Union Church

The Rev. Malcolm C. McIver, Jr., dean of the faculty at the Presbyterian School of Christian Education, Richmond, Va., will be the preacher for the 11:15 a. m. service at the annual homecoming of Union Presbyterian Church, between Vass and Carthage, Sunday, July 5.

The service will be followed as usual by a picnic lunch on the grounds. All friends of the church and former members are invited to join the congregation for the occasion.

The Rev. Mr. McIver is a grandson of the Rev. M. N. McIver, minister at Union Church from 1895 to 1898.

BEWARE COPPERHEADS!

Copperhead snakes—one of the few deadly poisonous species in the United States—are reported unusually prevalent in this area, this year. Several have been sighted within the city limits. The Cameron area reports more snakes than usual. One of the competitors in the recent Elks Golf Tournament was bitten in woods at the edge of the course and received hospital treatment.

Boros Seeking 3rd Open Title

Julius Boros, who plays the professional golf tournament circuit out of the Mid Pines Club here, teed off today (Thursday) at the Congressional Country Club, Washington, D. C., in search of his third National Open Golf Championship.

He was active pro at Mid Pines in the early 1950's and now lives in Florida. The 1963 Open cup has been at Mid Pines for the past year and was sent to Washington recently by Ernie Boros, active pro at Mid Pines and brother of the defending champion.

Another Sandhills golfing name was in the news this morning. Larry Beck, assistant pro at Whispering Pines and son of that club's pro, Avery Beck, was in a threesome who were the first competitors to tee off, at 6:30 a. m. today, on the difficult Congressional Country Club course.

THE WEATHER

Maximum and minimum temperatures for each day of the past week were recorded as follows at the U. S. Weather Bureau observation station at the W E B studios on Midland Road.

— What Future For Area's Schools? —

Officials List Advantages Of Separate Unit

Reasons why the Southern Pines and Pinehurst boards of education prefer merging into a single "city" administrative unit, rather than becoming part of the county school system, were outlined for The Pilot this week by the two superintendents involved—James M. Jenkins of Southern Pines and Lewis S. Cannon of Pinehurst.

The Southern Pines and Pinehurst school districts, each now extending beyond the boundaries of the communities they serve, are at present separate administrative units, each with its own board of education and superintendent.

Recently, the two boards of education announced that they had reached an agreement, subject to a vote of the people, to consolidate the two districts into a single administrative unit which would be independent of the county school system. The boards noted that a special legislative act—to be submitted to the 1965 General Assembly—would be necessary to permit citizens of the two districts to vote on whether or not such a merger of districts would take place.

A vote would also be required to equalize the special supplementary tax for education purposes, now existing in the two (Continued on Page 18)

Consolidation Of 4 Schools Urged—But How?

Aberdeen and West End school patrons, meeting at the Aberdeen auditorium Friday night, made it plain they want to move ahead on their long-planned high school consolidation.

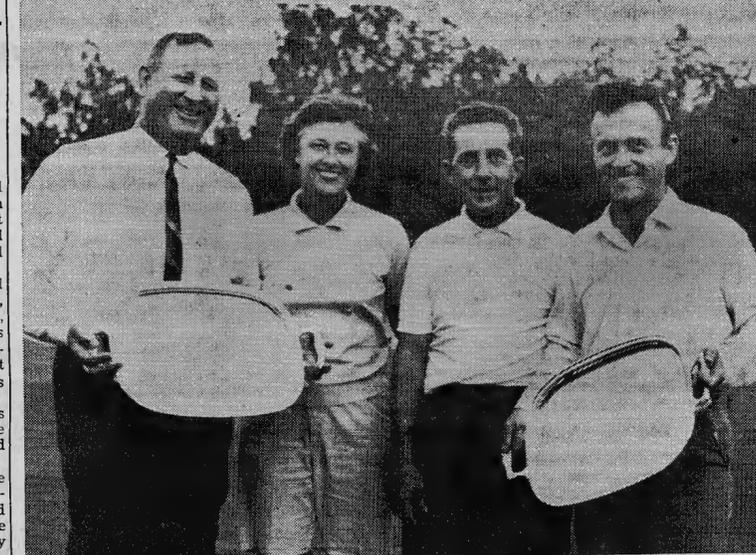

They also showed they would like to have their neighbors, Southern Pines and Pinehurst, join with them, are perplexed as to why this is such a thorny problem but don't want to wait around much longer, hoping this will happen.

The whole merger situation as it involves, or may involve, the four contiguous districts, produced some searching questions.

Two visitors from Raleigh were Dr. J. L. Pierce, head of the Division of Schoolhouse Planning, and A. C. Davis, controller of the State Board of Education. They spoke briefly at the end of the meeting.

The meeting was sponsored by the Moore County board of education, with the State Board representatives present, to fulfill the final statutory requirement before the Aberdeen-West End consolidation is approved.

The approximately 130 persons present included several from Southern Pines and Pinehurst. Jere McKeithen of Aberdeen, chairman of the county board, presided and answered a good many of the questions. (Continued on Page 8)
