Medical Aid For Aged Program To Begin On July 1

The State Board of Public Welfare this week gave unanimous approval to the proposed plan for Medical Assistance for the Aged (MAA) and implementation of the program will be effective July 1.

State Commissioner of Public Welfare R. Eugene Brown stated that estimated cost of the program for 1964-65 is $2,507,000, of which $1,880,000 will be Federal funds. State funds will amount to $313,380 and county funds will be $313,380. It is estimated that the average cost per case will be $147.47.

The program will be administered by the county department of public welfare in the 100 counties under the supervision of the State Board of Public Welfare.

Services provided for persons 65 years of age or older will include hospital in-patient care, hospital out-patient care, and dental care. It is anticipated that the drug program will become effective October 1.

Mrs. Walter B. Cole, Moore County director of public welfare, said today that implementation of the new program in Moore County would cost an estimated $3,350. Under the proposal, counties pay about one-sixth of the cost, the state one-sixth and the rest of the cost is provided by federal funds.

Mrs. Cole said that she has asked the county commissioners to authorize the employment of one more case worker in the welfare office, to handle the additional work the Medical Aid program would impose on the welfare department and also to help lighten the case load for other workers which at present runs higher than is recommended for full efficiency. She said she had not been informed whether this request (Continued on Page 8)

National Guard Will Leave For Field Training

Capt. Ralph L. Horner of Pinehurst, commander of Company C of the local North Carolina National Guard, announced this week that 60 men from Moore County will leave Saturday for 16 days of annual field training at Fort Stewart, Ga.

This year the training will be at company level and for the local tank unit will include all types of tactical exercises including battle drill, attack and defense, sub caliber firing, and night tactical and operations training.

"Contrary to what has been the case in past years," according to Horner, "the company level training is considered a higher level and more advanced type of exercise."

"The grade we receive on our training at Fort Stewart will have a direct bearing on the overall grade our unit will receive for the year."

Captain Horner was pleased to say that "the morale of the unit is very high, the men are looking forward to the training and I believe we will have one of the best encampments in many years."

82nd Division To Give Program Thurs., July 2

The 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg will present "Prelude to Independence Day," a colorful program of precision drill and military demonstrations, on Thursday, July 2.

The program is scheduled for 8:30 p. m. at Hedrick Stadium, and will feature a salute to the 50 states; "muskets in motion," and a demonstration of airborne raiders in action.

Hedrick Stadium is located at Longstreet and Reilly Street. The program is open to the public.

The major upset of last week's 15th Annual N. C. Women's Golf Association Championship at Whispering Pines Country Club came when Medalist Marge Burns, defending champion and eight times winner of the event, was defeated in Tuesday's open round of the championship flight by Mrs. Mary Emma Manley of Asheville 6 and 4. Miss Burns, of Whispering Pines and Greensboro, is a veteran golfer and was bidding for her third consecutive title and ninth win in this event since 1953. She won the medal with a 74.

On the following day, Mrs. Manley was defeated by Mrs. Geva Callender of Greensboro, 2 and 1. Ruth Beck was defeated 4 and 3 by Mrs. Laura Mears of Fayetteville, who had, the day before, won 4 and 2 over Mrs. Laura Lee Menoher of Whispering Pines.

Proceeding to the semi-finals on Thursday were Mrs. Mears who defeated Mrs. Callender 3 and 2, and Miss Louise Fike of Wilson, winning over Marlene Floyd, sister of touring pro Raymond Floyd of Fayetteville. The Fike-Floyd match was very close and both ladies were even par for the 18 holes. The match went 20 holes before Miss Fike finally won, 1 up.

The 36-hole finals were played on Friday, when Miss Fike closed out the match on the 25th hole, winning over Mrs. Mears 12 and 10. She shot a 70 a new ladies' course record at Whispering Pines.

Other prizes awarded to local entries were: 3rd Flight Runner-up, Mrs. Anne Myrtle Bateman, Whispering Pines; 9th Flight Consolation, Mrs. May Gantt, Southern Pines; and 11th Flight Consolation, Mrs. Thelma Loflin, Whispering Pines.

County Tops Blood Quota For Year; 2 Collections Set

The good news that Moore County met its Red Cross blood donation quota, for the first time in several years, in the program's operating year that ended last week was announced this week by J. R. Hauser of Southern Pines, county blood program chairman.

Also announced are two visits of a bloodmobile to the county next week:

At Carthage, Thursday, July 2, 12 noon to 5:30 p. m. at the elementary school cafeteria.

At Southern Pines, Friday, July 3, 11 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. at St. Anthony's Catholic School auditorium.

Mr. Hauser, expressing gratitude to committees and donors who made the past year's record possible—after the county was threatened last fall with loss of the service because of poor support by donations—said that 1,454 pints of blood were given, to surpass a quota of 1,429 pints.

Annual quotas are based on amounts actually used in the two hospitals of the county or by Moore County residents in co-operating hospitals elsewhere, he explained.

The chairman reported that 45 pints were collected in a stop of the bloodmobile at West End last Friday—the last collection of the program's year.

After next week's collections there will be no more in Moore County until September, Mr. Hauser noted.

Municipal Pool Opens To Serve West Side Area

The new municipal swimming pool in West Southern Pines, built with a $35,000 bond issue approved by the town's voters more than a year ago, opened at noon last Friday, admitting numerous children and teen-agers who had lined up outside, waiting for the big event.

The pool will be open 11 a. m. to 7 p. m. daily, under general management of Joe Wynn, supervisor of the town recreation program in West Southern Pines.

Three qualified lifeguards are working at the pool: Chester Goins of Southern Pines, senior guard; and Donald Lahuffman and Connie Boykin, both of Fayetteville, who were employed after qualified lifeguards could not be found locally.

Mrs. Julia Waddell Hinton of Southern Pines is in charge of the admission office, assisted by Mrs. Wynn, wife of the recreation supervisor.

Daily fees of 25 cents for children 14 and under and 50 cents for persons aged 15 and up are charged at the pool. Town Manager F. F. Rainey, who was present for the pool's opening, along with Police Chief Earl S. Seawell, said that the fee is necessary (Continued on Page 8)

RUN DOWN BROADWAY WITHOUT SHOES

32 Area Girl Scouts Visit NYC

By STEPHANIE POLLOCK and JULIA McMILLAN

6 a. m. . . . World's Fair or bust! Thirty-two girls gathered at the W. T. Huntley home—sleepy-eyed, but excited—and boarded their chartered Trailways bus on the morning of June 14. There were girls from West End, Sanford, Vass, Pinehurst and Southern Pines who had all been working and planning for months to make this trip. Mrs. Huntley had previously planned every minute of the sojourn.

At about noon, we reached our first stop which was Williamsburg, Va. Following a most interesting movie at the information center, we took a short tour of the restored area. We then went by William and Mary College and stopped for candy at a shop in the town.

The rest of the day was uneventful, and we arrived in New York at 12:30 Monday morning. Even at that hour the city was not (Continued on Page 8)

AN EDITORIAL

Preyer Is The Man

The second primary contest between Dan K. Moore and Richardson Preyer, for the Democratic nomination for Governor, has staunchly reinforced our conviction voiced before the May 30 voting: Preyer is the man to lead North Carolina and the State's Democratic party in the coming four years. We urge readers to vote for him on Saturday.

The second primary campaign—a rugged testing ground for any candidate—has offered a steadily mounting display of Preyer's strengths and Moore's weaknesses. Consider these points:

—No sooner were the returns in than Moore made a bid for the racists in I. Beverly Lake's camp, introducing a vicious political technique that Lak: himself had even spurned in his unsuccessful campaign.

—In courting Lake's endorsement, Moore let Lake call the tune to such an extent that he would go to Raleigh, if elected, "expecting to seek Dr. Lake's advice frequently," and promising an unknown number of appointments to Lake supporters. Whatever part of Moore that was not already owned by the lobbyists, a chain bank, power companies, highway equipment manufacturers and road contractors was shared with Lake in about as craven a capitulation as the political bargaining table has seen in this state.

—So unsure was Moore of himself that he refused—discounteously and petulantly—to face his opponent and the people of the state in a series of television debates proposed by Preyer, justifying the widely held assumption that Moore had more to hide than to reveal.

—The unsigned smear sheets featuring race, communism and personal vilification came from the Moore camp, whether with or without the candidate's knowledge is immaterial: he attracted the sort of supporter who would use them.

And then these points, too:

—The stature that characterized Preyer, as judge and outstanding citizen, before he filed as a candidate, and that was evident all through the first primary race has continued to rise, rather than fall, during the second primary campaign. What we mean is summed up in a paragraph from one of his TV addresses: "I'm running for Governor because I think I can be (Continued on page 8)
